[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Lieut. Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos of France, who left New York Saturday morning, landed their Bleriot monoplane at Rayak, Syria, at 5:10 o'clock this evening Greenwich mean time [12:10 p.m. Chicago daylight savings time] to complete a world's record nonstop distance of 5,900 miles.

The Frenchmen's feat exceeds by 560 miles the former record of 5,340 miles established last February by O. R. Gayford and G. E. Nicholetts in a flight from England to South Africa.

Rossi and Codos sped from New York to Paris 7 minutes behind Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's time in 1927. After circling Le Bourget field they roared on and passed over Strasbourg and Munich. Near Munich a gasoline leak developed, but the flyers pushed on. They missed Vienna by a few miles, passed over Hungary, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, the island of Rhodes, and Aleppo, Syria.

Land Near Dusk.

It was nearly dusk when the aviators in their silver plane, the Joseph Le Brix, came down on the military airfield at Rayak. The town is 79 miles northeast of Damascus and 150 miles south of Aleppo.

Over Latakia, Syria, the aviators had wirelessed:

"In one hour we will land at Rayak as the result of very abnormal gasoline consumption. Nevertheless, the Joseph Le Brix, despite 1,000 hours of flight and 11 departures with full loads, has linked New York and Beirut in 55 hours. Long live French wings! Long live Syria! Long live France!"

Upon landing at Rayak, the flyers shed their clothes, bathed and then went to bed, dispatches from Damascus said tonight. Before retiring they shook hands with officers of a French air squadron from Damascus, who were assembled at the field to welcome them.

Suffered from Heat.

"We suffered more from the terrific heat than anything else," messages from Damascus quoted them as saying. "If our gasoline supply had held out we would have proceeded to the Persian gulf."

The new world's record was assured when the flyers passed over Aleppo and a much longer flight in view of their diminishing gasoline supply likely would have proved dangerous. In several messages they announced their objective as Rayak, which has a well equipped French military airport. Originally, the flyers had fixed their destination as Karachi, India.

Rayak is 5,630 miles from New York on the great circle route, but obviously the distance flown was much greater—5,900 miles. While the flyers, in their messages, spoke of a gasoline leak, Lieut. Lucien Bossoutrot, who serviced their plane for the flight, said the loss of fuel might have resulted from hot weather rather than a leak.

Backed by Bleriot.

The flight was officially sanctioned by the French government and was backed by Louis Bleriot, France's air pioneer, and the Hispano-Suiza motor manufacturers. The plane was shipped to New York, arriving there June 22. The Frenchmen waited for a favorable opportunity to take off, and while there witnessed the takeoff and return of Wiley Post, who flew around the world, the visit of the Italian armada at New York, and the belated arrival of Capt. James and Amy Mollison.

The plane, which looks odd because of the narrowness of its fuselage, carried 1,770 gallons of gasoline and 125 of oil, the heaviest load that ever took off from Floyd Bennett field at New York on a trans-Atlantic hop. The weight of the fuel was more than seven tons.

Fly "Blind" Over Atlantic.

Several hours after leaving New York, the French plane passed over Sable island near Newfoundland and then made a "blind" crossing of the Atlantic. They dropped a message in Paris which said: "We crossed the North Atlantic from Halifax to Cherbourg without seeing the ocean." The message added that the flyers could not see the tips of the wings for five hours.

The nearest comparison to their route was that of Russell Boardman and John Polando, who flew 5,011 miles from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, in 1931. Their time was 49 hours. The New York-Syria route was the one the Moillsons had expected to follow on their triangular flight from London to New York and thence eastward.

13 MORE SENT TO PRISON IN WAR ON CRIME

Ex-Convict Guilty in Speedy Trial.

Thirteen more criminals were sentenced to the penitentiary yesterday, making a total of 42 prison sentences which have been imposed since the courts here began their intensive war on crime a week ago. In addition, three other offenders were sentenced to the house of correction.

One of the cases yesterday was one of the speediest jury trials ever conducted in Cook county. Another development in the day's proceedings was the special instruction given to the incoming August grand jury by Chief Justice John Prystalski asking for an investigation into perjury as committed in the Criminal courts in behalf of defendants.

Trial Sets Speed Record.

Judge Joseph B. David, one of the eight volunteer judges now sitting in the court during the vacation period, presided over the trial which set a record for speed. Within 20 minutes after its start a colored ex-convict was sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary. The judge, in imposing sentence immediately, said he regretted that the habitual criminal law had not been invoked to enable him to impose a life sentence on Ellis Sebastian, 28 years old, the defendant.

Sebastian was convicted of robbing Joseph J. Merkel, 11712 Lowe avenue, a collector for the Chicago Title and Trust company. He took $91 and an automobile from Merkel on May 6 at Kenneth and Fullerton avenues.

Sebastian, who has served terms in both the Michigan and Indiana penitentiaries, wanted to plead guilty if he could bargain for a lighter sentence. Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and A. L. Hornick refused to listen to his entreaties for a light sentence in exchange for a guilty plea.

Sentence Imposed at Once.

The jury was placed in the box at 12:05 o'clock and by 12:25 o'clock the jurors had returned to court with a guilty verdict. The judge immediately overruled a motion for a new trial and imposed sentence. Prosecutor Mueller suggested that the jury should be complimented for helping to speed up the case by returning such a quick verdict.

"Compliment the jury for what?" exclaimed the judge. "The jurors only performed their proper duty. If the jurors had returned any verdict other than a guilty they would have been a bunch of saps.

"In regard to this defendant, I want to say that my only regret is that I cannot sentence him to the penitentiary for life under the habitual criminal act. He should never again see the light of day."

The prosecution seldom invokes the habitual criminal act when the prior conviction has been in another state because the law compels much technical proof of identification, which ordinarily is not available.

Refers to Perjury Charge.

Chief Justice Prystalski, in instructing the grand jury, had in mind, he said, the charge made last week by Judge Benjamin Epstein that perjury had won an acquittal for three youths charged with a series of robberies. The defendants, Thomas Hirschman, Tony Rizzo, and Sam Larusso, won acquittal on the story told by Miss Dorothy Day, 228 East Huron street, who said they were in a cabaret with her at the time they were accused of holding up a party of motorists. They are to be tried later on other charges.

"I ask you gentlemen to inquire carefully into the charges that perjury is being committed in the state courts," the judge said to the grand jury. "If perjured testimony is being used to gain the acquittal of any person charged with crime, indictments should be returned against those responsible for giving the testimony and persons who suggest or encourage the use of such testimony."

Judge Prystalski was the only one of the judges on duty yesterday who allowed misdemeanor sentences, which were imposed on three youthful first offenders. They were Matthew Kissane, 17 years old; Ernest Conture, 18, and Thomas McDonald, 18, whom the judge sentenced to six months in the Bridewell for burglary of a home. The property stolen had been recovered.

Judges Avert Delays.

Within an hour after the courts opened yesterday five penitentiary sentences were imposed by the judges, but the machine slowed up as the defendants began demanding jury trials. The judges, however, were ready for this maneuver, because a

THE MAGIC CARPET

Hitler Defies Demand to End Austrian 'War'

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The French and British ambassadors were told today by the German foreign office that their governments' "mixing in the German-Austrian impasse was inadmissible" when they handed the foreign office identical notes saying that German propaganda activities in Austrian politics violated the spirit of the four power peace pact.

An official communique by the Wolff agency stated the French ambassador, François Poncet, called with reference to the four power agreement and said that according to the view of the French government German propaganda with reference to Austria in recent days was not compatible with treaty conditions.

Britain Given Same Answer.

The French diplomatic representative was told that the Berlin government failed to see any reason for application of the four power treaty in this instance, and that Germany regarded as inadmissible this interference in the German-Austrian trouble.

The British ambassador, who delivered a similar representation, was given the same answer.

No mention was made here of the Italian stand in this case or of what part Italy played, the statement merely saying that the Italian ambassador was not at the foreign office today.

The covering communique repeated a denial that Germany had violated treaty stipulations. It declared that French and British financiers were interested in seeing the status quo maintained in Austria and accused the powers of bad faith in claiming that a Paris newspaper had printed the text of their demarche before it was known in Berlin. The communique asserted that "Germany considers the incident closed."

The distribution of pamphlets by Nazi airplanes over Austria attacking the government of Chancellor Dollfuss and broadcast speeches in Germany of the same character have aroused anxiety in Britain, France, and Italy.

Cite Treaty Violation.

Governments of the two former countries therefore decided to call attention of the German government to these incidents with the suggestion that they were not compatible with Germany's obligations under the Versailles treaty, in which Germany guaranteed to respect the independence of Austria, nor with the spirit and preamble of the recently signed four power agreement which purports to guarantee peace in Europe for ten years.

Asks to Increase Military Strength.

ROME, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Austria wants to increase her military strength and has privately asked the governments of Great Britain, France and Italy for permission to do so, it was learned in an authoritative source today.

Her present long term professional army, the Austrian government explained in making the petition, limits the number of young men doing military service very narrowly and thus reduces the national spirit among Austrian youth.

A much shorter enlistment period is desired by the Vienna government in order that a large number of men may serve in the army in successive classes, thus considerably increasing the number of trained men at any given time. The army strength of 30,000, prescribed by the treaty of St. Germain, would not be enlarged.

Austrian Border Guard Slain.

The Austrian official news agency described the attack as an ambush by fifteen men resembling members of a German voluntary labor battalion in nearby Kiefersfelden.

Robbers Raid Home and Get $1,000 Cash

Three young bandits invaded the home of Mrs. Josephine Crawley at 7831 Cornell avenue late last night and stole $1,000 belonging to James Delgrosso, owner of the Kickapoo inn, 7901 South Chicago avenue. Delgrosso, a roomer in the Crawley home, walked in during the robbery and was forced to lie on the floor. Mrs. Crawley is his secretary.

The robbers entered the Crawley home with keys belonging to her son, Jack, 19 years old. He was questioned for an hour about this by Sergt. Thomas Dorgan of the Grand Crossing station and released with instructions to return to the station today for further examination.

Boy Kidnaped, He Says.

The youth told an involved story about being kidnaped by the gunmen, compelled to surrender his house keys, and reveal the hiding place of the money.

Mrs. Crawley was reading in bed when the gunmen, unheard by her, opened the door with Jack's keys and slipped into the apartment. They asked her where she hid her money. She refused to tell.

"We've got your son in our car and we'll kill you if you don't," they threatened. She still refused. Then they asked her for the keys to her cedar chest where the money was kept and which they already knew from the son's revelation. Mrs. Crawley refused to give up the keys and the bandits searched around until they found them. They got the money just as Delgrosso walked in. They put $200 in silver in a bed sheet.

Son Tells His Story.

Nearly two hours later the son, Jack, returned home and was seized. He was carrying the bed sheet in which the bandits had wrapped the $200 in silver. He said the gunmen had seized him at 79th street and Woodlawn avenue, forced him to give up his keys, and tell where the money was his, and held him prisoner while they robbed his mother. Jack said they took him to Clearing, where they released him, giving him the bed sheet and $5.

Roosevelt to Offer His Aid, but Not Arms

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—With deep anxiety, President Roosevelt late today learned of the latest violent developments in Cuba. He was summoned from a picnic supper on his vacation estate here to learn from Under Secretary of State William Phillips that Ambassador Sumner Welles had just phoned to tell of rioting and bloodshed in the streets of Havana.

With the President's full approval the American ambassador earlier in the day offered to act as mediator between the Machado government and the rival factions struggling for power.

There was no confirmation here for reports that Ambassador Welles, acting on orders from Washington, had notified President Machado that this government looked for his resignation within 24 hours. But it was considered significant, none the less, that in describing Mr. Welles' proffer of his good offices, the President said that they had been offered to all parties alike and did not indicate any intention of supporting the Machado government.

Chiefs Talk; Mob Acts.

President Roosevelt was informed that the political chiefs had gone into conference on the strength of Ambassador Welles' offer. But the last word received from the Cuban capital via Washington and the state department was that the meeting was still in progress, with no results yet evident and that outside the windows of the conference violence was in full swing.

To questions concerning the possible dispatch of a war vessel or marines Mr. Roosevelt replied decisively in the negative.

"It is the view of the administration that under the Platt amendment the United States has no right to intervene as long as the semblance of a stable government is maintained or at least until American lives are in greater danger than now appears."

Self Rule for Haiti.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Starting a new American policy towards Haiti, the Roosevelt administration today announced an agreement with that island republic calling for withdrawal of all United States military forces and a relaxation of this country's control over Haitian finances.

The agreement was signed at Fort Au Prince by Norman Armour, U. S. minister to Haiti, and officials of the Haitian government.

Under the terms of the pact, the American marine brigade, nine hundred strong, now stationed in that island, is to be removed within thirty days after Oct. 1, 1934. By that time, the agreement stipulates, the insular guard is to be completely Haitianized, under command of Haitian officers. A Haitian commandant for the island force is to be named by the president of Haiti. That official may retain a training board of American officers if he wishes.

Relaxes Financial Hold.

The financial arrangement relaxes the hold taken by this country on Haitian finances to protect American investors against loss on Haitian bonds sold in this country by the National City bank of New York.

Effective Jan. 1, 1934, under the arrangement, the present American control of all island finances will be relinquished. An American fiscal representative, however, will take charge of the Haitian customs service, the principal source of revenue to the island.

The arrangement prohibits extension of the Haitian loan through issuance and sale of a new bond issue, stating that such an extension would be "contrary to the desire of both governments." The present loan of $16,000,000 has been amortized to approximately $10,000,000 and is expected to be completely repaid by 1944.

TROOPS FIRE ON MOB; MACHADO REFUSES TO QUIT

Cuba Placed Under Martial Law.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 7.—Havana blazed with gunfire tonight as federal troops shot the streets clear of rioting mobs which late in the afternoon had surged in the crowded part of the city. The mobs were celebrating a false report of Machado's resignation.

Casualties in the various clashes with rioters were officially reported as 26 dead. Other estimates placed the figures at 82 dead and 166 wounded.

Machado, acting in defiance of a insurrectionist demand that he resign, proclaimed martial law over the entire island after congress, at a special session, had authorized suspension of constitution guarantees for 30 days. An hour following this proclamation, the president issued a declaration of a state of civil war.

Report Spreads Fast.

The false report of Machado's resignation was broadcast this afternoon apparently as a result of the announcement that United States Ambassador Welles and leaders of all political parties had agreed upon a mediation program which called for the president to take a "leave of absence."

The resignation report spread rapidly through the city. Crowds congregated on the Prado, the city's main boulevard, yelling, singing, and waving Cuban and American flags. Cries of "Machado has resigned!" filled the air.

The mob, which grew to many thousands, surged through the Prado to the capitol just at the time congress was considering President Machado's request for authority to declare martial law. From the capitol the crowd swept on into Central park.

Pause at Marti Statue.

The crowds paused in the park to listen to a harangue delivered by an oppositionist orator from the base of the statue of José Marti, Cuba's George Washington. Then with a roar they headed back into the streets leading to the president's palace. They had learned that their information was false. Machado had not resigned.

Up to this point police and soldiers had been unable to control the riotous throngs. Police harried the marchers with clubs and fired thousands of shots in the air without impeding the advance of the shouting thousands.

When the crowd, however, had reached a point in its advance toward the palace opposite the noted Sloppy Joe's bar, about half way between the capitol and the palace, troops stationed about the executive home opened fire with machine guns. At the same time police attending the demonstrators joined in with revolvers. Victims were mowed down in considerable numbers.

Troops Rule City.

Following dispersal of the mob at the palace, federal cavalry, infantry, and police advanced through the main streets firing point blank at all gatherings. The cavalry charged down the Prado firing indiscriminately. The city's hospitals rapidly filled with the wounded and an emergency call was issued for more doctors and nurses. Some of the wounded are being cared for at the American embassy.

Scores of persons draped themselves with Cuban and American flags and pleaded for mercy, but soldiers handled them without pity. Chief of Police Antonio Anciart led six squad cars down the Prado, firing his revolver.

Ambassador Welles, it is reliably reported, will ask that a torpedo boat and destroyers be sent down from Miami tomorrow if the situation has not quieted. He is also reported to be considering recommending armed intervention by the United States though the Roosevelt administration is opposed to this.

British Cruiser Arrives Today.

A British cruiser is scheduled to arrive at Havana tomorrow from Bermuda. Spanish merchants have demanded protection from Ambassador Luciano Lopez Ferrer. They have requested that a cruiser be sent to Havana. Welles conferred with Spanish embassy officials today, presumably in this connection.

It is generally believed that Machado's days as president of Cuba are numbered, despite government reports which state tersely that he will not resign.

Working fast in an effort to tranquilize the situation before the general strike now in progress precipitates an open revolution in the island, Ambassador Welles announced earlier today that his plan of political mediation has already been accepted by anti-Machado leaders. He said 32 government party representatives have signified their agreement, with 16 yet to be polled.

This plan, it is understood, provides for President Machado to take a "leave of absence."

Political leaders asserted that all parties in Cuba were agreed that it would be best for the nation for Machado to quit.

Pedro Goderich, president of the Conservative National party, was to arrive late today from Santa Clara to complete the polling of the remaining representatives of parties hitherto pro-Machado in sentiment regarding their attitude on the Welles formula.

Ambassador Welles pointed out that although the plan of conciliation was suggested by him, it is to be regarded as having been worked out by the Cuban people through their representatives.

Situation Serious.

"The situation is extremely serious and I have so advised the Washington state department," Welles said. "I have offered a solution to the present problems which has been accepted by the leaders of all parties and it is now up to the president to accept. If the solution is accepted the economic revolution will be over at once and the Cuban people will go back to their normal way of living within 36 hours. If my formula is not accepted by President Machado it is impossible for me to forecast what the situation may develop."

Reports of violence came from several parts of Cuba today in connection with the general walkout of the island's transportation employés and tens of thousands of workmen in other industries.

A thousand persons took part in a demonstration at Santiago in which one was killed and two were wounded when police fired into the crowd. Police also used their rifles in Marianao, a Havana suburb, but no casualties were reported.

Police Club Storekeepers.

In Havana earlier in the day police swung their clubs on storekeepers and fired pistols at doors and windows to force the shops to reopen. One storekeeper who reported being attacked said he is a citizen of the United States. In Cienfuegos incendiaries set fire to warehouses and a public school.

Because there is no way to get foodstuffs to the cities as a result of the crippling of the republic's transportation system, residents suffered from a shortage of food. It was almost impossible to buy bread, milk, ice, and meat. Restaurants were closing along with produce markets and bakeries. Foodstuffs which were sold averaged 50 per cent higher in price.

Employés of all departments of the government met late today to vote whether to join the strike. The federated physicians' organization will quit work tomorrow and the National Pharmaceutical association has ordered practically all drug stores to close.

Machado's Side of Story.

HAVANA, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Ramiro Guerra, President Machado's secretary, late tonight handed newspapermen a statement which he asked them to consider "in a spirit of fairness." It read:

"1. It is absolutely untrue that President Machado has resigned.

"2. It is equally untrue that the Liberal, Popular, and Conservative parties have agreed that President Machado's resignation is the only way to settle the Cuban political difficulties.

"3. No members of the Liberal party have asked him to resign.

"4. Just as I am wiring you President Machado is walking through the Havana streets inspecting the police service for the protection of citizens.

"The above facts are all perfectly true, as you can ascertain if you have in Havana a reliable representative.

"It is unfortunate that the sending of misleading information to the United States that afterward was broadcast in Havana provoked the clashes that we all lament, but the government only performed its essential functions and the responsibility shall fall where it belongs."

INSULL FAMILY SILVER PACKED FOR SHIPMENT

Samuel Insull, who exiled himself in Greece to avoid prosecution in Chicago, will soon be dining in some of his former splendor, reports yesterday indicated.

These reports were that Insull's household silver, including Sheffield and Georgian plate, has been packed for shipment overseas. The silver was packed last week in the offices of Samuel Insull Jr. by workmen from the Hebard warehouse, 623 South Winchester avenue. Each piece of silver bore the initials "S. I."

Insull Jr. arranged for the actual shipping. The consignment order was made out to Floyd Thompson, New York City, and reportedly insured for $18,000. Former Justice Floyd Thompson of the Illinois Supreme court, one of the elder Insull's attorneys, said last night that he knew nothing of the silver packing and that he was not the Floyd Thompson of New York mentioned in the consignment.

NORTH SHORE LINE CUTS PRICES ON 60 RIDE TICKETS

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad has announced that, beginning Sept. 1, large reductions will be made in the prices of 60 ride monthly commutation tickets for passage between Chicago and points as far north as Kenosha, Wis.

R. S. Amis, passenger traffic manager, said that regular commuters would find it economical, under the new rates, to park their cars at North Shore stations and ride into Chicago to work.

The old rate between Chicago and Linden avenue, Wilmette, was $12 for the 60 ride tickets; the new rate is $8.58. The contrasting prices at Lake Forest are $14.46 and $10.98. Waukegan commuters' old rate of $16.70 is cut to $13.20. Other stations receive cuts in about the same proportion.

MACHADO STORM CENTER OF NEW CRISIS IN CUBA

Foes Claim He Is Illegal President.

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The contention that Gerardo Machado is ruling illegally as president of Cuba, and that he has assumed the rôle of dictator, exercising his powers without regard for personal rights, is the crux of the political situation in the island republic.

Machado replies that the seat of the whole trouble can be found in Cuba's economic difficulties, and that a solution could be had if members of the opposition would pursue their course in a legal manner.

The general, born of a family long identified with the Cuban independence movement, and himself a participant in the struggle with Spain, was elected president in 1925 after a successful military, political, and business career.

Term Changed to Six Years.

The presidential term then was four years. In 1928, however, the term was changed by congressional action to six years. Standing for reëlection the following year, Machado was successful, extending his term to 1935.

This change in the length of the term, opposition factions contend, was illegal. Machado's foes, therefore, maintain that he has ruled without right since the expiration of the first term.

There have been many rumors that Machado intended to quit his post, but to all of them he has turned a deaf ear, declaring as late as the current month that he intended to hold office until 1935. Court efforts have been made to declare the presidential office vacant. They have failed.

Life Threatened.

There have been many threats against his life and attempts actually have been made to kill him. Dynamite, wired for explosion, was found at a street corner the presidential automobile was scheduled to pass. A soldier exploded a bomb in the executive's palace.

His opponents claim that he has stained his hands with blood, that he has been ruthless in suppressing his enemies, that he has set up a reign of terror, aided by military forces and the police.

Economic conditions, Machado said a little more than two years ago, formed the basis of the Cuban crisis, for the island is a one-crop country—sugar—and "the Latin mind is perhaps quicker than any other to attribute economic ills to administrative faults." His political enemies, he continued, had made capital of this situation.

"My greatest sin in directing the government of Cuba is that I have been too tolerant," he said. "My enemies, nevertheless, have pictured me as a dictator with an insatiable lust for power. That is not true and they know it. I am a patriot, a man of liberal ideals, and as such I could never attain the heights of egotism a dictator implies."

Revolt in 1931.

Two months later his country was embroiled in one of the most widespread revolutions of his régime—the outbreak of August, 1931. Scores were killed before the uprising finally was downed.

Suspension of constitutional guarantees, imprisonment of political offenders—some of them have declared they never knew why they were jailed—and censorship are other talking points of the oppositionists.

The guarantees were restored only recently in Havana province, coincident with the progress of the political mediation efforts of Sumner Welles, United States ambassador. A far-reaching amnesty bill also was passed by congress at the suggestion of the administration and censorship was lifted from the newspapers. All these were points on the opposition reform program.

FORMER WHEATON BANKER INDICTED BY FEDERAL JURY

Monte B. Taylor, former vice president, director and cashier of the First National Bank of Wheaton, was charged with misapplication of approximately $25,000 of the bank's funds in an indictment returned yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton said that Taylor caused false entries to be made on the books of the bank and otherwise manipulated the records through accommodation notes to obtain the money. The prosecutor advised Charles Knapp, receiver for the bank, to start civil action against Taylor, who is said to own considerable property.

Medinah Club Cashier Is Sought for Embezzlement

Municipal Judge Howard Hayes yesterday issued a warrant charging Harry E. Cooper, 5016 Winthrop avenue, cashier of the Medinah Michigan Avenue club, 505 North Michigan avenue, with embezzlement. Cooper disappeared Sunday, according to J. G. Dierkes, manager of the club. An audit showed a shortage of $1,500, he added. Cooper had been employed for four years by the club and its predecessor, the Medinah Athletic club.

ILLINOIS PLANS WITH ROAD FUND GET FEDERAL O. K.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Illinois' plans for spending its share of the 400 million dollars road construction money from the federal easy money public works fund were approved today by Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

The $17,570,770 allotted the state by the public works administration on the basis of population, need, and area is to be spent, according to Mr. Ickes, as follows:

Approximately $4,430,000 for through state federal aid highways, $6,880,000 on extending federal aid highways into and through municipalities, and $6,260,000 for secondary and feeder roads.

The money, to be expended by the state highway department, will be used on roads in all 102 counties.

The distribution of funds among the various types of highway was recommended by the state highway department, Mr. Ickes said. Under the law, however, such recommendations must be approved by the secretary of interior and secretary of agriculture.

FOUR QUESTIONED ABOUT DEATH OF WOMAN IN LAKE

The police last night took statements from four persons who were on an 18 foot motor cruiser Sunday night when Miss Bernice Wand, 32 years old, 4526 Sheridan road, either fell or jumped into Lake Michigan and was drowned.

Those on the craft with Miss Wand were Russell M. Oliver and his wife, Cleo, of 725 East 92d place; Mrs. W. K. Oliver, a sister-in-law of Russell Oliver, and Spencer Barclay, an assistant manager of the Drake hotel. Mrs. Cleo Oliver was the only one who saw the girl fall into the water.

"She and I were on the deck," Mrs. Oliver said. "The others were in the cabin. We were off 54th street when she got up and started to go to the cabin. She fell into the water. I am sure she did not jump. I notified the others and we turned back, but she sank before we could reach her."

Miss Wand, who was a telephone operator at the Drake, came to Chicago from Pawnee, Ill. Her body has not been recovered.

FOURTEEN SLAIN, TEN WOUNDED AS KENTUCKY VOTES

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Fourteen slayings, most of them attributed to quarrels over Saturday's state-wide primary election occurred over the week-end in Kentucky mountain counties. In addition ten were wounded.

Most of the shootings were in isolated communities, attributed by authorities either to intense feeling over county races, to renewal of old grudges on meeting at the polls, and in at least one instance to a quarrel over a liquor deal.

The total was increased to 14 by the deaths today of Brown Strong, 54, in Breathitt county, and Frank Brock, 23, in Bell county.

National guardsmen were on duty in Harlan county during the primary Saturday and one detachment remained there today as tabulation was started. Two of the 14 slayings occurred in Harlan shortly before the primary.

SEEK 21 MILLIONS FOR STRAITS OF MACKINAC BRIDGE

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Congressman Prentiss M. Brown of St. Ignace, Mich., was in Washington today to confer with federal officials concerning the financing of a $21,000,000 bridge over the straits of Mackinac.

ROB ARSENAL OF 6 MACHINE GUNS; SELL TO CUBANS

Automatic Rifles Also Taken.

Athens, Ga., Aug. 7.—(AP)—V. G. Hawkins, deputy United States district clerk, said today that four men under arrest here have confessed they engaged in a gun running venture with arms stolen from the arsenal of the University of Georgia military department and that some of the weapons were sold to "Cuban rebels."

John Fuller, Paul Sorrow and George Kinard admitted today to Hawkins that thay had taken part in two raids on the arsenal, and Otis Goosh, a farmer living near Athens, confessed he had stored part of the stolen arms.

Sergeant Protests Innocense.

Sergt. John David Short, supply sergeant for the university military unit who was arrested several days ago, maintained he was innocent of implication in the theft and Hawkins said he was inclined to believe the soldier's story.

Six Browning machine guns, ammunition, several fifty shot automatic rifles, several twenty shot automatic rifles, and two or three .22 caliber target rifles were stolen in two raids which occured the nights of June 13 and June 27.

Fuller and Sorrow told of running the six Browning guns to Florida, where two of them were sold to "Cuban rebels" who refused to buy the other four, however, because they lacked tripods.

Tell of Filibuster Plans.

The leader of the plot, Fuller and Sorrow said, was a man named Fred Elmore, who represented himself to them as a "commander" in the Cuban "rebel army." They said he told them he was coming to get guns "all over the country" for shipment to Cuba.

The men informed Hawkins they first entered the arsenal the night of June 13 and stole the six Browning guns. On the second expedition, they said, they made away with the four tripods required by the Cubans for sale of the other four Browning guns. They also stole "several square tin boxes."

Dumping these alongside a highway near Athens, the men returned to the arsenal and obtained the rifles, which they took to Goosh's farm and stored in a corn mill.

BOMB WRECKS 5c BEER PLACE IN WAUKEGAN

All Waukegan was jarred this morning by the explosion of a heavy dynamite bomb at Nick Dracos' café, Genesee and Lake streets. It was the second bombing of his place within a week. Both blasts were regarded by police as a warning to him to stop selling 5 cent beer.

This morning's bomb wrecked the interior of the restaurant, shattered windows several blocks around, and caused property damage estimated at several thousand dollars. The blast was so terrific that 2 year old Peter Lambiris Jr. was thrown out of bed in his home a block away.

CAR CONDUCTOR RESISTS BANDITS; SERIOUSLY SHOT

Christian Pederson, 46 years old, of 2725 North 76th court, Elmwood Park, a conductor on a Cicero avenue street car, was shot in the side and seriously wounded late last night when he resisted two robbers at the end of the line at 25th street, Cicero.

As the bandits fled on foot they were fired at by Lieut. Frank Machacek of the Cicero force, who was in the vicinity on his way to work. Later one of the men was reported wounded and hiding in a large coal yard near by. Police started a search of the yards for him. Conductor Pederson was taken to the Frances Willard hospital.

Third Quiz Clears Fiancee In Sanborn Murder Mystery

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The police working on the mysterious murder of Henry F. Sanborn, 44, eastern agent of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, were hopeful tonight that the case would be solved.

Inspector John J. Gallagher, in charge of the Queens county police said, however:

"We have not been able to establish a motive and we suspect no one at this time."

Inspector Vincent J. Sweeney, in charge of city detectives, was more optimistic and that view was shared by Herbert McKennis, the Sanborn family lawyer, who said there was "an opening" in the case.

Clear Sanborn's Fiancée.

Miss Magnhild Almskaar, 27, of Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, fiancée of Sanborn, apparently was exonerated by the police of any connection with or knowledge of his murder. She resides with her sister, Marit, in a furnished room and had been away over the week-end. She was questioned today for the third time since Sanborn mysteriously disappeared on July 17.

At the close of today's questioning she was escorted to the Queens county morgue. There she identified Sanborn's body, and there she met Mrs. James Irving Bush of Great Neck, L. I., Sanborn's niece. Mrs. Bush had arrived to take charge of the body. The two women greeted each other warmly.

Charles P. Sullivan, chief assistant district attorney of Queens county, and Inspector Gallagher, who questioned her, said Miss Almskaar was a willing though nervous witness. She denied that Sanborn's family had objected to their marriage and said the wedding was to have taken place on July 30, but had been postponed until the day after Labor day.

Saw Sanborn July 16.

She last saw Sanborn, she said, on July 16, the day before he left his office in the Woolworth building to "go out to Long island with a man," and never was seen alive again. On July 16, she said, Sanborn had accompanied her to a Connecticut town, where she was to spend a vacation at a camp.

Sanborn met Miss Almskaar during February, 1930, in Chicago, the police said. He made arrangements with a Manhattan concern for her to obtain a position here.

After questioning her today, Inspector Gallagher said she had not given any information that threw any new light on the mystery.

Rumors of Cablegram.

While the police were questioning Miss Almskaar and searching fruitlessly for the third time Sanborn's $27.50-a-month room in the Railroad Y. M. C. A., it was reported a cablegram had been sent to Italian and French authorities, asking them to locate Bancroft Mitchell, son of the former United States attorney general. This was denied, however, by the police and the Queens prosecutor.

The message was said to have asked the foreign authorities to get from Mr. Mitchell any information he might have about Sanborn that might be of value.

Friends Since Boyhood.

Mitchell and Sanborn were boyhood playmates on the same block in St. Paul, police said, and were intimately associated. Receipts for four shares of stock in the Weibel brewery at New Haven, signed by Mitchell, were found in the pockets of the dead man.

Mitchell and a man named Willard McNair are said to have been interested with Sanborn in a business deal involving the brewery stock, the exact nature of which has not been made clear.

Sanborn's body was sent tonight to the family home, Sanborn's Hill, Epsom, N. H. The burial is set for Wednesday.

Mrs. Grant Van Sant, Sanborn's sister, and mother of Mrs. Bush, now lives at Green Cove Springs, Fla. She has been staying at the Riverside drive apartment of Miss Alice Morrow, sister of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, and will attend the funeral.

Still Another Fiancée?

A second woman in the case was said by Assistant District Attorney Krugman to be Peggy Burroughs of 53 Remsen street, Brooklyn. According to Mr. Krugman, it was she who was Sanborn's fiancée. Other authorities and the Sanborn family, however, insisted that Miss Almskaar is the only person to whom the slain man had been engaged.

It was first said that Peggy was a maid employed by the family of William G. Low, and could be found at the Low summer place in Bristol, R. I. There, however, it was denied that any maid of that name had accompanied Mrs. Low from New York.

FIND ASSAILANT OF YOUTH WITH WOUND IN HEART

Police yesterday arrested Casimir Moleski, 36 years old, 1224 North Rockwell street, who they say admitted stabbing Elihu Garmisa, 16 years old, 1326 North Maplewood avenue, in the heart Friday night. Young Garmisa is fighting for life at the Lutheran Deaconess hospital, where his heart was sewed up in an emergency operation by Dr. J. D. Koucky.

Moleski told police Elihu and a number of other youths had set upon him and a companion, John Iwinski, 35 years old, 2553 Haddon avenue, and tried to rob them. Iwinski is also in custody.

Attendants at the hospital said the wounded boy was left there by half a dozen youths who fled.

A Case Where the Bark Is Worse than the Bite

Harry Olmsted, 28 years old, 3200 Arlington street, loaded himself with liquor Sunday and appointed himself barker for a set of false teeth in the dental exhibit at the Hall of Science at the World's Fair. His descriptions of what the teeth could do to red hots were appreciated by the crowds, but jealous professional barkers had him arrested and Judge Joseph H. McGarry ordered him yesterday to pay a fine of $10 for barking without authority.

ARIZONA VOTES REPEAL TODAY; NO DRY TICKET

No Doubt of Outcome of Election.

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Arizona, prohibition leaders conceded tonight, will vote tomorrow to make this state the 21st to approve the 21st amendment to the federal constitution.

No delegates opposing repeal of the 18th admendment were nominated by prohibitionists for the election. Voters disliking the "wet" slate must write the names of their choices upon the ballots.

Four Vote This Month.

Arizona, which repealed its state prohibition enforcement laws last year by a vote of 2 to 1, is the first of four commonwealths to vote this month upon the constitutional amendment. August plebiscites also are to be held in Missouri, Texas and Washington.

The voters tomorrow also will nominate a successor to the congressional seat of Lewis W. Douglas, now federal director of the budget. No Republicans entered the primary field.

Alabama Convention Today.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The state prohibition repeal convention will be called to order here at noon tomorrow to cast Alabama's vote for national prohibition repeal.

The 116 delegates are bound by the statewide referendum that favored repeal on July 18 by a 29,000 majority.

Oregon Ratifies Officially.

CINCINNATI SOCIETY MAN IS FOUND SLAIN BY BRICK NEAR PARK

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The victim of a mysterious slaying, found near an amusement park here last night, was identified today as Oliver S. Baily, 27, prominent both in Cincinnati business and society.

Baily was special representative of an insurance company here and son-in-law of Jesse T. Lippincott, president and treasurer of the Cincinnati Union Stockyards. He was the son of George J. Baily, Cincinnati attorney.

Officers said he apparently had been killed by a blow, struck from behind, with a brick. As they sought a woman and a man they believe were at the scene, the officers were puzzled over a crude map, drawn with pencil, which indicated by a dot the place where the body was found. The map was found near the body.

Detectives said the young man apparently had driven to the place in his automobile, but no car was found there, nor has his machine been located since.

Baily's wife and child were at Lake Placid, N. Y., on vacation, and his absence from home over the week-end had not been noticed.

MRS. ROOSEVELT VISITS U. S. CAMP FOR IDLE GIRLS

Listens to Stories of Individuals.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Eleanor Roosevelt, the lady who has so many things to do, went today to visit 200 girls who have had nothing to do for a long time. She drove her blue roadster over to Bear Mountain park to visit Camp Tera.

That word "Tera" tells the story of the thin legs, the flat chests, the wistful smiles of some of the campers. For it stands for "Temporary Emergency Relief administration," and it indicates, not too bluntly, that these girls have been sent to camp, on federal funds, because they are not working.

It was a happy hour, and a little sad.

Greeted by Shouts.

As the open car wound up the road there were shouts of "Here she is; come quick, she's here." Then more formally the Irish girl, in the white middy blouse and black bloomers, waved her hand and everybody screamed, "Two, four, six, eight; who do we appreciate? Mrs. Roosevelt." Then a lot of good natured pushing and the crowd was in the hall.

On the platform, the wife of the President of the United States, Miss Rudy Jolliff, recreation director for the entire Bear Mountain reservation, and Camp Counselors Marion Tinker, Jessie Mills and Doxie Smith.

On the floor, 200 girls who had once been waitresses or stenographers, dressmakers or clerks, actresses or telephone operators, all were now out of jobs. A few formalities, then they introduced Mrs. Roosevelt; asked her to make a speech.

Prefers to Listen Instead.

"But I'd rather hear what you have to tell me," protested the woman in the plain pink cotton, as she sat on the arm of a chair and chatted.

"What do you like best here?" she launched as an opener.

In the back of the room a slender girl with hope in her brown eyes tugged at her red sweater as she said "I have found peace of mind."

An older woman raised her hand as timidly as a youngster in school. Mrs. Roosevelt nodded encouragement. The older woman found her voice:

"I think we're all happy here."

"Please," the thin voice of a thin little woman cut softly through the crowd as a tiny middle aged woman rose to her feet. "I was so thin when I came here," she said, "and now I have gained ten pounds."

Yes, it made a lump come in your throat.

Camp Reporter Helps.

Sara, who had been a typist, was the camp reporter. She scribbled along in her note book, but was always willing to stop and help me with my notes.

For instance, when the dark girl in the vivid blue dress and the clanking bracelets jumped up and fairly shouted, "I never ate very much, nor slept very well before I came here; but now I am well as can be and so happy," Sara murmured. "That's Bonnie Smith; she's part Mexican and used to be on the stage."

Bonnie knows how to imitate animals, and was crazy to do some imitations for Mrs. Roosevelt, but there wasn't time.

When a Negro woman got up and offered to Mrs. Roosevelt the thanks of the seven Negro girls in camp for their good times, Sara identified her as "Lily Tate," a registered pharmacist and "awful smart."

Hunts Bad News, Too.

Mrs. Roosevelt liked the good news; didn't want any bad news hidden. There had been rumblings of discontent; somebody didn't like the food somebody else had protested that she hadn't been permitted to attend church.

"It's just as helpful, you know," persisted Mrs. Roosevelt, "to talk over the things we don't like."

"But we like it; truly love it," called out a young girl with bright red curls, and everybody clapped.

Mrs. Roosevelt pursued her investigation, later on, in talks with individuals.

"O sure," explained one girl, "some of them said they didn't like the food, but I tell you, Mrs. Roosevelt, they were just communists; that's what they were."

As for the charge that they hadn't been allowed to go to church, the girls rushed up with emphatic denials and statistics about "70 Catholics went to mass yesterday, they had a bus for them," and Jewish girls, Methodist girls, Congregational girls, all joined in the chorus.

Songs of All Sorts.

But before this there were songs. A brisk one all about Mrs. Roosevelt; a foolish little one about a chestnut; and a solemn one about life. It was during this song that a pretty young girl in the middle of the room [you would have picked her out as the most carefree of the bunch] began to cry.

As soon as the ceremonies were over, Mrs. Roosevelt went over to her. Not directly but in a roundabout casual way; asked her what the matter was.

"Nothing," sobbed the girl. It's just that I got a funny feeling in my throat." She wasn't the only one who had that funny feeling.

On the way out Mrs. Roosevelt stopped to talk to the girl with infantile paralysis. She paused at the door while the amateur photographers snapped her picture. She tarried to talk with the directors, eager to learn how many girls got jobs. She found that the average was ten a week.

From Camp Tera Mrs. Roosevelt went to visit four other camps in the park; camps for youngsters and teen age girls.

These are maintained by various charity and church organizations. All in all she visited with about 6,000 girls. These children, many of them orphans, many of them very poor, had the resilience of youth; the happiness of hope. They were very gay.

At the end of the day Mrs. Roosevelt's verdict was, "So far as I can see, they are having a happy and a healthful life. How I wish they might always have it."

Roosevelt Sees China's Envoy; U. S. Money Experts Are Next

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—American relations with China were the topic of the hour here today as President Roosevelt was host to T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister and his government's delegate to the London conference, and Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese envoy to the United States, at luncheon at the summer White House.

The commodity or "rubber" dollar and inflation are to be in the foreground tomorrow when the President receives a visit from James Warburg, one of the American financial staff at the London conference, and Prof. George Warren of Cornell and Prof. James Rogers of Yale, who have been studying, among other economic matters, the possibility of gearing the dollar to the commodity price index.

Trade Accord Is Sought.

Neither the President nor his Chinese guests would go into detail concerning the discussion that took place over the luncheon table, but the talk fitted in aptly with the new course upon which American diplomacy has embarked. A strengthening of trade relations with China would mean another strong card in America's hand. And the President, having failed to sway the nationalistic aims of Europe, is quite willing for the time being to sit back for a while and deal nation by nation with those countries willing to give the United States a quid pro quo.

It may be that China will ask for more credit from the R. F. C. And it is certain that the Nanking government is happy to enjoy the friendship of the United States during the trouble with Japan. But the administration feels, it is reported, that it is worth something to improve the commercial position and prestige of the United States in China, and it is felt further that this can be done and still not arouse controversy anew with the Japanese.

Speculate on Money Talks.

As for tomorrow's talk with the trio of fiscal and economic experts, it has caused speculation concerning inflation and the adoption of the commodity dollar. But to date it is speculation and nothing more. The President still holds, virtually unused, the inflationary powers accorded him by the Thomas amendment to the industrial recovery-public works act.

There has been considerable talk, since the setback on the stock and commodities markets, of his intention to bring these powers into play. But to date he has exhibited no intention of doing so, and the impression here is that he is willing to give the recovery and farm adjustment campaigns further time to effect a positive rise in prices before resorting to the reverse method of clipping the value of the dollar.

Ponders Commodity Dollar.

In fact, it is safe to say that the commodity dollar is more tempting to one of the President's turn of mind than mere inflation. Profs. Warren and Rogers, the former of whom is on the eve of a trip to Europe, are expected to present the result of their studies to President Roosevelt in the form of a report. But again there is little chance that any affirmative step will be taken for some time to come, at least until the President's play in what Mr. Roosevelt likes to compare to a football game is completed, and it is seen whether ground has been gained or lost, and how much.

SHERIFFS URGED TO GUARD CITIES' MILK SUPPLIES

New York May Buy in Illinois.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Reports of growing violence in the upstate milk strike led Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today to telegraph the sheriffs to appoint as many deputies as necessary to "preserve law and order." The governor does not intend to call out the National Guard.

Dr. Thomas Parron Jr., state commissioner of health and member of the milk control board, announced he was ready to widen the area of the New York milk supply to include other states.

May Buy Illinois Milk.

New York inspectors now are in Wisconsin, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and other states ready to act the moment the supply of New York is menaced by shortage.

Gov. Lehman talked with the Republican legislative leaders late this afternoon regarding his recommendation for a legislative investigation to determine whether the farmers desired continuance of the milk control board. The Rpublican chiefs were reported to be lukewarm.

Demand that the National Guard be called out was made on the floor of the assembly tonight as Democrats in both houses introduced resolutions for an investigating committee of twelve members.

Guard Rochester Bridges.

In Rochester a special guard was put on bridges, after reports that the farmers had threatened to dynamite some of them. At Schenectady farmers joined the groups that have been waylaying trucks and dumping out milk. At Sherbourne, in Chanango county, the Dairymen's league plant shut down and agreed not to accept any more milk until the strike for higher prices ends.

MESSENGER ROBBED BY GANG.

Adam Olozowskia, a messenger for the Russetos Ice Cream company offices at 736 Milwaukee avenue, was robbed of $1,317 in cash and $1,058 in checks by five bandits as he left the company offices to take the money to a bank yesterday.

FARMERS FIGHT FOR INCREASE IN MILK PRICE

One Cent Boost Indicated as a Possibility.

The possibility of another increase in retail milk prices in Chicago appeared yesterday as the government prepared the machinery for enforcing the milk marketing agreement already signed by the big distributors and the 18,000 farmer members of the Pure Milk association and approved by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Representatives of the so-called regular distributors and the milk association met behind locked doors in the Hotel LaSalle last night. The topic of discussion was reported to be the amount of increase in basic milk prices to farm producers. After adjournment of the meeting it was announced that the discussion would be resumed today.

Point to Doubled Feed Costs.

At present the farmers receive $1.75 a hundred pounds for the milk that is destined for delivery to consumers in bottles, and the milk marketing agreement provides that no distributors may sell at a lower price than 10 cents a quart. The claim is now advanced that since the basic price was established pastures have dried up and the cost of feed has doubled; and that, therefore, the farmers should have more.

Don N. Geyer, secretary-manager of the Pure Milk association, estimated that the farmer would have to have about $2.25 a hundred pounds to give him a fair return, or approximately 1 cent a quart increase. He added, however, that no definite demand had yet been made on the distributors.

McQueen to Enforce Code.

Meanwhile the government took an important step toward the enforcement of the milk marketing agreement by appointing Will C. McQueen of Elgin field representative of the farm administration here. It will be the task of McQueen, who was founder of the Pure Milk association and its president from 1925 until last March, to compel observance of the milk code. He has already established an office at 205 West Wacker drive.

"Thus far," said McQueen yesterday, "I have been acting in an advisory capacity. The legal obstacles set up by independent milk distributors selling at cut rates have prevented direct action. Still, I believe that the marketing agreement will be found legal and that it should be strictly enforced for the good of all.

Warns of Health Rules.

"The selling of milk at cut rates by roadside stands outside the city of Chicago has a tendency to break down the necessary delivery to the consumers' doors. Besides, Chicago cannot afford to jeopardize health with milk that does not have all the safeguards given by municipal inspection.

"We are working on a plan that should furnish a market under the code for the milk that is going to the roadside stands. Eventually I am sure that every one concerned will see the wisdom of coming under the agreement."

The legal obstacles to which McQueen referred were embodied in an application made by the roadside stand operators for an injunction in the federal court. They maintained that the legislation establishing the code was unconstitutional and also that the code as formulated was unfair in that it would compel the consumer to pay just as much if he drove to the country for his milk as if it were delivered to his door.

Federal Judge Wilkerson, to whom the matter was referred, yesterday continued the case indefinitely when the independents' attorneys announced they wished to file the application for a restraining order in Washington, where service could be had on the secretary of agriculture.

Thus far, by agreement, no prosecutions have been started under the code, which automatically placed all milk distributors under a blanket federal license. The law provides that distributors who violate the code by underselling may be deprived of the right to do business and may be fined $1,000 for each day of illegal operation.

Music Festival for the First Time Has Reserved Seats

Reserved seats for the annual Chicagoland Music Festival went on sale yesterday. The plan of reserving a part of the 100,000 seats at Soldiers' field for the huge festival is being tried for the first time this year.

Thousands of music lovers bought reserved tickets yesterday. They are priced at 50 cents apiece. The general admission tickets, as in former years, will be 25 cents.

The festival will be held on Saturday night, Aug. 19. As only a part of the Soldiers' field stadium will be reserved it is believed that the reserved section will be sold out several days before festival night.

There are two methods by which reserved tickets may be bought. One way is to send a self-addressed stamped envelope with money [money order, cash, or personal check] to the Music Festival department of THE TRIBUNE. The other is to purchase the tickets at THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune tower.

POSTAL REVENUE UNDER NEW RATE DISAPPOINTS U. S.

Postal receipts in Chicago for July, the first month under the return to the 2 cent rate on first class mail for local delivery, were disappointing to federal officials, who had expected the rate decrease to result in greater revenues. The receipts totaled $2,962,400, as compared with $3,066,142 for July of 1932. The receipts also were considerably below those of June this year, which totaled $3,631,843.

When the 3 cent rate was adopted last year department stores and other large business began sending out statements and circular advertising matter by delivery truck drivers to save on postage and it was thought that a return to the 2 cent rate would recover this lost business. However, postoffice officials said the receipts for the first month were not a fair test and expressed the hope that business houses would resume the use of the mails for billing and circular advertising.

Charges Husband Cut Her Fingers with Meat Knife

MRS. OPAS GIVEN MAXIMUM TERM IN MURDER PLOT

Must Serve 1 to 5 Years and Pay $2,000 Fine.

Mrs. Bessie Opas, 37 years old, the mother of two children, was sentenced yesterday to serve one to five years in the penitentiary and fined $2,000 for conspiracy to murder her husband, Marion, a garage owner. Judge Harry B. Miller of the Criminal court imposed the maximum punishment after overruling a motion for a new trial.

Mrs. Opas was found guilty by a jury last week of instigating an unsuccessful plot to kill her husband in order to obtain $30,000 in life insurance money. Judge Miller allowed defense attorneys 60 days in which to perfect an appeal.

Charges Jury Tampering.

Asked if she had anything to say before being sentenced, the defendant charged that Assistant State's Attorney John Leonard Murphy had tampered with the jurors as they deliberated her fate.

"I saw him go into the jury room," she told the judge, "and I think he was carrying my husband's insurance papers. I wasn't as smart then as I am now, or I would have told you about it."

Terming the charges "silly," Judge Miller nevertheless placed under oath Bailiff Walter Kohler, who guarded the jury room, and Prosecutor Murphy, and allowed them to deny the charges. Mrs. Opas was led back to her cell protesting that she had been "railroaded" by the prosecutor.

Mrs. Opas in her original confession, later repudiated, admitted she had hired four youths to murder her husband in order to get the insurance money. The plot went wrong when the husband became suspicious of the youths loitering near his salesroom at 5114 South Racine avenue.

Three Youths Plead Guilty.

The four youths, three of whom have pleaded guilty to the charge, admitted that Mrs. Opas had agreed to pay them $5,000 for the murder.

The three co-conspirators are to have a hearing on Aug. 29. They are Dominick Zullo, 19 years old, 3326 Polk street; John De Salvo, 17, of 3103 West Congress street, and Angelo Masso, 21, of 518 South Central Park avenue. The fourth boy, Jerry Lehman, 18, of 1959 Washburne avenue, will be placed on trial on Aug. 28.

The arrest and prosecution of Mrs. Opas was featured by the wavering of her husband between a desire to prosecute his wife and the announced belief that she was innocent. He climaxed his part in the case just before the trial was completed by going to the side of his wife and kissing her in view of the jurors.

HOLD EX-CONVICT AND WOMAN SUSPECTS IN THREE MURDERS

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Edward Kenny, a former convict, and Mrs. Florence Palmer Flynn, known to the underworld as Three Fingered Flo, were taken into custody in the office of a New York attorney today and questioned at Brooklyn police headquarters in connection with three recent murders.

The murders were those of Mrs. Flynn's husband, another former convict, who was slain in a restaurant on the night of June 27; Mrs. Alice Kenny Diamond, widow of Jack [Legs] Diamond, in her apartment on June 30, and James Dolan, friend and confidant of Mrs. Diamond, who was shot and killed in a beer garden at 142 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, on the night of July 30.

It is the theory of the police that the three crimes are related.

OUT OF TOWN FAIR DRIVE ON; SENDS ATTENDANCE UP

Total for Day Sets New Nonholiday Mark.

Sunday, Aug. 6, 1933, 177,120.
Sunday, Aug. 6, 1893, 16,181.
Total including Aug. 6, 1933 [72 days], 7,758,545.
Total including Aug. 6, 1893 [98 days], 6,945,203.
The Columbian Exposition opened May 1. A Century of Progress opened May 27.

Puzzled by a Monday attendance which set a new mark for nonholiday crowds, officials of A Century of Progress decided yesterday that the big out of town drive is on. Now that the Exposition is about half over in point of time, the authorities feel that the rest of the country is becoming increasingly Fair conscious.

No star attractions which would provide an unusual appeal were on yesterday's calendar. Nevertheless, from the moment the gates opened crowds surged in steadily. At 11:30 p. m. the total paid admissions for the day stood at 145,700, approximately 50,000 more than attended on Monday a week ago.

May Pass 8,000,000 Today.

At that rate the eight millionth visitor will be welcomed to the grounds some time this afternon. The grand total at the close of Sunday was 7,758,545.

Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager, was frank in crediting the influx to out of town visitors and he had some facts to support the statement. He was informed early in the day that 426 extra Pullman cars were hauled into Chicago early Sunday—the largest "extra" haul the Pullman company has had in more than five years.

Week-end railroad travel brought cheerful words from rail officials. D. M. Bowman, passenger traffic manager, said New York Central trains brought 7,721 passengers into the city Sunday. W. J. Leahy of the Rock Island announced the heaviest business since July 4, with 4,100 passengers over Saturday and Sunday. The Illinois Central hauled 6,700 in the same period.

Air and Bus Lines Busy.

Air and bus lines made similar reports. United Air Lines flew 630 persons in and out of Chicago over the week-end. On Sunday the company did the largest day's business in its history, with 173 incoming and 175 outgoing passengers. American Airways also experienced a "best" week-end, carrying 289 passengers. The Greyhound bus line and affiliated companies shattered former records with 8,000 passengers.

So the report of Maj. Lohr that last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday were "best" was not surprising. Sunday drew 177,120, a record, save for the Sunday Gen. Italo Balbo and his Italian flyers were on the grounds. And yesterday brought the largest Monday crowd since Jewish day, July 3, when the grounds were filled with 244,472 persons—the record to date.

"We think it has been demonstrated," said Maj. Lohr, "that never before has a Fair been 'sold' outside the city as has this one. We calculated that if we got a 20 per cent attendance from outside of Chicago we would be getting wonderful results. Today I believe more than 50 per cent of the attendance represents out of town visitors."

Prepare for Farm Week.

As farm week—Aug. 12 to 19—draws nearer plans for the entertainment of a horde of farmers of the nation were nearing completion yesterday. An announcement was made of a long parade down Michigan avenue which had been originally intended only for the Fair grounds.

One feature of this parade, on Aug. 14, will be a flock of 100 sheep herded only by a shepherd dog—a spectacle which has not been presented on Michigan boulevard for many years. Farm machinery and floats will constitute most of the procession, the plan being to exhibit the evolution of tilling the soil mechanically in line with the scientific motif of A Century of Progress. W. H. Cordes of the American Steel and Wire company will be grand marshal of the parade.

On Aug. 18 Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will be the principal speaker in the Court of States. He has chosen a topic for the particular interest of the middle western farmer—"Corn and Hogs."

Havoline Thermometer Has 2,000,000 Visitors at Fair

The 2,000,000th visitor to the 218 foot Havoline thermometer at the Fair was Mrs. Kathleen Davis of Rome, Ga., officials of the Havoline company announced yesterday. Miss Davis, a great-granddaughter of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, visited the exhibit Sunday.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, left for Washington yesterday to ask Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, to speak at the Labor day celebration at the Fair on Sept. 4.

The Midget Village yesterday became the first amusement concession at the Fair to raise the NRA flag. Jack Fine, manager of the village, signed the code Saturday afternoon.

Woman visitors will be given free demonstrations of how to reduce weight and improve their health tomorrow at noon at the World's Fair bathing beach by Charlie White, physical instructor for A Century of Progress. Those wishing to participate should bring bathing suits.

Daily free lectures are being given in the Chinese building at the Fair at 6 p. m., to acquaint the American public with the China of today by comparing it with earlier Chinese customs, explaining the transition in commercial and educational work.

International Fellowship day will be observed at the Fair Aug. 27, the fifth anniversary of the signing of the Kellogg peace pact. Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state at the time, will be present, and Cordell Hull, present secretary, has been invited.

A copy of THE TRIBUNE of May 8, 1893, with much of the first page devoted to news and pictures of the Columbian Exposition, is on exhibition in the United States Crayon company booth at Enchanted island.

A large flag of the state of Illinois was presented to President Rufus C. Dawes yesterday by Miss Margot Atkins of the Junior League, to be flown from the east tower of the sky ride on Friday, which is Illinois day at the Fair.

The 100 boys and girls brought to Chicago by Montgomery Ward & Co., as winners of a voting contest, will spend all of today at the Fair. The last to arrive was Carol Z. Hanson, 8 year old girl from Juneau, Alaska, who arrived yesterday with her mother and ten months old baby brother. The entire party is staying at the Medinah Michigan avenue club.

True to the spirit of the Exposition, which brought it from its Florida home, a night flowering Cereus—known popularly as the "Century Plant"—bloomed last night in the tropical garden outside the Florida exhibit in the Hall of States. While most of the plants have only one bud, the one at the Fair grew three, two of which blossomed. The blossoms are a creamy white, about five inches across and seven inches high.

300 Farmers Travel 175 Miles to Fair for $1 Each

Lincoln, Ill., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Farmers of Beason community near here have found an economical way to enable their families to view A Century of Progress. Lining a cattle truck with benches, thirty persons made the trip to Chicago on Saturday at a cost of a dollar a person for the 350 mile round trip. Leaving home at daybreak they arrived at the Fair as the gates opened and left on the return trip at 9 p. m., reaching their homes at daybreak.

HOPE TO BREAK '93 RECORD WITH FAIR GERMAN DAY

Special trains from various cities will swell the crowd anticipated for German day at A Century of Progress on Sunday, it was announced yesterday, and every effort will be made to equal the record of German day at the World's Fair of 1893, when the attendance surpassed any other date except Chicago day. The majority of German organizations in the city are uniting in the parade and program to be presented in Soldiers' field, with Bernard DeVry as president of the board of directors of the day.

Capt. George H. Weideling will be grand marshal of the parade, which is scheduled to form at Franklin and Randolph streets. The line of march will be over to Michigan avenue, south to 12th street, and into that entrance of the Fair, from where it will pass into the stadium and circle the arena. The festival program there will start at 1 p. m. with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Deutschland Ueber Alles." Musical, gymnastic, and dancing features will follow the two addresses on the program.

Myrtle Takes Up Fan Dance, but She Needs Three Fans

Myrtle, a 22 year old elephant with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, appearing in Grant park, has adopted the fan dance technique of Sally Rand and other World's Fair dancers. She gave a performance yesterday swaying three huge ostrich feather fans before her. The bull elephants of the circus herd went right on eating their hay.

ILLINOIS MASONS TO JOIN IN GREAT VESPER SERVICES

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Dr. Robert Clements, chairman of the Chicago Churchnight vespers to be held in Soldiers' field next Sunday afternoon at 5:30, announced yesterday that the Masonic organizations of Illinois have formed a special committee to coöperate with the general committee for the great service—the opening event of Chicagoland Festival week. Yesterday Dr. G. Haven Stevens, of Danville, grand master of the A. F. & A. M. in the state, wrote of widespread Masonic enthusiasm for the event.

DR. G. H. STEVENS.

"We are grateful," wrote Dr. Stevens, "for an opportunity to participate in such a service of religious affirmation. I sincerely hope that all Masons and their families and friends who are within reaching distance of Chicago next Sunday afternoon will be present at the Soldiers' field vespers. This will be our opportunity as Masons to aid in a cause very close to our hearts."

Special Masonic Committee.

Dr. Stevens' special committee includes Edward Thomas, commander in chief of the Oriental Consistory; Hyde Perce, potentate of the Medinah temple, Mystic Shrine; Judge L. E. Wangelin, of Belleville, right eminent grand commander of the Knights Templar of Illinois; Lyman Thurston, grand high priest of Illinois Royal Arch masons; F. W. Kreuger, grand master of the Illinois Council of Royal and Select Masters; U. J. Herrmann and Robert J. Daly.

Judge Wangelin commented on the "breadth of coöperation" between Protestant churches and groups in arranging the great vespers. He asserted that the service will be "a magnificent gesture which will bespeak the essential unity of American Christianity.

Great Chorus Assembled.

Harry Saulnier, director of the famous flying squadrons, spoke with enthusiasm yesterday of the receptions given his workers in hundreds of the churches of the city on Sunday. The flying squadrons accepted the task of assembling a great chorus of singers from the young peoples' societies of the city and suburbs.

Mr. Saulnier said that a special invitation from the squadrons is simply additional to the general invitation to any or all church young people who desire to participate "in what promises to be the greatest chorus ever assembled in the city." Dr. Daniel Protheroe will direct the chorus. Mr. Saulnier asked that all members of the chorus be ready to take their places in the big platform at the north end of Soldiers' field at 5:15 p. m.

No admission will be charged for the service and World's Fair admission is not necessary for admission to Soldiers' field after 5 o'clock.

Wife of J. P. McEvoy Is Given Alimony Judgment

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady yesterday granted Mrs. Mary B. McEvoy of Highland Park, a judgment at Waukegan for $1,560 against J. P. McEvoy, humorist and playwright, for back alimony payments. Mrs. McEvoy got a divorce at Waukegan in 1922.

NATION'S BUYERS FLOOD CITY; TO SPEND MILLIONS

Wholesale Houses Report Business Booming.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Another promise of good times was brought to Chicago yesterday as thousands of buyers arrived with their families to make purchases and to see the World's Fair. All attendance records for the Interstate Merchants council were broken as the throngs surged into hotels, in and out of the loop, preparing to see and to spend.

In the next few days, executives of the Interstate Merchants council estimate, a total of 25 million dollars in orders for merchandise will be placed with Chicago concerns by this horde of visitors. The computation is based, according to P. W. Kunning, trade promotion director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, on a maximum per capita expenditure of $1,500 by each buyer. Since a large number of the buyers will spend from $12,000 to $15,000, the total estimate is definitely conservative, he added.

Crowds Surprise Officials.

Even in the face of indications that the event would be the greatest in the history of the council, officials here were surprised by the surge of arrivals. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Kunning appeared at the registration desk on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Sherman to find 600 persons waiting to register. Baggage piled high filled the lobby below.

Lists of available quarters were called for. The arrivals were quickly directed to various hostelries, and the mountains of baggage disappeared into elevators or taxis. A steady stream of visitors flowed up to the registration bureau until midday. By 11 a. m. the index cards showed that buyers from 24 states had arrived, and by last night practically every state in the Union was represented, it was said.

Buy Their Christmas Stocks.

Wholesale houses were beehives of activity all day. Dress, coat and millinery houses in particular were swamped. The buyers were in high spirits, stimulated by finding themselves in the maelstrom of business again after the dull depression days, and reports came from everywhere: "They're buying, and buying 'way ahead. Many contracted for their Christmas stocks before the day was over.

"We had expected between ten and twelve thousand buyers," Mr. Kunning said, "but now, at the rate they've been pouring in and the reports we are receiving from various concerns, we feel we can say confidently that there will be about 20,000 buyers in town by tomorrow night. In addition to the big fashion show that runs three nights at the Sherman grand ballroom, there are ten other shows now open in Chicago—gifts shows, jewelry shows, and similar markets.

200 Hotels Get Business.

"It was a big help to us that many wholesale houses extended the courtesy of making reservations for their own customers. One such concern reported to us that it had given business in that way to 200 hotels, scattered all over Chicago and Evanston."

Advancing prices in many lines contributed much to the size of the throng of buyers, it was explained, since the general confidence of an upturn is now widespread all over the country, and merchants are anxious to stock up at the most reasonable terms they can get.

Added to this factor was A Century of Progress, which drew more than the ordinary attendance for the council, it was said, because buyers' families insisted on coming along on this semi-annual trip to Chicago, to view the Fair. The total number of buyers who attended the spring market was 8,700.

Events of Today's Program.

Tonight at 6:15 there will be a round table discussion of the national recovery act and its application to the retail trade. George Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce, will greet the council members at a luncheon this noon at which M. J. Pittsford of Chicago, president of the council, will preside. Both the round table and the luncheon will take place at the Sherman.

BOY KILLED BY TRAIN IDENTIFIED.

The body of a boy killed July 19 by an Illinois Central train at 24th street was identified yesterday as that of Roy Schofield, 15 years old, of Mitchell, Ind. The police were told the boy had run away from home, presumably to come to the World's Fair.

MAYOR INVITES ALL ILLINOIS TO FAIR ON FRIDAY

Mayor Kelly yesterday invited the people of Illinois to visit Chicago on Friday, Illinois day at A Century of Progress. His invitation said:

"A Century of Progress has made elaborate plans to make this day one of fitting significance and interest to the people of the state. Nothing has been omitted to make it truly memorable. Lofty tribute will be paid to the names of Lincoln and the other great leaders of the past. The women of Illinois will be especially honored at a ceremony dedicating a memorial drive named after the first lady of Illinois. Special events will be held for the children.

"Processions and ceremonies will lend grandeur to the day. The greatest body of troops marshaled in Illinois will march in review. Over all will rule the spirit of carnival.

"Gov. Horner has already issued a proclamation designating Friday as Illinois day. Let me add to this proclamation the warm welcome of the metropolis of Chicago to its fellow citizens."

CHICAGO'S TEXAS CLUB TO PLAN FOR DAY AT FAIR

The Texas club of Chicago will meet at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Congress hotel to plan participation in the Texas day program at the Fair on Wednesday, Aug. 23.

Among prominent Chicago members of the club who will be present are Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank; Dr. Leon Green, dean of the law college at Northwestern university; T. V. Smith, professor of philosophy at Chicago university, and William F. Krahl, president of the Krahl Construction company.

Mrs. John Wesley Graham, who is in charge of the production of the opera "Aida" to be given in Soldiers' field that night, will speak and will announce that Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson of Texas has decided to come to Chicago for the Texas day celebration.

RESCIND SCHOOL SLASHES, CRANE ALUMNI DEMAND

A resolution demanding that the school board rescind its order of July 12 providing for drastic retrenchment in school operations, has been adopted by the Crane Evening School Alumni association. Nearly 200 members approved the resolution.

The resolution stated that the economy action arose from misapplied zeal, and that a more carefully considered program should be substituted. The program, the association declared further, affects thousands of adult evening school students, and these, it is added, have already been adversely affected by earlier action.

Suits Are Filed

City Sealer Grein yesterday filed suits against the Monarch Beverage company, 2419 West 21st street, and the Schoenhofen Brewing company, 1900 West 18th street, charging that their beer barrels failed to give full measure. His investigators found four barrels four gallons short of the 31 gallons they are supposed to contain, and half barrels, supposed to contain 15½ gallons, were 2½ gallons short, Sealer Grein said.

"A short time ago," said the sealer, "I sent letters to all Chicago breweries warning them against short measure barrels. Realizing, however, that a shortage of barrels existed, I said that for the time being there would be no objection to the small barrels if customers were billed accordingly. The breweries against which action was taken today failed to do this."

Joseph Hein, secretary of the Monarch company, said that some confusion had resulted from varying dimensions of barrels, but that retailers have been reimbursed for any short measure of which they complained. Officials of the Schoenhofen company said that their barrels were filled automatically and they were unable to understand how any short measure could have occurred.

Watchman Shot in Knee, but Routs Office Robbers

George Frey, 61 years old, 1914 Summerdale avenue, a watchman in the real estate office of Andrew Erback at 1940 Irving Park boulevard, was shot in the knee during a robbery attempt there yesterday. The five bandits fled without loot. Erback and six employés had been lined up against a wall when Frey stepped from behind a curtain with a drawn revolver. One of the bandits fired and Frey fell. Frey, a former policeman, retired about 3 years ago.

SCHOOL SAVING BEGINS; START SHIFTING SEATS

Bids on Junior High Work to Be Received Today.

Workmen employed by the board of education began yesterday to move more than 15,000 seats from 336 portable shanties into vacant rooms in the regular elementary school buildings in all parts of the city. This step toward providing more comfortable quarters for Chicago's school children is the first to be taken in the school board's economy program.

Bids will be received today on the work of converting eleven former junior high schools into senior high schools. John C. Christensen, school architect, has estimated that the job will cost in the neighborhood of $125,000. The saving in cleaning, heating and purchase of new equipment through the abandonment of the portables is expected to more than offset the conversion cost.

60 Carpenters at Work.

The task of moving the seats is being carried out by 60 carpenters under Mr. Christensen. Five school board trucks are being used. The architect said that he hoped to stay within the $10,000 appropriation for the normal shifting of seats and portables during the summer vacation.

The school housing problem in Chicago has grown more serious in the last three years since the board has had no money to complete school buildings. Abandonment of the portables, some of them as old as 25 years, and conversion of the junior high schools will mean that 20,000 more pupils will be taught in senior high schools this fall.

If the board had not adopted its program, 7,500 of these high school pupils would be housed in the ill-ventilated portables and an additional 12,500 would receive their education in extended day sessions and in inadequate elementary school building branches, according to Don C. Rogers, director of building survey for the system.

Use for 375 Vacant Rooms.

In reporting his progress to the school board Mr. Rogers also pointed out that 375 vacant rooms would be filled by returning 7th and 8th grade pupils from junior high schools to elementary schools. Approximately 225 of these rooms are regular classrooms vacant because of population shifts, birth rate decline and other reasons, while 150 are vacant through the discontinuation of instruction in manual training and household arts in the grade schools.

In a letter addressed to Gov. Horner, the seating relief feature of the school board's program was cited by Mrs. Harvey A. Tyler, president of the Chicago Parents' association.

"There are communities in the city of Chicago with a population of 150,000 or more that have no high schools," explained Mrs. Tyler. "The parents in these communities have had to send their children long distances: have them housed in portables to a large extent, and real educational facilities of a high school denied them. The recommendation in the economy program returning the 7th and 8th grades to the elementary schools and the 9th grade to the senior high schools is not only educationally sound but is sound economically."

Letter from Dr. Stone.

On the other hand, the attack on the board's program was being continued by the "Save Our Schools" committee, with headquarters at 185 North Wabash avenue. The committee announced the receipt of a letter from the Rev. John Timothy Stone, president of the McCormick Theological seminary.

"We all regret exceedingly that one of the most important factors in the training of the future generation should receive such a setback as the recent action of the board would cause," wrote Dr. Stone.

The committee continued its policy of organizing protest meetings against the economy program. The gatherings last night included one in the Lawndale temple at which Prof. T. V. Smith of the University of Chicago philosophy department and Harriet Vittum of the Northwestern university settlement were speakers; and another at 1715 Fairfield avenue, sponsored by the workers' committee on unemployment relief, with Homer Davis, principal of the Riis elementary school, as speaker.

MISS FRANCES PERKINS INVITED TO SPEAK AT FAIR ON WOMEN'S DAY

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins was invited yesterday by Mrs. Henry Hardy, chairman of Women's day of Chicago Festival week, to be the principal speaker on Aug. 14 at Women's day at the World's Fair. The telegram of invitation follows:

"The women of the middle west combined with the women of agricultural United States have been signally honored in having next Monday, Aug. 14, assigned to them as Women's day at A Century of Progress. The day is also specially assigned as Women's day of Chicago Festival week.

"We can think of no more outstanding member of our sex who could act as principal speaker of the day and would bring a message to the women of the nation than yourself. Speaking on behalf of the 55,000 organized women of Chicago, business and professional women and all other groups I extend to you an invitation to be with us as the honored guest of the day."

15,000 DENTISTS WELCOMED TO CONGRESS HERE

Need of Childhood Care of Teeth Stressed.

The past, present, and future of man's teeth is the topic of interest to 15,000 dentists who are in Chicago this week for the Chicago Centennial Dental congress, including a diamond jubilee meeting of the American Dental association. The convention was called to order yesterday afternoon in the Stevens hotel with words of welcome from Mayor Kelly and from President Rufus C. Dawes of A Century of Progress.

"The World's Fair of '93," said Dr. Arthur D. Black, dean of Northwestern university dental school and president of the congress, "had the first international gathering of dentists. The resultant coöperative research established the relationship between oral diseases and general health.

"Millions of teeth were pulled a generation ago. Now we are again meeting at a World's Fair in Chicago. Our objective today is to save these millions of teeth. Our congress should produce constructive results.

Effects of Childhood Care.

"There has been no spectacular innovation in dentistry in the last few years, but there have been outstanding developments in our understanding of the effects of childhood care on the adult mouth. One record of fifty children under care for fifteen years showed a loss of but three permanent teeth.

"The average adult mouth today is not in a healthful condition. A research in 1918 showed 75 per cent infected. With proper care in childhood, starting in early childhood, before the first molars appear, there is no reason why every person should not have most of his teeth at the age of three score and ten."

The week's convention is devoted to hearing technical papers, watching demonstration, a general assembly, and exchange of information.

Exhibits at the convention indicate that tortures of the mouth have long been common with man. Among the articles on display are a spike and mallet used in the middle ages for extractions.

See Washington's False Teeth.

At A Century of Progress the dentists saw George Washington's false teeth, a source of pain, annoyance, and embarrassment to the father of his country. When his portrait was painted he removed his dentures and packed cotton inside his cheeks, the dentists were told, so as to restore his natural facial contour.

In the discussion of preventive dentistry Dr. Margaret Smith of the University of Arizona described as "another failure of the Hoover administration" the lack of provision for the removal of flourides from the water of Boulder dam. Flourides, a research in 1931 disclosed, are responsible for mottled enamel in teeth.

KINNEY'S SUICIDE TO BRING ACTION AGAINST ESTATE

Kerner to Sue for Funds Due to State.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 7. — [Special.] — While the funeral of Garrett de Forest Kinney was being planned tonight the state was carrying on efforts to seize his insurance in satisfaction of the $173,832 he was accused of embezzling while director of state finance under former Gov. Emmerson.

Kinney died early this morning in a Peoria sanitarium of complications resulting from a bullet wound he inflicted on himself June 23, the day he was to have appeared in a Springfield court to answer a civil suit for an accounting on state funds. The Sangamon county grand jury returned indictments charging embezzlement a few days after the shooting.

Report Estate Valueless.

Friends here said that, excluding the $150,000 insurance he was believed to carry, Kinney's estate was worth nothing. On this intelligence, Attorney General Otto Kerner announced in Chicago that the state would immediately file a claim against the estate for the amount of the alleged shortage and might start criminal prosecution of others involved.

"We shall file claim immediately against Kinney's estate," Mr. Kerner was quoted as saying. "If there is sufficient seizable property I am confident we can collect. In addition, it is possible we may start criminal prosecution against other individuals in the case. We have no evidence against others as yet, but the inquiry will proceed."

Events leading up to Kinney's successful suicide attempt indicated he had planned it carefully. The local sheriff had been carrying the Springfield subpoena for Kinney in his pocket ten days, claiming he could not find the witness, before he finally served it on the night of June 22.

Severs Business Connections.

During the day, Kinney had severed all business connections, resigning the directorship of two local banks and transferring to unrevealed persons his stock in the Cutler & Proctor Stove company, which he headed. After accepting service to testify in suits filed by the state in both state and federal courts to collect $352,803 of state funds, Kinney asked Mace Tamplin, official of the stove company, to call him early next morning for the trip to Springfield.

But when Tamplin called him at 6 a. m. Kinney had already checked out of the hotel, where he had been living following a separation from his wife, and had gone to the stove plant. There, it was discovered, he had fired a practice shot with a pistol he had borrowed from Sheriff William Lichtweiss, before sending a second bullet into his head.

A watchman heard the shots, rushed to Kinney's office and found him on the floor, still conscious and groping for the gun, which had fallen beyond his grasp. Kinney made a second effort to end his life while the watchman telephoned for help, but was restrained.

Active in Politics.

Kinney was long active in Republican politics. During the administration of Gov. Charles S. Deneen he was a member of the board of control of Pontiac reformatory and in the last two years of the Small régime was chairman and treasurer of the state Republican committee.

Until two years ago, Kinney was regarded as one of Peoria's wealthy citizens. His fortune was estimated between $750,000 and $1,000,000 up to 1931, but he was said to have lost heavily in the crash of the Insull enterprises.

The probe of the Democratic state régime into Kinney's office was reported to have uncovered a total shortage of more than $500,000, but the grand jury held him responsible in its indictment for but $173,832.

Besides his widow, Kinney left one adopted son. It is understood that his insurance was made payable to Mrs. Kinney.

U. S. Indicts Pair Charged with Hijacking a Truck

Rocco Belcastro, 24 years old, cousin of James [King of Bombers] Belcastro, and Orlando Fucciola, 24 years old, 2600 North Kedzie avenue, were charged with robbing interstate truck shipments in indictments returned yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. The government charged that the men hijacked a truck of the Carroll Teaming company and took $15,000 worth of merchandise near Bensenville. Three persons also were indicted on charges of receiving and possessing the stolen goods. They are Dan Barnett, 1324 South Spaulding avenue; Hyman Kadetsky, 550 East 43d street, merchants, and Mrs Rose Atkins, owner of a restaurant at 1210 South Jefferson street.

HUNT ESCAPED PRISONER.

Sheriff William Farmer of Oneida county, Wis., yesterday asked Chicago police to search for John R. Reynolds Jr., who had escaped from the jail at Rhinelander, Wis., where he was held on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

AWAIT WARDEN'S REPORT ABOUT TERRY'S HOLIDAY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—What will happen to Terry Druggan, Chicago beer baron and erstwhile federal prisoner at Leavenworth penitentiary, and the three officials charged with allowing him undue privileges hung today on the report of the Leavenworth warden. That now is on its way to Washington headquarters. Meanwhile, the bureau of prisons is redecorating Terry's cell, freshening it up for his return, it was reported here today. He was snapped back in jail last week when an investigation revealed that while supposedly driving a truck for the prison he was allowed to call at various places in Leavenworth, running his beer business by telephone and visiting his sweetheart, Bernice Van De Houten.

J. V. Bennett, assistant director of prisons, back at his office this morning for the first time since the Druggan episode, spent half of the day conferring with Sanford Bates, head of the prison bureau. They may call the Leavenworth warden to Washington.

JUDGE FINES TWO FUND SOLICITORS FOR DAY NURSERY

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green yesterday imposed fines of $200 each on two fund solicitors for a day nursery operated by the Redeemer's Army, 519 South California avenue. The defendants were Tony Sikora, 1403 North Western avenue, and Max Huber, 1848 Rice street.

Judge Green also instructed Capt. Patrick Collins of the Des Plaines street police to investigate the circumstances under which the organization got a permit to solicit. Mrs. Mary Dale, supervisor, told the judge that the permit was signed by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health. The solicitors got 25 per cent of the contributions which they took in.

Mrs. Dale told Judge Green that the head of the organization was "General" J. L. Maxfield. The nursery, she said, gives free care to 30 children.

ROOSEVELT AID MOVES TO KEEP GUNS FROM GANGS

Factories Agree Not to Sell to Criminals.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The first step in disarming the underworld army of racketeers and gangsters was taken by the federal government today when Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant to the attorney general, announced that machine gun manufacturers are agreeing not to sell weapons to gangsters.

An agreement to sell machine guns only to governmental units has already been negotiated with the Thompson Firearms company, Keenan said, and a similar compact with the Colt company is believed to be in the mail on its way to the department of justice. These two concerns are the major manufacturers in the business, it was explained.

Federal Law May Be Sought.

Keeping weapons out of the hands of criminals has been one of the major objectives in the drive which Attorney General Homer S. Cummings has started on the underworld. It seemed close to realization today through the work of Special Assistant Keenan. A federal law controlling the interstate movement of weapons still may be sought at the next session of congress, however.

While Keenan returned from a tour of the country to announce his success with machine gun manufacturers, Prof. Raymond J. Moley, assistant secretary of state, was moving into a temporary office in the department of justice building, where he will serve as a special advisor in the crime drive at President Roosevelt's specific request.

Moley announced that he would serve only in an advisory capacity to the department of justice and would divide his time between the department of state and the justice department. He will engage in no research and draw up no report, he declared.

Moley's Part in Crime Drive.

The definite part which Moley is to play in the crime drive may not be determined until Attorney General Cummings returns from his vacation in Connecticut late this week. Moley today discussed questions "in a preliminary way" with Keenan and Acting Attorney General William Stanley.

The question of combining the various investigative forces of the government, such as the bureau of investigation, postal inspectors and the secret service will be one of those taken up by Moley, he said today. A central police force to be at the disposal of the states will be another matter for consideration.

Action and not research is the aim of the administration from now on, both Keenan and Moley say. They hope to whip together a program of legislation and also a campaign plan which can be pushed without waiting for congressional action.

MAN DIES OF FALL.

Daniel Shapiro, 39 years old, 845 East 53d street, died in the Edward Hines Memorial hospital yesterday of injuries suffered in a fall June 10.

13 MORE SENT TO PRISON IN WAR ON CRIME

Ex-Convict Sentenced in Speedy Trial.

special venire of 100 jurors had been summoned for duty and they were put right to work. An additional venire of 100 jurors will be on duty today.

Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court, who broke a tradition of the court to assist in the drive on crime, made short work of a jury trial case. William Ross, alias, Howard, was convicted of being one of six men who robbed the guests at a house party given at the home of Mrs. Edna McKeever, 1225 South Spaulding avenue. His motion for a new trial was overruled and he was sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary. The other members of the gang were never caught by the police.

The other sentences imposed in the courts yesterday were as follows:

EARL DYSERT, 25 years old, colored, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter by Judge Daniel P. Trude. He killed George Holiday, also colored, in a fight.

BRUNO LEMPA, 19; FRANK STORUS, 18, and ADAM PODROSIK, 19, sentenced to 1 year to life each for robbing Ignatius Wood, 821 Marquette road, of $5 and his automobile. Judge Miller sentenced them.

WALTER DERUS, 26, also sentenced by Judge Miller, giving the judge a total of five penitentiary sentences for the day, including the sentence imposed on Mrs. Bessie Opas. Derus was sentenced to 1 year to life for burglary of the home of Adam Gansiorek on May 27.

FRANK KRISTOF, 36, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Prystalski for having in his possession American Express travelers' checks stolen in a robbery in the west. He passed one of the checks.

HENRY RICCI, 38, sentenced to 1 to 10 years for receiving property stolen in the burglary of the shop of Antero Bellucci, 3511 West Adams street. He was sentenced by Judge Daniel P. Trude.

SOLOMAN KLEIN, 18, and his brother, HAROLD KLEIN, 20, sentenced to 1 year to life each for robbery of the Orrington hotel, Evanston. Judge Marcus Kavanagh sentenced them and announced that he would start on the trial of other members of the gang today.

GEORGE DAVIS, 28, and WILLIAM JOHNSON, 32, both colored, convicted by a jury of robbing Harrison Douglas of $1 and two packages of cigarets. Judge Ross C. Hall overruled a motion for a new trial and immediately imposed sentence of 1 to 20 years each.

Warden David Moneypenny of the county jail announced yesterday that he has 1,285 prisoners in the jail, more than there have been there in any other August. More than 200 of them are boys of from 17 to 20 years old and about 50 per cent of them are charged with automobile larceny, the warden said. He pointed out, however, that since the advent of beer the U. S. government has had fewer prisoners in the jail, now having only 80 prisoners, as compared to the former average of 200.

SEIZE SUSPECT IN MASSACRE OF 4 AT KANSAS CITY

Agents under Melvin H. Purvis, head of the United States bureau of investigation, yesterday seized Louis [Doc] Stacy, 209 South 7th avenue, Maywood, for questioning in connection with the recent massacre of two Kansas City policemen, a federal agent, and a federal prisoner.

Stacy was questioned in the office of Mr. Purvis and then sent to the detective bureau for the night.

It was reported that federal agents have traced a number of telephone calls from a gangster hangout in Kansas City to Stacy. The massacre occurred in front of the Kansas City Union station when an attempt was made to free the federal prisoner.

U.S. GETS CUSTODY OF TWO MORE TOUHY SUSPECTS

William Ford and James Wagner, suspected of being members of the Touhy gang of kidnapers, who were seized Thursday by the police, were turned over to federal authorities yesterday to be questioned in connection with the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., St. Paul brewer.

Ford and Wagner were taken before Judge Prystalski earlier in the day on writs of habeas corpus. The police were ordered to enter charges against them or release them by 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and at that hour the police gave them over to the custody of Melvin H. Purvis, local head of the United States bureau of investigation.

It's easy to see why Chicago and Cook County are swinging so sharply to BUICK . . .

In Chicago and Cook County, buyers of motor cars priced between $1000 and $2000 are turning in rapidly increasing numbers to the sound, sure value of the new Buick Straight Eight.

During 1932, 33.5 percent of all the men and women who bought cars within Buick's price range here, selected Buicks. Surely, a remarkable record! But during the first seven months of 1933, that figure has increased to 53.5 percent. In other words, more than half of all the buyers in this field are choosing Buicks; the remainder are dividing their patronage among ten other makes of eights!

It seems almost unbelievable, doesn't it, that one car should so completely dominate such an important section of the motor car market in America's second largest metropolitan area? And yet when you know the new Buick Eight—when you understand how much this car has to offer in fine motoring over a long period of time—it is easy to see why Chicago and Cook County are swinging so sharply to Buick.

In the first place, the new Buick Eight is a decidedly modern car, both in appearance and in action. It has the wind-stream styling so essential to any car which asks public approval these days. And wind-stream styling as it is seen on Buick is neither a modification of an old style, nor a make-shift. It is a harmonious new design, from the narrow, V-shaped radiator to the smooth, sweeping panel which makes the rear view so unusually attractive.

Bodies by Fisher give Buick a big advantage in appearance—and in comfort—and in beauty of interiors. Furthermore, because it has bodies by Fisher, Buick is the only car in its price group with the new, individually controlled Fisher Ventilation System. That in itself is sufficient to make many buyers prefer this car.

Obviously, Buick is modern-to-the-minute in appearance and in body construction. And it is equally modern in chassis design and in the way it performs.

Buick's Valve-in-Head Straight Eight engine is considered by many motorists the most remarkable power plant ever developed for a motor car. This engine is exceptionally smooth and silent. It is swift, flexible and powerful. In addition, it is noted for its uniform reliability and sturdiness—for its ability to deliver upwards of 200,000 miles of fine, economical transportation.

These are qualities offered by the new Buick Eight. And because they are qualities which thoughtful motor car buyers everywhere are seeking, Buick is winning a larger portion of the sales in its price range than it has ever enjoyed before. Decide now to make your next car a Buick Straight Eight. It will give you far greater satisfaction than any other automobile at or near its price.

MINERS BALKING AT FRICK PITS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Fail to Heed NRA, Own Officials.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The situation in southwestern Pennsylvania, where thousands of miners have refused to go to work, despite the truce effected by President Roosevelt, led Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, tonight to send Edward F. McGrady, a deputy administrator and labor contact man, to Uniontown, Pa.

He is to meet in conference delegates from all the local unions, and is to make it plain that under the agreement the men are asked to go back to work not only by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, but by the U. S. government itself.

With an estimated 60,000 men on strike last week, Mr. Lewis and John D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal company, estimate that 20,000 had gone back to work. This was about the number forecast by Mr. Lewis yesterday as the result of the first day's resumption. He reports that the employés of the Pittsburgh Coal company are going back to the mines tomorrow, and resumption in central Pennsylvania is expected to be general.

Company Union an Issue.

The great difficulty in Fayette county is held by the union chiefs to center in the H. C. Frick Coal company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, which operates mines in that county. The unions hold that the strike was the result of the setting up of a "company union" by the Frick company and a refusal to deal with the United Mine Workers.

In the temporary peace agreement signed up last week by operators in the strike area, by heads of the United Mine Workers, a separate agreement was made with the Frick company. The Frick concern declined to recognize the union to the extent of signing up the main agreement to which President Lewis of the United Mine Workers was a signatory. Through Thomas Moses, its president, the company signed an agreement with Recovery Administrator Johnson, as acting for President Roosevelt.

NRA headquarters reports from Uniontown, Pa., are that a communistic element among the strikers is circulating posters and dodgers declaring that the separate agreement was a triumph for the Frick company. In addition, one cause for the demurring is said to be the fact that the Frick peace treaty calls for delay in the method of puting check weighmen to work at the tipples to check the coal for the men as it comes from the pits.

Others Avoid Delay.

The other operators who signed up for the temporary peace terms, until the codes are established for the industry, stipulated that check weighmen should be employed as soon as desired by the miners. The truce with the Frick company agreed to the employment of check weighmen, to be elected at an election in which all miners should be allowed to vote.

The board of arbitration set up by the coal peace treaty met today. Chairman Gerard Swope was not present. The other members, Louis E. Kirstein and George L. Berry, went over the situation with Mr. Lewis of the mine workers and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

The issues in the strike are expected to be taken up without delay. Hearings start Wednesday on a code for the coal industry—twenty-five separate codes have been presented by as many different groups, and the hearings are expected to take three days.

ASK MINERS' RETURN

Brownsville, Pa., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A call to striking miners to reconsider their refusal to resume work under the Roosevelt truce tonight presaged a showdown between leaders of union locals and higher officers of the United Mine Workers of America.

While charges of alleged communistic agitation flew through the soft coal fields as thousands of workers turned a deaf ear to pleas to return to the mines, William Feeney, president of district 4, United Mine Workers of America, called a "reconsideration" meeting for tomorrow morning.

Immediately Martin Ryan, local union leader, sent word to his followers—the officers who voted Saturday night against acceptance of the truce—to refuse to attend the meeting.

Ryan assailed Feeney and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, charging they had tried to "trick" the striking miners by not accurately presenting terms of the truce.

With the issue drawn between national and district officers on one side, and Fayette county local union leaders on the other, the soft coal regions were quiet tonight as they awaited the arrival tomorrow of Edward F. McGrady, assistant labor administrator of the recovery administration.

The charges of communistic agitation were raised after only 6,000 to 10,000 of some 60,000 strikers went back to the mines today in accordance with the terms of the truce effected by President Roosevelt. Ryan flatly denied the accusations that radicals were responsible.

Taken to Home

Floyd Andrews, 2 years old, was apparently recovering yesterday from the effects of a three story fall from the stairs in the rear of his home at 3018 Flournoy street. The boy was given two pennies on Sunday evening and started to a store to buy candy. He tripped at the top of the stairs, fell through the railing, and struck the ground below. After X-ray photographs had been taken at a hospital, he was taken back to his home yesterday.

NATIONAL C. OF C. HEAD COMPARES NRA TO FOOTBALL RULES

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Henry I. Harriman of Boston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said in an address today constitutionality of the sweeping provisions of the national recovery act is nothing to worry about.

"The country will not stand for legal technicalities which will impair the upward trend of business," he asserted before the Western Retailers' conference here. He likened reforms in business in the present program to reforms in football.

"When I used to play the game," he went on, "we could use our fists, kick, bite or anything else and get away with it. Now it's an open game and all the old fouls are banned. From now on business will play according to fair rules set up by the industries themselves."

COMPANY OFFERS 1,500 JOBS; 15,000 RUSH TO APPLY

Thirty-six traffic policemen were required to handle a throng of 15,000 men and women who appeared at the plants of the Curtiss Candy company at 337 East Illinois street and 349 East North Water street in answer to the company's advertisement for 1,500 experienced candymakers.

Although the advertisement was for women workers only, nearly half of those in the crowd were men. Women's dresses were torn and a number of the applicants were bruised in the rush for the employment office.

Officials said that the extra help was needed because the company had accepted the provisions of the national recovery code. The candy plant employés will be put on four six hour shifts.

ASK WAGNER RETURN TO TAKE UP WORK OF LABOR ADJUSTING

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The national mediation board of the NRA, modeled on the war labor board, effected preliminary organization today and laid plans of action when permanent organization is completed.

This afternoon an unsuccessful effort was made to get in touch by trans-Atlantic telephone with Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the board, who was reported to be in Geneva, Switzerland. It is hoped to reach him tomorrow.

Four of the seven members were present at the meeting—Walter C. Teagle, Dr. Leo Wolman, John L. Lewis, and Louis E. Kirstein. Gerard Swope and William Green were absent. They will attend a meeting tomorrow and there will also be present Simon H. Rifkind, secretary to Senator Wagner.

Messages came into Gen. Johnson's office that certain organizations are attempting to convey the impression that they are sponsored by the administration in their attempts to charge merchants and manufacturers for the use of the blue eagle.

GRANT 2 MILLION WAGE BOOST TO 15,000 WORKERS

Western Electric Signs Re-employment Pact.

A $2,250,000 increase in pay for 15,000 men and women employés of the Western Electric company was announced yesterday as the company signed President Roosevelt's reëmployment agreement. A number of other big Chicago concerns joined the ranks of those who have pledged themselves to maximum hour and minimum wage scales under the national recovery act code.

The increase for Western Electric company workers averaged 11 per cent for all employés on an hourly rating and salaried employés up to $3,240 a year. The new rates date from Aug. 1, it was announced, and the total increase in the company's pay roll will be approximately $2,250,000 a year. About one-half of this pay roll increase, or $1,125,000, will go to 7,500 employés in the Chicago area.

10,720 New Pledges Received.

F. L. Roberts, district manager for the department of commerce, reported that 10,720 additional pledges to conform to the NRA code were received yesterday from business concerns in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa. The total of acceptances to date is 92,062. Of these, 11,661 are Chicago concerns employing 491,472 workers.

The names of 876 Chicago companies were added to the honor roll in the United States courthouse yesterday by C. P. Scheel, assistant postmaster. These concerns employ 121,083 men and women.

Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil company [Indiana], announced that as an initial step in carrying out the reëmployment agreement the forty hour week will be put into effect in all general offices, refining offices, sales offices, and in the offices of all the company's subsidiaries, pending the time necessary to put details of the new schedule in operation throughout these units.

Some of the offices are already on the 40 hour schedule, it was said. Just how many extra employés will be needed under the new system has not yet been determined.

Other Big Code Signers.

Other large Chicago concerns entering the code standard yesterday were Armour & Co., with 40,000 employés; Pure Oil company, 8,000 employés; Walgreen Drug company, 5,000 employés, and the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, 1,655 employés. Rusnak Brothers, a furniture concern, and the Goldenrod Ice Cream company issued announcements that they had signed the reëmployment agreement and had put the new code into effect.

All factory workers employed by the Calumet Baking Powder company, whose working time has been reduced from 40 hours to 35 hours per week under the reëmployment code, will continue to receive the same rate of weekly pay they formerly received, according to P. W. Swan, general superintendent.

Representatives of a score of industries were meeting in Chicago to draft codes for submission to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the recovery act. The Chicago Laundrymen's association was forced to adjourn a session because approval of their code had been rescinded in Washington Saturday. The code had provided for a minimum wage scale of $5.67 for a forty-five hour week in the south, with somewhat higher pay for workers in the north.

Others Hold Meetings.

Ice Cream manufacturers, bus operators, retail grocers, dental laboratory operators, pastry cooks, internal combustion engine makers, inland boat builders, and many other industries were in session at various hotels. Many industries have already had codes accepted and the meetings were for the purpose of instructing members in technicalities of procedure under the new standard.

R. I. Randolph, director of operation and maintenance of A Century of Progress, returned from Washington where he had a conference with administrative officials of the code. He said he explained that most employés at the Fair were already receiving union wages and that the Fair, being a noncompetitive and temporary organization, hardly needed a code. He expects a decision from Washington in a few days, he said.

Superior Judge Charles A. Williams granted an injunction to Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, representing eleven leather goods manufacturers, restraining a number of communistic organizations from interfering with the manufacturers' employés. The court was informed that the companies were enlisted under the national code and that the employés were satisfied with the wages they were receiving, but that the radical organizations persisted in trying to foment trouble among the workers.

Druggists to Meet Today.

A mass meeting of the local drug industry will be held at 3 p. m. today at 32 West Randolph street. The meeting is being held under the auspices of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association to discuss the recovery act, particularly as it affects the drug industry.

The National Funeral Directors association has completed drafting of a code which will be submitted to Washington, according to an announcement. Minimum wages of $15 for a forty hour week are included in the code.

NRA WORKS FOR BOOT AND SHOE TEMPORARY CODE

Peach, Sugar, Wall Paper Men Also Heard.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—The national recovery administration today took charge of efforts to draw up a temporary code acceptable to the boot and shoe industry. So far the industry itself has been unable to get together on wages and minimum hours.

Reports from other parts of the code field indicated that California cling peach growers might get a specified price three times that prevailing last year; that beet growers were strongly opposed to an international sugar marketing agreement; that the price of corsets is likely to go up 25 per cent if wages remain level and a much shorter work week is given employés, and that labor in the wall paper industry is seeking better terms than manufacturers and wholesalers are willing to grant.

A board from the recovery administration, headed by Robert T. Stevens, was given the task of reconciling, temporarily, the regulations for the boot and shoe trade. C. C. Williams, deputy administrator, retains supervision over the permanent code formation.

Oppose 35 Hour Week.

It is expected that the temporary agreement will be based largely on the blanket, or presidential, code, but with several amendments. Manufacturers are said to oppose a 35 hour week, demanding 44 hours, and are positive that one of less than 40 hours can't be established.

The National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association has recommended a 40 hour week, with permission to operate 48 hours during rush seasons. Minimum wages would be $15 in cities and $14 in rural sections for men; $13 in cities and $12 in rural sections for women. Deputy Williams was said to have suggested to Stevens that this was a fair code for temporary use, but the manufacturers in small towns argue that they should pay employés $2 a week less in each classification than their city competitors pay.

Proposed Peach Pact.

Under the proposed peach pact, which is tentative until accepted by the industry, growers would receive $20 a ton, minimum. Last year they got $6.50. The farm administration said this would mean an increase of 2 cents a can to consumers, or about 10 per cent.

This agreement, however, would limit the peaches marketed in California to 2¼ million tons. Any excess would remain unharvested, to be paid for at $15 a ton even if the owners let them rot. The packers would be assessed $2.50 a ton to furnish a fund to pay for the unused surplus. The farm administration made up this agreement after the growers and canners had failed to compose differences.

Sugar Growers Differ.

The National Beet Sugar Growers association, through President Charles M. Kearney, announced that it would oppose any international agreement that would restrict domestic production of sugar. Most of the groups catering, in the raw, to the American sweet tooth, are reported ready to set quotas for beet and cane producers in the United States, Hawaii, Philippines, Puerto Rico and Cuba.

A hearing on the general sugar agreement will be held Thursday and there will be a discussion on Aug. 16 of the two codes set up by the cane sugar refiners and the beet sugar men. These vary widely.

Object To Wage Discrimination.

During a hearing on corset makers' troubles it was asserted that representatives of the industry were willing to pay even more than the $14 minimum for men and $13 for women, but wished a 40 instead of a 35 hour week.

Rose Schneiderman, member of the labor advisory committee of the NRA, objected to the women workers getting less than men and called the $13 minimum "cruelly low."

Waldeman Kops, president of the Corset and Brassiere association, said the manufacturers would write in an agreement to keep wages up while reducing hours to 40 a week, but that this would make $1 worth of corset cost $1.25.

In the wall paper men's controversy, union workers demand a 30 hour week for machine workers and 40 hours for others. The manufacturers would make 40 hours a minimum, with exceptions. Also the unionists demand a flat weekly wage, while the manufacturers plead for minimum hourly rates as low as 30 cents. Hearings are to continue tomorrow.

A Soup Taster Can't Work at His Profession at Home

George Ververka is employed as a soup taster by a soup canning company. On Aug. 8, 1932, when he came home from work, his wife, Jeanette, of 2500 South Spaulding avenue, set a plate of her own soup before him, she stated yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Circuit court. George looked at it, shouted, "What, more soup?" and then picked up the plate and threw its contents in her face, she charges.

SPOT ON SATURN MAY BE RESULT OF METEOR HIT

Scientists Make Use of It in Research.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A terrific collision between a giant meteor and the planet Saturn was advanced today by naval observatory astronomers as a possible cause of the huge white spot that appeared on the planet early Saturday.

The spot appears to be about the size of the earth, nearly 8,000 miles across, but that does not mean that a meteor as large as the earth hit Saturn, astronomers said.

The spot as seen from the earth is probably a cloud of dust in the atmosphere that surrounds Saturn. Such a cloud might have been produced by the fall of a huge meteor or by a giant volcanic eruption from inside the planet. The dust cloud might be considerably larger than the meteor or eruption that caused it.

Used to Check Rotation.

The white spot, standing out plainly against Saturn's yellow background, is being used by astronomers to check up on the exact speed of the big planet's rotation.

Measurements from the last two spots that appeared on Saturn, which is nine times the diameter of the earth and weighs about 100 times as much, although it is not proportionately as heavy, have shown that it is spinning much faster than the earth making a complete revolution in ten hours and about seventeen minutes. The last two spots appeared in 1876 and 1903.

The rotation check-up is not easy, because the spot can be seen only three hours at a time and may disappear soon when the dust cloud becomes spread throughout the planet's atmosphere.

What the astronomers can see is only the dust cloud in the atmosphere because their telescopes can not penetrate through the atmosphere to the planet itself. Mars is believed to be the only planet whose surface has been seen by astronomers, all others being veiled by their atmospheric blankets.

May Not Be Solid Mass.

Saturn is only about one-tenth as dense as the earth, which means it may be gaseous or liquid instead of solid, but a volcanic eruption still could take place on it, the naval astronomers pointed out.

The earth may have undergone collisions with meteors in the past that could produce just as much of a disturbance in its own atmosphere, the astronomers added.

Saturn is surrounded by its famous rings, composed of dust particles, and has eight or nine "moons" or satellites. It is second in size only to Jupiter, and is about 745,000,000 miles from the earth when it approaches nearest.

CANADIAN POLICE SEIZE 300 MEN IN HUNT FOR KILLERS

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 7.—(AP)—More than 300 men were freed by police here today after spending the night and part of the day in crowded cells while officials searched for three gunmen who shot and killed Constable George Lenhard.

The constable was shot while he was examining a north side dwelling last night. Police failed to obtain a clew to the identity of the slayers.

The full city force was augmented by more than 30 Royal Canadian mounted police and railway police in the man hunt.

TWO BABY GIRLS ABANDONED BY FATHER IN DEPOT

Two baby girls were abandoned yesterday by a poverty stricken father in the Rock Island station at 95th street. An explanatory note attached to the babies' carriage identified them as Elizabeth Louise, 2½ years old, and Patricia Barbara, 17 months old.

"I am unable to take care of my two children any longer, as I am out of work and alone," the note said. "My wife hates the children and will not care for them. She goes out with other men and seldom comes home at all. Two months ago she tried to drown them." The elder child talked with police, but said that she could not remember the address of her home.

A newsboy at the station summoned police after noticing that the children had been unattended for more than an hour. A bag found beside the carriage contained an assortment of clothing for the children. The two baby girls were taken to the St. Vincent's orphanage.

British Flyer in Iceland.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 7.—John Grierson, British aviator, arrived here today from the Faroe islands on his flight to New York. He and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh are counting on the gasoline supply at Angmagsalik, Greenland, to refuel their planes. The supply is only sufficient for one plane. Lindbergh flew from Scoresby Sound to Angmagsalik yesterday.

Grierson, who is making a leisurely flight along the northern route, left Thorshaven, the Faroes, at 4:45 a. m. today [Chicago daylight saving time] and arrived here this afternoon.

Lindbergh, accompanied by his wife, flew east over the Greenland ice cap on Saturday, and yesterday hopped from Scoresby Sound to Angmagsalik, through fog and rain. Their next objective is Akureyri, Iceland.

The fuel at Angmagsalik has been promised to Grierson, and Gov. Oldendow fears there will not be enough for both planes. If not, Col. Lindbergh may be forced to call off his trip to Iceland. There is plenty of gasoline at Scoresby Sound, supplied by the Danish explorer, Lauge Koch, if Lindbergh could return there. Lindbergh's supply ship, the Jellinge, is at Angmagsalik, and the next fuel supply, which is aboard the ship Gertrud Rusk, will not be available until the end of August.

Transport Plane Falls in Detroit Street; 7 Hurt

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Seven passengers escaped with bruises when a transport plane of the American Airways corporation, crashed in a street near the city airport this afternoon a few minutes after it had taken off for Chicago. Pilot J. L. Huber was in a hospital tonight with cuts and bruises about the head and shoulders. The entire forward section of the plane, the left wing and the undercarriage were wrecked. Ralph Snoke, airport supervisor, said one or more of the three motors stalled at an altitude of about 100 feet.

NAZIS BAR USE OF LIPSTICK BY GERMAN WOMEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—An official order was issued today by Chancellor Hitler's Nazis forbidding women the use of lipstick, powder puffs, and eyebrow pencils. Nazi party authorities at Breslau have instructed doorkeepers to bar women using artificial aids to beauty from Nazi meetings or entertainments.

The Rev. Ludwig Muenchmeyer, a member of the reichstag, in an address at a Nazi assembly at Nuremberg today, said that every Jew who seduces a German girl ought to be punished by death.

The political police today arrested three Germans aboard a liner at Hamburg for making disparaging remarks about the new Nazi government while visiting in a foreign country, according to the Berlin Tageblatt.

GIANT STRIDES OF NAZI MOVEMENT STIR SO. AFRICA

Hitlerism Sweeps Former German Colony.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Aug. 7.—The government of the Union of South Africa is seriously perturbed by the giant strides the Nazi movement is making in the mandated territory of southwest Africa, formerly a German colony.

A few months ago the movement attracted only the irresponsible elements among the Germans in the territory, but the growing strength of Hitlerism in Germany is being reflected in the growing number and aggressiveness of the Nazis in the former imperial colony.

Try to Boycott Jews.

The return of Germans who had been vacationing in Germany has so inflamed the Nazis in the territory that responsible elements are afraid to speak out against the movement.

Attempts have been made to boycott the Jews and Jewish children have found the Nazi Swastika emblem drawn on their school books. Pan-German speeches have been followed by window-smashing and other disturbances.

These and other signs of the growth of the Nazi movement are being watched anxiously here, where it is felt they will seriously retard the granting of a greater degree of self-government to the territory.

Racial Dog Fight.

Southwest African politics has now become a racial dog fight among the English, Dutch and Germans, and the South African government has been pushed into the uncomfortable position of having to be the peacemaker and the discipliner of he Nazis.

The situation is deplored here all the more because the Germans had every thing to gain by moderation and were well on the way to winning constitutional reforms. Among these were the recognition of German as a third official language in the territory, alongside English and Afrikaans.

But the reforms agreed upon cannot be introduced because they were conditional on internal unity in the territory, and that is now gone.

Hindenburg Stirs Flames.

The flames of Pan-German enthusiasm in southwest Africa mounted today with the receipt of a letter from President von Hindenburg to the chairman of the Deutsche Bund. Replying to the congratulations of German settlers, the aged president wrote.

"I wish to thank you for your expressions of allegiance. It is with much satisfaction that I note you still have faith in the future of Germany. Thank you for all your true national faith in Germany."

Governor Predicts Florida Will Vote Wet 2½ to 1

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Gov Dave Sholtz of Florida, here to review Florida National Guardsmen at Camp Jackson, today predicted his state would join the repeal ranks by a large majority. "I believe," he said, "that Florida will vote wet by a majority of two and a half to one on Oct. 11."

Aviation Notes

Air transport companies operating under regular schedules in the United States carried 195,874 passengers, 650,875 pounds of express, and flew 22,904,511 miles during the first six months of 1933. The passenger traffic for the period is slightly less than that carried during the same months of 1932, but every other phase of the air transport operations increased.

The number of passenger miles—representing one passenger flown one mile—increased for the six months of 1933 to 64,382,359 from the 54,534,746 flown in 1932. This indicates that, while the number of passengers flown has decreased from 217,588 in 1932 to 195,874 in 1933, the passengers have been making longer trips by air.

These reports were compiled by the department of commerce, aeronautics branch. Only domestic air lines operations are included.

When J. J. Jacobs, an automobile dealer of Sacramento, Cal., arrived at his home from Chicago at noon one day last week he presented his wife with a copy of that morning's Chicago Tribune. The copy was an early edition he had purchased here at 11 o'clock the previous evening before stepping aboard a United Air Lines transport at the municipal airport. The distance from Chicago to Sacramento is flown in speedy new Boeing transport ships in thirteen hours.

Sunday visitors who stop at Curtiss Reynolds airport in Glenview will be able to see the weekly flying circus which is presented by the North Shore Airways. The first of these was held last Sunday, with six acts, including a slow race between a parachute jumper and an autogiro, formation flying, stunting by Clarence Clabaugh, and "Crazy flying" by Capt. Richard Granere, Canadian war ace. Parking places around the field are provided without charge.

Forced landings of all interstate scheduled air transport craft due to mechanical trouble or to bad weather hereafter will be reported to the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce. Announcement of the new regulation, which is an extension of the department's efforts to reduce the number of accidents by providing additional data on conditions which result in trouble for operators, was made yesterday by Assistant Secretary of Commerce Ewing Y. Mitchell.

"Each mechanical forced landing," Mr. Mitchell explained, "is a potential accident which may result in serious injury and loss of life, as well as financial loss to the operator. The information obtained from these reports will be made available to the operators and manufacturers, without divulging names or places, for the purpose of assisting them in eliminating mechanical failures."

AGREE TO SETTLE CLAIMS AGAINST REALTY DEALER

Creditors of Edmund F. Lindop, Oak Park real estate operator, who filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy without listing his interests in an estate left by his grandfather, yesterday voted to settle their claims of $160,000 for 40 cents on the dollar.

Garfield Charles referee in bankruptcy, thereupon dissolved an injunction restraining Lindop and the Chicago Title and Trust company from disposing of Lindop's share in the estate of the grandfather, E. C. Cummings. E. H. Johnson, the trustee in the bankruptcy case, discovered Lindop's interest in the estate and obtained the injunction.

Lindop listed liabilities of nearly $1,000,000 and assets of $2,400.

FLYING TACKLE OF HOLDUP VICTIM CATCHES ROBBER

John E. Berg, owner of a jewelry store at 3405 West North avenue, yesterday pursued and brought down with a flying tackle one of a pair of holdup men who robbed him of jewelry valued at $2,000. The other robber escaped with the jewelry, however. The captured man gave his name as Thomas Allen, 159 West Goethe street.

Berg and his wife were in the shop when the robbers entered. They bound Berg's feet and hands with rope and tied his wife to a chair, and then fled with a tray of jewelry. Mrs. Berg bent over and untied her husband and he took up the chase.

The robbers separated and ran in opposite directions. Berg followed Allen and caught him at Central Park and North avenues.

WOMAN SLAIN BY COUSIN WHO KILLS HIMSELF

Family Friend Is Shot by Roomer in Home.

Michael Risi, 32 years old, yesterday killed his cousin, Mrs. Anna Mazzonne, in her home at 728 South Oakley avenue, shot Joseph Scarfaro, a friend of the family, and then turned ley boulevard, shot Joseph Scarfaro, a wound which caused his death hours later in the county hospital.

Risi was a roomer in the Mazzone home. Tony Mazzone, a chef, husband of the slain woman, told police that Risi was a religious fanatic and apparently had misconstrued an innocent friendship between Scarfaro, who had been friendly with the Mazzones since boyhood, and Mrs. Mazzonne.

Both of Victims Singers.

Scarfaro, who is 25 years old and lives at 613 South May street, appears occasionally on local radio programs as a singer of Italian ballads. Mrs. Mazzonne also was a singer before her marriage. She was 28 years old and had two children, Frank, 9 years old, and Conchetti, 7. They were out at play at the time of the shooting.

Scarfaro called at the Mazzonne home yesterday afternoon and sat down at the kitchen table to play a game of solitaire. Mrs. Mazzonne was preparing supper.

Opens Fire with Pistol.

Risi, coming home from work, saw them. He went to his room, got a revolver, and returned and opened fire on Scarfaro. Scarfaro, shot in the chest and shoulder, ran to the street calling for help. He was taken to the county hospital, where physicians said he probably will recover.

Supervising Captain John Stege led a squad of detectives to the house. They found Mrs. Mazzonne lying dead on the kitchen floor, shot in the head. In an adjoining room Risi was found. He had fired a bullet into his head and was unconscious.

FREED IN COURT

Because he saved the life of a cellmate in the Sheffield avenue police station, Carl Flobeck, 31 years old, 921 Addison street, a masseur, was discharged and commended for his quick thinking yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Town Hall court. Flobeck had been arrested Sunday for disorderly conduct.

He awakened from a sleep Sunday night to find his cellmate, Thomas David, 22 years old, 600 Montrose avenue, hanging by his belt from a cell bar. Flobeck summoned aid, cut David down and revived him by artificial respiration.

"Your act warrants your complete discharge," Judge O'Connell said. "I want to congratulate you. Go back to your work, but use the alcohol for rubbing purposes and not for drinking."

2,000 IDLE GO TO WORK TODAY CLEARING WEEDS

Crews Also to Start on Street Repairs.

Two thousand men from the ranks of the idle will start work today, according to Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, to clear the pollen bearing weeds from vacant lots in Chicago before the hay fever season starts. The men will be paid by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, but will be supervised by city foremen.

The men will be assigned to the 200 weed growing lots that the commissioner already has listed for attack. Their instructions will be to pull the weeds out by the roots as the city hasn't the funds with which to purchase sickles and scythes for them. They will concentrate on the ragweed, cocklebur, burweed, marsh elder, and blue grass.

May Call 2,000 More.

"If the work of these 2,000 men is satisfactory," said Commissioner Hewitt, "I'll ask for 2,000 more. With that force we should be able to destroy all the weeds in the vacant lots, alleys, and other grass plots around the city before the hay fever season sets in, which is about Aug. 15."

Besides the announcement for the hay fever sufferers, Commissioner Hewitt had a statement for the automobile owners in Chicago. He said that 700 men would be added to the bureau of streets today to work on street repairs. Twenty-five crews will be assigned to work on pavements that are badly in need of repair.

$3,000,000 Funds Available.

The city has approximately $3,000,000, collected in city vehicle license fees from automobile owners, for use on street repairs. Work customarily starts in the spring, but because of the strike of teamsters and chauffeurs the city has had only from 78 to 96 men employed on repairs. With the strike fully settled, the commissioner decided to extend the street repair activities.

Materials for the repairs have been bought, the commissioner said, some at prices lower than they have been for a decade. He stated that many of the men who will go to work are laborers formerly employed by the city.

U. S. WINS STAY OF STONE OFFICIALS' RETRIAL ORDER

Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Struett appeared yesterday in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and obtained a stay of the mandate that sent the case of five former officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate concern, back to the District court for retried.

Mr. Struett also obtained certification of the record and announced that he had been given authority by the attorney general to petition the United States Supreme court to review the case. The government holds that the Court of Appeals erred in reversing Judge Charles E. Woodward's decision.

The former Stone officials had been sentenced to ser e 15 years in prison and to pay fines of $20,000 each on charges of using the mails to defraud. The Court of Appeals reversed the ruling and remanded the case for retrial on the grounds that Judge Woodward should have allowed the defendants to introduce into evidence appraisals of the so-called Lawsonia development sponsored by the company. Judge Woodward also erred, the Court of Appeals held, in not admitting to evidence audits offered by the defense.

The defendants are Henry F. Norcott, former president of the Stone company; Harold D. Bennett, Charles P. Packer, W. Scott Carroll, and Leslie Needham, all former officials of the company.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MR. HULL IN THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

Cordell Hull, secretary of state, back from London, visited President Roosevelt at Hyde Park and it is understood that American foreign policy was discussed in detail. Thus far Mr. Hull's administration of his department has commended him to Americans who believe that the best diplomacy makes the least trouble and adjusts trouble to the best interests of the United States.

Other ideas long prevailed in the state department. It has been regarded as enterprising to make trouble for the United States where none was or need be, and to extend the activities in all directions, regardless of the consequences to the American people. Thus American diplomacy was becoming a glutton for everybody's business but its own. There was considerable of the delusion of grandeur in it and much ambition for international reputation seeking gratification at unknown cost to this country.

A great deal of ill will, of which the American people are conscious they are the target, was provoked by the needless intrusion of American policy where it did not properly belong. Under such inspiration the United States, without the desire or consent of its people, became the world's greatest moral tall talker and was found interfering without any possible profit to itself in various disturbed quarters of the earth. It may take several years of prudent conduct to remedy the damage done in Manchuria alone to the American reputation.

American diplomatic action became notorious for its snap judgment and bad guesses. The sudden precipitation of its moralities and the downrightness of its dictates generally put it far out in front of any coöperation it could have relied upon and left it the victim of conspicuous failure.

The subsidence of these tendencies since the change of administration has been noted as a happy omen of a possible change in procedure. So far as is known no nation has had a brisk note from Mr. Hull telling it how to conduct its foreign affairs. It is said that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull believe that American preoccupation should be with South America, to be as helpful as possible without being meddlesome and to turn the relations of North and South America into channels of good will profitable to all concerned.

Cuba is a disturbing element just now in the relations with Latin America and will require tactful procedure. Cuban government is in a bad way. The politics of the island produces as undesirable a situation as Cuba has known since it got its freedom. An aggravation of the evil might force the hand of the United States. Aside from this dilemma the United States is in a good position to demonstrate the sincerity of its policies in this hemisphere. Mr. Hull may adhere to the doctrine that the interest of the United States is the first business of the state department. That will be a revolutionary change of idea, but nothing but good will come from it.

MISS RAND AND MR. DRUGGAN WON'T STAY IN THEM.

These are brisk times, momentous days, but all other problems yield to the great question of how to keep Terry Druggan in prison and Sally Rand in her clothes. Presumably Terry is in again at Leavenworth, but no one can be sure of that. When Mr. Druggan does the Count of Monte Cristo it's pronto. There's no agony of digging and doubt. He can do in fourteen minutes the work of Edmond Dantes' fourteen years.

Miss Rand is even harder to convince, although some determined policewomen and policemen have made up their minds to do so. Even as Mr. Druggan has a way with jailers, Miss Rand has a way with judges. In court she is at once the object of judicial sympathies. The policewomen appear implacable. The male police are merely dogged. Their law tells them that public appearances may not be made without apparel, and fans are not apparel. Sally's press agent must be incoherent, if not hysterical, with delight. It is understood that the circus press agent also is out on the golden bough. His inspiration is an elephant fan dance, with pants, it is to be hoped.

There's something more than law back of the determination of the policewomen. Schopenhauer might have defined it. Some element of perfidy apparently enters. The women police pinch Sally with a zeal which cannot be wholly professional. Half their energy applied to Druggan would have him chained between his bars and an iron bed. Miss Rand's consolation is found in the judges who would mollify the police, a consequence, possibly, of the mellowing influence of higher education. The judges incline to the side of art.

From time to time there is a promise of compromise, something that the law might regard as saving its face, a touch of powder or a bit of whitewash which might be liberally construed as apparel. One of the old uses of the fan was revealing concealment. Those were days of voluminous clothing, much more than an entire modern wardrobe in one dress, and much was made of a shoe tip betrayed beyond the skirt edge. The fan then was used to conceal the face in a pretty confusion which was supposed to work havoc.

Miss Rand might attempt some confusion. It might be accepted as sufficient costuming if properly put on in addition to the fans.

FEDERAL POLICE FOR THE CITIES.

Senator Murphy of Iowa says the federal government ought to organize a police force to operate in the cities against racketeers and gangsters. The municipal police cannot suppress the gangs, he says, because of the relationships existing between criminals and local officeholders. Federal police would be immune from this corrupting influence.

As every one knows, Terry Druggan was able to take vacations from the Cook county jail, but he couldn't get out of Leavenworth. It is possible to bribe some Chicago policemen but nobody ever dreamed of fixing a federal prohibition agent. Rum row never made any arrangements with the coast guard and such a thing as corruption in the customs service was never thought of.

Mr. Murphy cherishes illusions about federal law enforcement agencies. If the federal enforcers were subjected to the temptations which confront the local police their behavior would not be very different. When federal officials have been exposed to the same temptations the government men did not show to any great advantage. It seems altogether probable, then, that if federal policemen were set to work in our cities the results might be far different from those expected by Mr. Murphy. Instead of improving the quality of local law enforcement, we might find, instead, a distinct deterioration in the federal service which today is fairly efficient in its own proper sphere of catching counterfeiters, postal thieves, etc.

As matters stand, law enforcement in any community is just as efficient or as inefficient as the community wants. Where law enforcement is lax, the community pays for it in higher insurance rates, lower property values, and the discouragement of business enterprise. In that fact lies the hope that gangsters and racketeers will not always flourish. A police force directed from Washington will have no comparable interest in suppressing organized crime. Now that Iowa has repudiated the prohibition experiment, which it did so much to inflict on the country, it would seem that Iowa's spokesmen in congress might be expected to go slow in advocating more of the same kind of federal meddling in local matters.

Perhaps a word should be said, also, of Mr. Murphy's proposal to modify court procedure with respect to habeas corpus. Precisely what he has in mind is not clear, but at a time when the government has been voted extraordinary and unprecedented powers it is more necessary than it has ever been in this country to maintain the traditional rights of the citizen against unwarranted arrest.

THE A. A. A. AND THE R. F. C.

The Agricultural Adjustment administration, under the direction of Secretary Wallace, was obliged to borrow 30 million dollars to finance some cotton purchases. The R. F. C. asked 4 per cent. Mr. Wallace went to private bankers and obtained his loan from them at 2 and 2½ per cent, a saving of $225,000. The treasury department, however, was indignant. It can borrow short term money at less than ½ of 1 per cent. When this money is lent to the R. F. C. at 3½ per cent and re-lent to Mr. Wallace it earns a profit for the treasury. The treasury accuses Mr. Wallace of making a record for his department at the expense of the taxpayers.

Mathematically the treasury is right. Humanly it is wrong. Mr. Wallace gets no credit for the accomplishments of the treasury and he is responsible for the costs of the A. A. A. A reasonable amount of team work and coöperation is to be expected of every one, but there are limits beyond which no one who is normally ambitious to make a record for himself as an administrator is likely to go. The fact should have been recognized and the interest rates charged by the R. F. C. adjusted to accord with the rates obtainable in the open market.

The incident suggests that there is a limit to the demands which may be placed upon the cooperative spirit even in situations in which there is a common direction and no question of personal profit is involved.

Editorial of the Day

A TIME FOR CALMNESS.

(Marshalltown, Ia., News.)

The President has frankly admitted, with an engaging candor which disarms all opposition, that his national recovery plan is an experiment. He summons all to join with him without "cavil." He pleads for a fair and honest trial of his experiment, suggesting that there is no other alternative.

The people are in a mood to award him that trial. We venture the suggestion that, at this stage at least, there will be no "cavil," no pulling to cross purposes, no bickering over the means to be pursued to secure the end desired by all.

But while we adopt slogans and display insignia in our places of business, while we cheerfully accept our marching orders and gird ourselves for whatever sacrifices may be demanded to give the plan a fair opportunity to demonstrate whether it will solve the riddle or not, let us not forget one thing.

Let us not forget that this is a time for calmness. This is a peaceful struggle in which we are engaged, and our attention must not be diverted for a single instant from the main objective. This is no hour for the unleashing of wartime hysteria. This is no time for rumor or innuendo. This is no time for petty snooping. It is no time for doing anything which may turn the forward determination of the great body of citizenry into angry bickerings and private quarrels which, at best, lose sight of the goal and defeat our whole effort.

There is no need for buckets of yellow paint or whispering campaigns, or committees running wild on private sniping expeditions under the guise of "patriotism."

The whole danger of an appeal to the country upon an emotional basis is the danger of turning loose these very tendencies. If we are to be in for a period of local terrorism of this sort, the whole purpose of the President will fail. The spirit of unity and the will to victory he asks cannot be quicker destroyed than to resort to such tactics.

It is, however, a time for the utmost spirit of coöperation. We must give and take in the spirit of wartime emergency. We must submerge self and selfishness in the end that the common good may be paramount. We must pull together, not pull asunder. We must resolve to keep our heads, to remain calm, and keep our private hatchets out of Hysteria's reach.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE CALL.

In days long gone God spake unto our sires:
"Courage! Launch out! A new world build for Me."
Then to the deep they set their ships, and sailed
A realm from pride and despotism free,

Lo, in these days, to all good men and true,
God speaks again: "Launch out upon the deep
And win for Me a world of righteousness!"
Can we, free men, at such an hour still sleep?
O God of freedom, stir us in our night,
That we set forth for justice, truth, and right!

WOODLAND SCENE.

We stopped by a tiny pool that had been formed by a bubbling little brook. Deep down in the cool water small fish could be seen lazily swimming around. Some unknown person had facilitated the crossing of the stream by building a little rustic bridge of birch logs. To our great surprise and delight, we spied a bear cub through the bushes on the other side, peacefully getting a drink.

As we breathed deep of the pine laden atmosphere all our troubles seemed to fade into nothingness. Truly, this was the life. Happy, carefree, and peaceful. Indeed, it was with a heavy heart we left the Wisconsin exhibit and entered the court of the Hall of States. Childe Harold.

PERTINENT AND IMPERTINENT.

Harvey: If those fan dances at the Fair are so hot, why not cool 'em by having the girls wear electric fans instead of just fans. Also if it wasn't for her dance, I suppose Sally would be just another also Rand. Again, there's nothing new in Judge David's idea of a horse wearing pants. I bet on one at Hawthorne that certainly pulled a bloomer, finishing absolutely last. Dick Ax.

HTW: I'm only the second and not the magical seventh son, but something tells me that Beverly White, whose missive appeared in recent Wake-Line, is paying his or her first visit to Ames, Ia., and is not a resident or a student of the excellent state college there.

Because you see, Harve, that "No Spiking" sign, which Beverly speaks of as if it were some rare curiosity like dinosaur's eggs, is duplicated in every roadside stand and small and middle class café in our great state. It has nothing to do with the new manna, 3.2 beer, but belongs to the earlier era sometimes referred to as the "Great Drought." Chicago flaunts the standard of the gin buck and New York cheers the sign of the cocktail, but the youth of Iowa stand alone in favor of needled near beer. "It's been goin' on," as one of our rural sages might define, "for nigh on to nine years."

Yessir, we don't take our whisky clear because the stuff we get out here isn't good enough, but our concoction of 25% alky and 75% near beer tastes more like the wash of gold rush days than anything else and takes the lining off a copper kettle just the same old way. You oughta come out for a vacation some time, Harvey. Joe Stecher comes over from Omaha to wrestle with some of the local boys every now and then. That might give you an excuse. Art.

ALEXIA.

THIS is one of a series of articles dealing with different forms of mental deficiency. One related to an incapacity to figure, a lack of mathematical ability. In the instance cited this was an acquired quality, to put it one way, or a loss achieved as a result of carbon monoxide poisoning, to put it another way.

Of the several peculiarities to be discussed, alexia is very much the best known. It has been the subject of study for several years. In consequence we know that it is of several varieties. Alexia is an inability to read—a poor reading capacity. Reading is not as simple a mental process as we think it is. When we read understandingly the mind catches the meaning of a sentence some distance ahead of the utterance of the words that make up the sentence. The preview causes us to unconsciously arrange for enough air in the lungs to make the word sounds, to place the emphasis and the rises and falls of the voice in the right place.

The eye must see the printed words, flash them to the brain, which passes on the idea as well as the words and sends out the orders to the muscles, including those that work the vocal cords and the wind bellows. To be a good reader, all of these processes must work well individually and must fit properly into the time card for the combination.

Alexia has been known long enough and studied sufficiently well to permit splitting it up into several disorders. Some who appear to have alexia are feeble minded and others are very nearsighted or almost blind from other eye troubles. These are not cases of true alexia. In some the alexia is due to an inability to recognize words when they are seen on the printed page. These people are word blind, in a sense. In some the difficulty is less with the individual word and more in the field of word combinations into sentences. In other cases the difficulty is less with the single sentence and more with the combination of sentences. In some the mind appears incapable of running ahead of the individual sentence and of sending the meaning of the next few sentences in relation to the one that is immediately in view. In some cases the word sense is all right for silent reading, but there is trouble in speaking the words as they are printed.

Since there are several kinds of alexia the problem is to meet the need, which is to be varied according to the nature of the trouble. As a rule alexia is congenital. Nothing is suspected to be wrong until school difficulties are encountered. Most of the cases are first suspected or proved by teachers in the schools.

Occasionally the condition is acquired. People who have had a stroke of apoplexy are apt to develop it as one of the language difficulties to which they are prone.

SWOLLEN FEET.

A. R. writes: What is the reason for ankles swelling toward evening in hot weather? I have no kidney trouble. I work seated in an office.

REPLY.

The feet are apt to swell in hot weather, even though there is no heart, kidney, or liver trouble. This is said to be due to local acidosis, but that does not mean much practically. Gravity is a factor. Standing or sitting promotes it. Sitting with the feet on a stool helps to overcome it. Pressure due to garters, bands, tight clothing, pressure of a chair on the legs may be a factor of importance.

WATER PRESSURE.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—The other day I was in a building on West End avenue and about 1 o'clock there was no more water. The folks on the third floor complained to their janitor, but he said he could do nothing for them. What can be done about this?

M. C. M.

This condition is prevalent throughout this entire neighborhood during the extreme hot weather. The city is making every effort to supply needed water. This becomes exceedingly difficult when there is an enormous waste at one period of the day. Necessary steps have been taken to give as much pressure as possible and, with the coöperation of the police department, we hope to curb the waste so that a sufficient supply of water will be had for all legitimate needs of the people. We would, however, recommend that the owner install a pump and compression tank on his service pipe. This would guarantee water on the third floor during the extreme hot weather.

OUR THANKSGIVING TURKEY?

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 8, 1917.

PARIS.—The opinion prevails among the highest military authorities in France that there is no chance of peace this autumn. It is an accepted fact that the war will go into another winter and spring. Greater harmony exists between Italy and the other allies than ever before. The powers are in complete accord as to their military and political aims. Russia concededly is out of consideration—not that a separate peace is feared, because no action the Muscovites can take will interfere with the conduct of the war, but it is felt that the entry of the United States so compensates for Russian shortcomings that there is no need to waste further thoughts there, particularly since Russia has been a heavy and continual drain on the allies since the war's beginning.

WAR SUMMARY.—Austro-Germans capture 1,200 prisoners north of Fokshani in new offensive against Russo-Rumanians. Petrograd admits success of foes in occupying heights in direction of Kimpolung. Both French and Germans claim prisoners captured in trench raids on Champagne front. The Germans in Galicia are now capturing British guns and French aeroplanes, ill spared from the west front, but which were sent to aid Russia in time of need. Only soldiers of the Landsturm and Landwehr now oppose the Russians. Neither of the old German classes can stand the terrific hammering on the west front.

CHICAGO.—Implied in the state defense council's demand yesterday that Illinois seize and operate the coal mines as a war measure is an expectation that real and drastic federal control of coal prices will be the solution of the problem. The decree for seizure of the mines in the state amazed the coal operators, but those interviewed last night did not question the people's authority to do it.

A LIQUOR CODE.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—In your editorial, "Liquor Legislation for Illinois," you suggest that we model our laws after the Quebec system.

The liquor traffic as conducted in Quebec makes the price of liquor prohibitive except for a few Americans. The residents of the province of Quebec use bootleggers much as we do here. At least, this is the information gathered in casual inquiry.

In the hotels of Quebec one finds the same bedroom drinking that conventions bring to our hotels—howling, swearing, drunken men, in and out of rooms, romping after chambermaids.

It seems to me that the revolt against the eighteenth amendment is not based so much upon a desire to get more and better liquor as it is to put drinking in the open and endeavor to undo the terrific menace of organized crime—the child of that amendment. I contend that the old fashioned saloon was a more appropriate place for heavy drinking than is the home.

When people assert that they are against the eighteenth amendment but that they do not want to see the return of saloons they are adding one more hypocrisy to the many surrounding this whole question. We have never got rid of the saloon; it was simply moved upstairs or to the basement where it rotted in the darkness.

In enacting laws for the sale and taxation of liquor the state of Illinois should have but two things in mind: First, to make the drinking of alcoholic beverages as respectable as possible; second, to so compete with the bootlegger as to put him out of business.

We might look to Sweden as a possible example to follow. There drinking is made difficult save as an accompaniment of a bona fide meal, and as such adds greatly to enjoyment.

THE TRIBUNE has been too right on this question from the beginning to falter now with any concession to hypocrisy.

LECTURES ON ART.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—The series of lectures on the paintings being shown in A Century of Progress Exposition's official art show at the Art Institute by Mr. Dudley Crafts Watson and other members of the staff of the Art Institute deserve favorable comment and a recommendation that they be attended.

They are given in a manner that is helpful and enlightening to layman and professional alike.

Whether he may have had the benefit of the study of much or little history of art as a background for full enjoyment of the magnificent and inspiring exhibition shown there, these brief and delightful talks will increase the enjoyment of the exhibit threefold.

NAOMI WILKING.

SPEAKING OF RACING SCANDALS—

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Let the people who have been praising Gov. Horner for his meritorious decision in vetoing the dog bill tell what they think of the horse racing bill now. I do not think that they can honestly say the dog racing is crooked, for they have never been able to find them doping dogs. I wish they would put the sales tax and the dog racing bills up to a referendum vote and we would see which one would be adopted. EMMETT CLARK.

THE APPROACHING STORM.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—The recent crash in the grain and stock markets is like unto a loud peal of thunder which indicates the approach of a storm. Let us take heed of the warning and get the wash off the line and close the windows before the storm is upon us. Far be it from me to dictate to a great newspaper like THE TRIBUNE what its policy should be. I am only a voice crying in the wilderness who, like many thousands more, have seen the handwriting on the wall and look to you to give them a correct translation of same.

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $11,969.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday heard 350 tax receivership petitions and set the high mark in his procedure under the Kerner-Skarda act by appointing County Treasurer McDonough as receiver for 120 of the properties in order to enable Mr. McDonough to collect delinquent taxes. The 120 properties owe a total of about $500,000. Attorneys for the other properties paid a total of $125,000 to avoid receiverships.

Judge Jarecki instructed Assistant State's Attorney William T. Crilly, who is in charge of the tax collection department, to intervene in Circuit court receivership cases where the receivers have not been following the Circuit court order entered last May 8, which instructed the receivers to pay delinquent taxes.

Moe Rosenberg, ex-convict and west side political leader, was arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson and pleaded not guilty to the charge that he had defrauded the government of $65,000 in income taxes. Rosenberg was arraigned after Judge Wilkerson had overruled a demurrer to the income tax indictment.

Sept. 18 was set for hearing on a motion for a bill of particulars, and Judge Wilkerson announced that the case would be set for trial at that time. E. Riley Campbell, who has been employed for the last four years in the office of the general counsel for the bureau of internal revenue in Washington, will assist in the prosecution of Rosenberg.

Attorney Campbell has come to Chicago to take over the position formerly held by United States Attorney Dwight H. Green as solicitor for the bureau of internal revenue in the Chicago district. He will be sworn in as a special assistant United States attorney in order that he may appear before the grand jury in income tax matters.

FOUR WISCONSIN COUNTIES FIGHT FIRES IN FOREST

General Call Is Issued for Volunteer Battlers.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Hundreds of acres of cutover timber land in northern Wisconsin and Michigan were afire tonight while more than 1,000 men battled against odds of strong winds in an attempt to check further destruction.

From the Wisconsin counties of Iron, Vilas, Ashland, and Lincoln came reports that summer residents were deserting their homes, that farmers were rallying to save property, and that resorts were menaced. Across the border in Gogebic county, Michigan, many blazes were reported.

Old residents of the Ironwood, Mich., area pronounced the fires the most serious in many years, while observers in Lincoln county said the fires there were "infinitely worse" than last week.

Wardens were mobilizing men as fast as they would volunteer and were asking for more.

In some places the fires have jumped across fire lanes and rivers and lakes. In others, peat bogs are smoldering a foot below the ground.

Causes Fire; Sentenced.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Paul Collins of Eau Claire, charged with carelessly throwing a cigaret stub into a brush pile and causing a forest fire, was sentenced to 30 days in the Bayfield county jail today by Municipal Judge E. C. Hart.

New Blazes Start.

Michigan officials ordered the 100 persons in the Hagerman lake resort colony to evacuate when embers from the Forest county fire were blown across the Brule river and started new blazes.

She Learned Love Wasn't Blind To FAT!

As a girl she was popular. All of her friends envied her happy marriage but after awhile things seemed to change. She accused her husband of being fickle. She learned love wasn't blind—to fat. Happily she didn't wait until it was too late. What a difference would it make in your life to be rid of unsightly fat? Thousands, yes millions, of others have learned of the Marmola way. This famous prescription has found its way even into such remote corners of the world as South Africa, New Zealand. More than 20 million boxes have been sold. For 25 years it has stood supreme while useless fat fads and remedies have come and gone. Its formula includes among its 10 constituents, important vegetable, organic and mineral ingredients prescribed the world over by physicians. It is designed for people (called by doctors the "low metabolism type") whose systems turn too much food in to fat. Pleasant, easy to take. At good drug stores—only $1.00.

History Group Gets Writings of Madame X

Sister Gives Society Folio of Her Works.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A NOTABLE addition to available records on the history of this hundred year old prairie town was made yesterday when Mrs. Victor Channing Sanborn presented to the Chicago Historical society a folio of the writings of her sister, the late Miss Caroline Kirkland, better known, perhaps, under her pen name of Madame X.

It is well remembered that Miss Kirkland, whose death came three years ago, contributed a column of society news with editorial comment to THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE for twenty-one years. She herself represented one of Chicago's old and prominent families as the daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Joseph Kirkland, who moved to the city in 1865 and made their home at 719 Rush street.

For two years Mrs. Sanborn has been devoting most of her time at her pleasant Lake Forest house, the 'Tree O', to the preparation of the folio, hoping meantime that fire would not break out and destroy a record that could never be replaced. It has been a tremendous task for, stretching back over more than twenty years, Mrs. Sanborn in many instances did not have duplicates of the pages and had to use her ingenuity to make the story consecutive and readable.

In 1909 the late Medill McCormick invited Miss Kirkland to join THE TRIBUNE staff to edit a column. Of her acceptance she afterward wrote, "He named a sum which I thought was for a month. When I found it was for a week I knew I could never earn it, so accepted it for only one issue. It made quite a talk when my stuff, reeking with indiscretion, first appeared. One friend, now deceased, said, 'You'll never be invited to dinner, my dear, if you go on writing for THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE.' 'Then I'll have to eat at home,' I replied."

Valued Contribution to Historical Society.

Miss Kirkland's writings are a valuable contribution to the Historical society because they were widely read and exerted influence. Several years ago, for instance, when the Lincoln park board considered tearing down the old water tower, Miss Kirkland voiced protest in her column against destruction of the landmark which resulted in its preservation.

To Caroline Kirkland life was a thrilling experience, not always easy but always interesting and exciting. She showed this in her love for Chicago which amounted almost to a passion. Her loyalty to the city never wavered, even when, as she so aptly said, the 'city's soiled dress occasionally peeped out from beneath its nice clean apron."

Hers was by no means a blind devotion. She saw Chicago's faults but she saw them tolerantly hopeful that by careful guidance they might be outgrown. She knew the city's virtues and powers and extolled them. With gentle insistence she set before her readers the countless things that really matter in the world . . . adherence to proper standards, development of both inward and outward beauty, cultivation of the true and the worthwhile.

This is the reason the Historical society says a sincere "thank you" for the gift made by Mrs. Sanborn.

Prince of India to Arrive Today.

One of the most distinguished, certainly one of the most picturesque, visitors this summer to Chicago and A Century of Progress arrives in town at 9 o'clock this morning. He is Prince Raja Jai Prithiv Bahadur Singhi, son-in-law of the Maharajah Sham Sher Jung Bahadur, prime minister of Nepal, the only independent state in India.

Two days ago he set foot on American soil for the first time. And immediately he forwarded a message to Chicago saying how glad to was to have arrived. Now he is awaiting with eager anticipation his first "look" at the World's Fair, its contrasts and harmonies.

"I want to see if it is as strange as it sounds," he is reported to have said to his secretary in "accented" English on his way across the ocean.

Many Parties for Prince.

The arrival of Prince Singhi today will be the signal for some of the nicest luncheons and dinners of the summer, although he has preferred to come unheralded.

"I have," he explains, "two reasons for coming. One of them is the World's Fair. The other is the Second World Parliament of Religion meeting in Chicago the end of this month."

As head of the Humanistic club in Nepal, a civic body for the general advance of the state with a semi-religious background, the prince has an interest in the Parliament of Religion. On Aug. 18 he will address the conference in session at the Morrison hotel, together with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Dr. Ernest J. Fisher of Robert college in Constantinople.

A tall young man of some 30 years, Prince Singhi was well received both socially and politically three years ago when he made his first trip out of India to London, Paris, and Geneva. This is the first time a representative of the independent state has visited America.

With his father-in-law the prime minister of the state, the prince enjoys unusual power, for the king of the state is a mere figurehead. To make him "feel at home" during his stay here the Indo-American society is making plans for a dinner for him in native style.

Here's the same girl after the experts at the Fair style show had given her proper dress and make-up. The lovely brown frock, hat and gloves and smart shoes fit her youthful years and accent her natural charm. The "too much" make-up has been replaced by the right kinds and amounts. Her cheeks now glow with proper rouge and powder and lovely lips replace the great blub of a mouth.

Experts Show How Young People Rob Selves of Natural Charm.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

YESTERDAY at the Fair beauty and style show it wasn't the girl who refuses to grow up that was on view. It was the high school girl—and there are many of her—so anxious to grow up, look wise and sophisticated and sometimes hard that they cheat themselves out of the most enviable of all beauty years—those of their own grand and glorious 'teens.

The difference in the charm, beauty and appeal of the girl who dresses and makes up in line with her own age and the girl who apes the older woman was amply illustrated in yesterday's beauty transformation act at the Fair, under the guidance of Mrs. Ford Carter, style director.

In the before-and-after showing we saw first the miss in long earrings, bracelets, necklace, and brilliants, a dress all out of age proportion—and makeup! Goodness, what makeup! Too much of everything! Too much lipstick, too bright! Too much rouge! Eyebrows plucked so you almost needed opera glasses to find them — and arched all out of symmetry — and heavy, heavy eye makeup. And blood red nails! Neither fish, fowl, nor siren, vamp or charmer. A caricature of youth, the girl stood.

The expert took one look and ordered the miss back into her own generation with a lovely brown frock, hat, gloves, shoes smart as any school girl could wish for. The makeup was washed off and done as it should be done. Instead of the flamboyant shade in lipstick and rouge, a natural color was applied, providing instead of a great red blurb of mouth a lovely pair of lips.

Cheeks were allowed a glow with rouge and powder that would never startle. The eyeshadow was cleared off and none permitted. A bit of eyelash grower, yes, which helps the lashes and gives a gloss. And nails were robbed of their "butcher shop" label and a natural polish applied.

The young girl, when the style expert and assistant makeup artist were through, was a triumph.

Today is one of the most interesting experiences of all. The poor wallflower who is so sort of colorless, washy-washy, she never registers with the boys. The girl that boys forget! If you think dress and makeup aren't turning faint little glowworms into "the most popular girls," come on over to the Fair today.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Gerhart Hauptmann, who is at his summer home on Hiddensee island in the Baltic, has just written the last lines of a new drama, "Die Goldene Harfe" [the golden harp]. He is said to insist that the prèmiere be in Germany. There has been spirited bidding for the play.

Miss Astor Must Pay Agents for Movie Job

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Mary Astor, movie actress, must pay $2,333.33 as commission to Ruth Collier and John Flynn, theatrical agents, as the balance due on their fee for getting Miss Astor a $24,333 motion picture job, according to a decision of Judge Myron Westover in Superior court today.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

AN out of town lady—maybe she was the old lady from Dubuque—looked in at the Grant park art fair last week. She stopped in front of the canvases of Raymond Katz, mural painter, and addressed the woman she found standing there.

"Are you the artist?" she inquired.

"No, I'm his wife," answered Mrs. Katz.

"You mean you really are his wife? And you live with him?" the visitor asked, looking a little disappointed at this unexpected conventionality.

THE other day we mentioned the comforting assurance for women as pointed out in the sign in front of a movie theater—"The Road to Hell for Men Only." Now Frederic Goff bulletins that male readers might be interested in the route suggested by a Madison street cinema sign: "The Road to Hell with Living Models."

* *

YOU can take it or leave it. It's Uldine [evangelist] Utley's story, as told her by a woman visitor. The woman's child begged permission to play with her blocks.

"Not on Sunday," said the mother.

"But mamma," pleaded the child, "I'll build a church!"

IF ANYBODY were to stop to consider the activities of a lecturer in the hours preceding his lecture, it probably would be in terms of train arrivals, rest, a dinner party, or admiring ladies asking for autographs. Thus it is refreshing to contemplate Samuel N. Harper before he gave his latest lecture on soviet Russia. It was at Union Grove, Wis., near which town Mr. Harper has a farm. He spent the day loading hay, and, after four loads were in, realized it was time to start for town. He drove in in his overalls. We see him, hot, and a little sticky perhaps, arriving at the local hotel in time for a bath and a change of clothes. A few minutes later he was on the platform, talking about Russia and how the new crops will affect the soviet system. . . . It was an audience of neighboring farmers, tradesfolk and townsmen. His grocer was there, and the hardware man and the dentist. And never has he had an audience that asked more intelligent questions, Mr. Harper said.

MARTHA CRANE reports the signs painted on buildings near Howard and Clark. A neighborhood tavern and the corner gasoline station both use the brick wall for their advertising with this result:

TAVERN CLUB members dining on the terrace the other evening, looked with interest at the tall, distinguished looking man wearing a light suit and cummerbund, having dinner with friends. He was the Rev. Albert Baillie, dean of Windsor and one of the three private chaplains of the king of England. (The other two chapel royals are St. James and Savoy.) A charming man with a wide friendship that includes such stars of the stage and screen as Elissa Landi and Herbert Marshall, he has a fund of anecdotes and much sprightly conversation. The dinner was on the occasion of his 69th birthday, and besides his Chicago host, his niece, Miss Fanny Baillie, and Christopher Smith, British amateur racing driver, polo player, and movie producer, were in the party. They departed the following day for a motor tour to the west coast (Hollywood included).

When the Rev. Mr. Baillie arrived in America for a visit some years ago he was asked by ship's reporters what he thought of prohibition, and answered that there were two things a visitor to another country should not do, disobey its laws or criticize them. He would drink no liquor in America, he said. The other evening the royal chaplain had to put up with a little raillery as to his quiet arrival into the States this time via Quebec, thus eliminating the necessity of taking a firm stand about prohibition.

Paris Style Shows Are Agreed on High Necklines, Elegance

PARIS, Aug. 7. — (AP) — The most heterogeneous fashions Paris has produced in many years were launched in the winter style shows which were drawing to a close today with displays by many leading designers.

The exhibitions agreed only upon two things, high necks and a mode of elegance.

There were two silhouettes, both slender, one for formal afternoon and evening clothes, which was gently form fitting and revealing of bodies and curves, the other for sports designed in more straightened lines with three-quarter length coats and capes hanging loose in the back.

The general tendency, however, was for the curves to be more revealing than last season. Hips were often accented with flaring basques of fabric or fur, also by patched pockets over the shoulders.

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

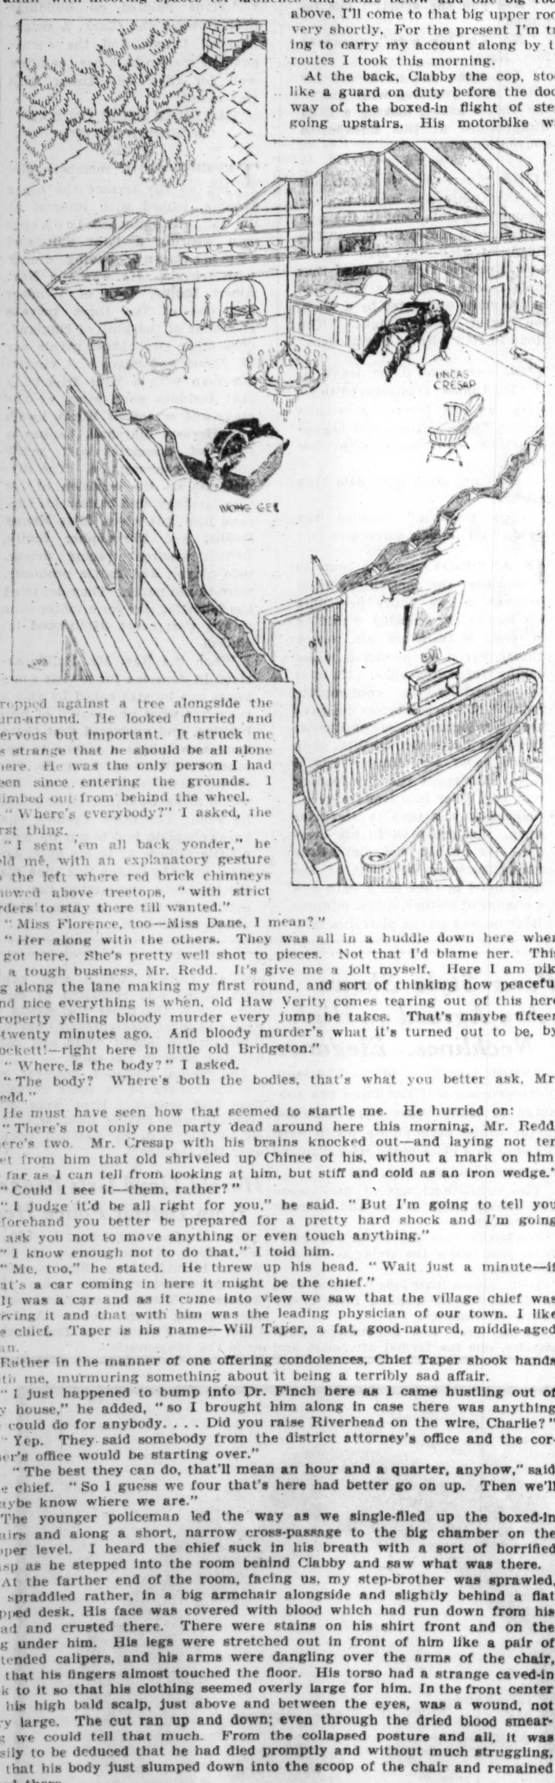
Gilbert Jonathan Redd, who lives in a village near the eastern end of Long Island, is called to the home of his wealthy stepbrother, Uncas Cresap, four miles distant, who was found dead by violence in his boathouse on Kettle pond.

INSTALLMENT II.

A CHAMBER OF HORRORS.

From my small place just behind the dunes to the much more frequented Cresap place is, roughly four miles, going by way of Wyandanck Drive, which skirts Kettle pond and then away in a sharp triangle through Pharoah's lane, back inland. I judge I made it in not more than eight minutes, traveling part of the time on two wheels. Both roads were empty, and most of the cottages I passed were closed and some of them already had been boarded up. The members of the so-called fashionable colony who spend their summers here mainly move out after Labor day.

Passing the gates at the front of Uncas Cresap's hansome Colonial-type house, where it stood behind its high picket fence and among its plantings, I checked and swung in at the lower entrance, taking at the first fork in the graveled driveway the turn leading down to the boathouse which faces on and overhangs the water—the same water that is known as Kettle Pond—and this water forms the boundary on the east for the Cresap holdings of twelve acres or thereabouts. The boathouse is a rather ornate two-story affair with mooring spaces for launches and skiffs below and one big room above. I'll come to that big upper room very shortly. For the present I'm trying to carry my account along by the routes I took this morning.



At the back, Clabby the cop, stood like a guard on duty before the doorway of the boxed-in flight of steps going upstairs. His motorbike was propped against a tree alongside the turn-around. He looked flurried and nervous but important. It struck me as strange that he should be all alone there. He was the only person I had seen since entering the grounds. I climbed out from behind the wheel.

"Where's everybody?" I asked, the first thing.

"Miss Florence, too—Miss Dane, I mean?"

"Her along with the others. They was all in a huddle down here when I got here. She's pretty well shot to pieces. Not that I'd blame her. This is a tough business, Mr. Redd. It's give me a jolt myself. Here I am piking along the lane making my first round, and sort of thinking how peaceful and nice everything is when, old Haw Verity comes tearing out of this here property yelling bloody murder every jump he takes. That's maybe fifteen—twenty minutes ago. And bloody murder's what it's turned out to be, by Sockett!—right here in little old Bridgeton."

"Where is the body?" I asked.

"The body? Where's both the bodies, that's what you better ask, Mr. Redd."

He must have seen how that seemed to startle me. He hurried on:

"There's not only one party dead around here this morning, Mr. Redd, there's two. Mr. Cresap with his brains knocked out—and laying not ten feet from him that old shriveled up Chinee of his, without a mark on him, so far as I can tell from looking at him, but stiff and cold as an iron wedge."

"Could I see it—them, rather?"

"I judge it'd be all right for you," he said. "But I'm going to tell you beforehand you better be prepared for a pretty hard shock and I'm going to ask you not to move anything or even touch anything."

"I know enough not to do that," I told him.

"Me, too," he stated. He threw up his head. "Wait just a minute—if that's a car coming in here it might be the chief."

It was a car and as it came into view we saw that the village chief was driving it and that with him was the leading physician of our town. I like the chief. Taper is his name—Will Taper, a fat, good-natured, middle-aged man.

Rather in the manner of one offering condolences, Chief Taper shook hands with me, murmuring something about it being a terribly sad affair.

"I just happened to bump into Dr. Finch here as I came hustling out of my house," he added, "so I brought him along in case there was anything he could do for anybody. . . . Did you raise Riverhead on the wire, Charlie?"

"Yep. They said somebody from the district attorney's office and the coroner's office would be starting over."

"The best they can do, that'll mean an hour and a quarter, anyhow," said the chief. "So I guess we four that's here had better go on up. Then we'll maybe know where we are."

The younger policeman led the way as we single-filed up the boxed-in stairs and along a short, narrow cross-passage to the big chamber on the upper level. I heard the chief suck in his breath with a sort of horrified gasp as he stepped into the room behind Clabby and saw what was there.

At the farther end of the room, facing us, my step-brother was sprawled, or spraddled rather, in a big armchair alongside and slightly behind a flat topped desk. His face was covered with blood which had run down from his head and crusted there. There were stains on his shirt front and on the rug under him. His legs were stretched out in front of him like a pair of extended calipers, and his arms were dangling over the arms of the chair, so that his fingers almost touched the floor. His torso had a strange caved-in look to it so that his clothing seemed overly large for him. In the front center of his high bald scalp, just above and between the eyes, was a wound, not very large. The cut ran up and down; even through the dried blood smearing we could tell that much. From the collapsed posture and all, it was easily to be deduced that he had died promptly and without much struggling, so that his body just slumped down into the scoop of the chair and remained fixed there.

The second body was that of Wong Gee, the butler. It was tautly arched, face upward, across the farther end of a broad, low couch, which stood out at an angle from the left wall in the middle breadth of the room. The slippered feet of the Chinaman were on the floor on one side of the couch. The back of his head touched against the floor on the other side of the couch. The skinny, fragile-looking hands convulsively were clenched on the breast. The neck was strained rigidly back until the Adam's apple seemed ready to burst through the stretched and corded skin. The face was swollen and frightfully discolored, but not apparently from outward bruises—from congestion. The expression on that mottled, yellow-gray face was no pleasant thing to look upon.

I saw how Dr. Finch had just one swift scrutiny for the crumpled form in the chair. Then he stepped over and stooped by the second body lightly fingering the distorted throat and the eyeballs but not disturbing the agonized position of the body.

From where I had halted just over the threshold, without drawing any nearer to these livid shapes, I had seen enough and more than enough. I said: "I'll be waiting below," and I left the three of them there and turned around and went downstairs.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

A STUDENT'S REASONING.

"Gee, professor, I'm all excited," exclaimed Verne Hill, perching his slim, young body on a stool in Fordney's laboratory. "Inspector Kelley let me go with the homicide squad on the Singer case . . . after I promised I'd keep out of the way! I made notes of what I learned and brought them over to discuss with you . . . that is, if you can spare the time."

"Of course I can, son. Fire away."

"Here they are:

"8:30 p. m.—Singer went to his room in the Hotel Riggs.

"10 p. m.—Dobbs, night clerk, had a long distance call for Singer, but received no answer from his room.

"10 05 — Dobbs went to Singer's room. Door locked, but sees lights are on through wide crack at bottom.

"Curiosity, so he says, prompted him to peek through keyhole and he saw body on floor. Immediately rushed out and called Patrolman Collins and they entered room.

"Inside they found room key lying on floor beneath lock; pistol with silencer clutched in Singer's hand; instantly fatal wound in head; two partially filled glasses on table.

"As the door was locked from the inside, I agree with the police that it is plainly a case of suicide."

"Well, my boy, you must never arrive at conclusions without sound reasoning. I'm surprised, after attending my class that you should accept the evidence you've told me before more carefully analyzing it. From the information you've given me I'd say it could be murder!"

Accusations Stir Trouble for Marrieds

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She accused him of lying—because he disappointed her on a date. That's Helene.

Mrs. X. accused her husband of not being out with the boys as he said he was Saturday night.

Accuse! Accuse! Accuse!

Gracious, what a world of trouble would be spared us women if we were less quick on the accusing trigger!

A wife, cleaning out her husband's pockets, sees a slip of paper with a phone number on it. She accuses. Another wife married to a man with an eye for female pulchritude, accuses him of unfaithfulness because he looks a passing female over. Other wives accuse husbands of stopping at speakeasies on the way home just because their arrival is a little late.

Maybe they have stopped at the speakeasy, some of them—but what good does the accusing do? Starts a quarrel in which old wounds are reopened that have nothing to do with the case in hand.

It isn't so much the accusing—as the tone of voice. That hard, deliberate don't-talk-back-to-me method of speech is the stinger. A woman could accuse a man lightly of having stopped at a speakeasy and get a good natured admission and apology from him. But let her use the other tone and the man is ready for a fight.

Accuse a young man of lying because he breaks a date—and what does that get? No more dates, probably! You can't openly accuse any one of lying without bestirring bitter emotions. Even though the person did lie—better leave the accusation unmade.

Speaking Truth if You Call This "My Favorite"

BY NANCY CABOT.

Each woman has her favorite quilt pattern, of one kind or another, suited to her own personality. Here we have a pattern entitled "My Favorite," although to whom the "my" refers is unknown. The conventional, geometric design is well suited to many color combinations and many types of interior decoration, and is not too hard to piece. It is even more popular in the east than it is here.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Golfing Heals Old Coolness of Film Pair

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 7.—[Special.]—A well placed golf compliment ended the long coolness between W. C. Fields, comedian, and Eddie Sutherland, director.

The coolness began in their younger days of the silent films when Sutherland was sent to Florida as director and Fields as featured player for "The Old Army Game." On the first day of that comedy Fields wanted to spring one of his tried and true gags, shooting down a kite with a cap pistol, and Sutherland, feeling his oats as a newly promoted young director, demurred with the blunt opinion, "That wouldn't be funny."

Sutherland again directed Fields in "Tillie's Punctured Romance," some years later, but still there was no warmth between the pair. "The fact neither picture turned out much of a success may have had something to do with it," Sutherland says.

But during Fields' current comeback in Hollywood, the two found they were golf addicts.

Eddie would break a date with any one except President Roosevelt to play golf, and Hollywood began to see the strange sight of Fields and Sutherland getting up at 6 a. m. and hunting up a golf course. Eddie won a shade more of the matches, but Fields pulled a lot of them out of the fire with nifty putting. So now they're Damon and Pythias, and the blunt occurrences of the silent film days are forgotten and forgiven.

Sutherland, like Wallace Beery, broke into movies because of an ability to wear skirts effectively. Wally was a clown female impersonator, but Sutherland was a double for Helen Holmes in the old days of that serial queen's hazardous exploits.

William Dieterle, the German who directed Janet Gaynor's "Adorable" and other hits, fell sick when part way finished with the Ruth Chatterson-George Brent vehicle, "Female" at Warner's, and Bill Wellman has been substituting until Dieterle recovers. In the meantime, rehearsals and first shots for Wellman's own assignment, "The College Coach," with Ann Dvorak and Pat O'Brien in the leads, is waiting.

Bill Powell took a big cut from his one time salary of $7,000 a week in his new Warner contract. It's understood Bill draws about half that now. Like many other stars who retain a financial sense of balance, Powell thinks it's a fairly good bargain for changing times.

square shouldered young lad who had just started to work was Frank E. Wilhelm Jr. of Chicago. Even the comparative newcomers in the yards knew that the name of "Wilhelm" meant the grandson of Edward A. Cudahy, who had come there to learn the packing business "from the hoof up" some 40 years ago.

Passing up the trivialities of society, young Mr. Wilhelm has chosen this summer to "go west" and start learning the packing business himself. Last June he was graduated from Phillips Exeter academy at Andover, Mass.

Mrs. Wilhelm, with her daughter, Jean, and her other son, David, are up at Mackinac island at the senior Edward Cudahys' summer home. Ever since Mrs. Wilhelm and her sisters, Mrs. Austin Niblack and Mrs. Vaughan Spaulding, were little girls they have vacationed in the north. And this month they are having a reunion there with not a prospect of returning before Labor day.

Rugby Team to Play Aug. 29.

Even the East-West polo matches this week-end at Onwentsia cannot stop the interest in the Cambridge university Vandals—the rugby and cricket team that has already arrived in this country from England to play various American teams. The latest news is that they are to play their first game in Chicago in the Oak Park High School stadium on Aug. 29 against a picked team from the Illinois Rugby union. The game is being sponsored by the Oak Park Country club and the proceeds will go to the Oak Park Infant Welfare. The kick-off will be promptly at 6:30 o'clock. Following the game there will be a dinner dance at the country club for the players and the club members.

With such accomplished and attractive ladies as Mrs. George W. Wallerich, Mrs. Russell P. Doherty, Mrs. Norman Smith, and Mrs. Duncan Rowles of the Infant Welfare helping to run the game and the dance, it is assured that the young Englishmen's first taste of Chicago hospitality will be a pleasant one. The captain of the Vandals, Percy Heyward, who is a son of the Lord Bishop of Hull, has compromised a bit on strict training rules for the eighteen members of his team, but he intends to have them in bed every night by midnight.

Smart Entertainers for Supper Dance.

The World's Fair supper dance tomorrow evening in the Joseph Urban room of the Congress hotel is certain to draw a smart young crowd, for a number of our smart young people are responsible for the entertainment.

"Jack" Hughes is to be the master of ceremonies and Miss Virginia Torcom, with Hess McLean as her partner, is to do several dancing numbers. Miss Phyllis Cromling will be the "blues" singer.

All of these north shore entertainers are coming in a party to which Miss Marcia Cromling will be the hostess. Also in the group will be Dr. and Mrs. Trevor Stamp, Gene Voit, George Aste, Miss Josephine Cromling, Fred Cook, Evar Decker, Bert Myers, and Miss Frances Deming.

A cable yesterday reported the arrival of a baby girl in the Howard Elting household, Istanbul, Turkey, where Mr. Elting is the American vice consul.

Mrs. Elting, the former Margaret Ayers Watkins of New Rochelle, N. Y., went to the Far East with her husband shortly after their marriage last year. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting of 900 North Michigan avenue are the proud grandparents on the paternal side. Among the other Chicago relatives are a grandaunt, Mrs. Philip Elting, and a granduncle, Victor Elting.

Mrs. Davison to Arrive Today.

Arriving in town today for a "flying" visit with the Fowler McCormicks and their house guests, Mrs. James A. Stillman Jr. and Guy Stillman, is Mrs. Henry P. Davison of Oyster Bay, Long Island. Mrs. Davison, the former Anne Stillman, is traveling with her son, Harry, to the Davison ranch, which borders the foothills of the Canadian Rockies in Alberta.

She will go directly to Barrington today to the country home of the McCormicks. Mrs. McCormick's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Stillman, has been there since Saturday and young Stillman went out on Friday, when he arrived from the east with his mother.

Due in Chicago on Sept. 1 are the Bartle Bulls, daughter and son-in-law of Mrs. Jacob Baur. Now they are in Toronto as the guests of Mr. Bull's parents.

Pearls Receive New Attention in Style World

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Along with the revival of rustling silks, satins, old fashioned bengalines and other corded or ribbed silks as high fashion notes for the inquiring shopper, some one is assiduously sponsoring pearls. Ropes of them or in long single strands, real if you can afford them, and simulated if your bank balance is anemic.

New tinted pearls have appeared . . . lovely shimmering gray pearls to wear with all the fashionable, varied shades of gray. You will find clever clips of these gray pearls, bracelets, and necklaces, and, of course, the inevitable earrings in button or "bobby" styles.

The bracelets are particularly interesting. Transparent silver gray prystal is used to hold the large row of round pearls in place, hat bands of prystal are "seeded" with tiny pearls in rows, and both can be exquisitely matched with twin finger rings and earrings.

A darker tone of gray called gun metal is used for the extra large pearled costume jewelry. The new almost waist length necklaces are made of lustrous round ball beads nearly the size of the ping-pong jewelry featured in summer chalk white. Large ball earrings in this same gun metal, bracelets, and even stunning flat brooches and clips are just what you need for the rather somber though smart new dark gray dresses and street costumes. This gun metal shade is used with some startling results, with navy blue, sapphire blue, black, and the newest tones of green.

Circus Invites Stares of Old, Young Alike

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A tent half a block long; six arenas in continuous use by 800 performers; forty elephants, including a Jumbo painted gold; two giraffe-necked women of Burma, each wearing 50 pounds of brass rings from ears to shoulders, and uncounted other things to view with a childlike stare of wonder—well, it's the combined Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, now pitched in Grant park to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of Ringling trouping.

As a castaway of the foundered legitimate stage, now entering a new life as an all around amusement taster, I could not miss this most recent addition to the many shows of the World's Fair summer. I found that it lives up to its proclamations, although when I counted the elephant herd [official population, 50], Mr. Ringling must have been holding out ten for a private party. No matter; there were enough elephants present and feeding to content the Rajah of Hyderabad, and not one of them could be called a runt.

The giraffe-necked women of Burma are of special interest because of their novelty as a circus attraction. The announcement states that the Ringlings have been hunting these mysterious oriental belles for five years and have been able to persuade only a brace of them to go to work. They are aristocratic and exclusive, it appears, and somewhat sensitive about displaying their charms in public.

Well, the two little ladies, dressed daintily in Burmese finery, are driven around the circus inclosure once in a high backed chariot and then they disappear. Possibly they withdrew into the menagerie to commune with the giraffes that they vaguely resemble. They are pretty girls of the Indo-Chinese type and the brass fetters around their elongated necks are a becoming decoration.

The routine circus bill is formed of twenty-six "displays," distributed along six focal points. Outstanding stars are Dorothy Herbert, high jumping equestrienne, and Lucita Leers, a girl trapezist. The inevitable "thriller" is provided by Hugo Zacchini the Human Projectile, who permits himself to be shot out of a cannon. The menagerie is a course in natural history.

The summer theatrical season will be given a new touch of life next Sunday night by the staging of a light comedy called "Peggy, Be Careful," at the Blackstone. The piece is said to have had a year's run in England. Peggy Worth, an actress who appeared here five years ago in a forgotten show called "The Hollywood Follies," will be the star of the company. Others in the cast will be Edgar Mason, John Ehrle, Reese Taylor, Philip Lord, Beverly Younger, Lilyan Dushell, and Hazel Haslam.

"Tomorrow Turns Back" was erased from the Chicago playbills last Saturday night. This drama remained at the Selwyn theater for five weeks to sparse patronage because its author, Mrs. Marcelite Englander, was paying the bills.

Cheer Season of Individual Style Choice

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Half Mae Westish, half Puritan maidenish—and wholly diverting, winter fashions turned the heads last night of literal thousands of buyers, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. It was the most clamorous and colorful "first night" of the semi-annual event under auspices of the Interstate Merchants' council and the Association of Commerce, since the growing attendance made it necessary to stage three shows on successive evenings, instead of one.

Dizzily the men who'll sell 'em watched the girls who wore 'em, as black velvet cartwheel hats went lilting down the runway beneath their burden of glistening aigrets. But not alone. For contrast or comparison as the case might be, demure little chapeaux of undeniable chic followed the cartwheel models. The small models had only the tuft of color at center top to balance the scoop of velvet or felt that all but obscured one eyebrow.

From Diamond Lil to Priscilla Alden and back again swung the style pendulum, capricious always, and cosmopolitan. In some instances it borrowed the generous brims of the sophisticate, the daring décolletté, the elegant little trains for evening affairs. And again, it adopted the simplicity of the naive Plymouth girl, endowing a practical daytime ensemble with a different element of individuality that stamped it "late 1933."

So many periods and nations have contributed their bit to the coming mode that analysis is difficult. Never was there a season when fashion inhibitions might be chucked so easily—when personality got such a break. So many things are "good." Velvets, satins—shiny and dull rusting taffetas. Beads and fringe and flowers and feathers for trimming, with little cellophane ruffles set into the shoulders to help puff out one's sleeves. Fur on evening gowns. Dresses with jackets—dresses without. Hemlines, where you like.

Skirt lengths, Miss Mari Floto says [and Miss Floto knows because she is directing the fourth Merchants' show in partnership with Oney A. Fink of the Association of Commerce], have not changed at all. The popular floor length for evening, dinner dress to the instep, and daytime, around nine or ten inches from the ground.

"All the colors of the wine card," she replies to a query about shades for autumn. "The clarets, the burgundies, and the deeper shade of port are favorities. Chartreuse for evening can't be eclipsed. And black, first, last and always. Then there are the field grays, shading into taupe, that are in for tremendous popularity, and the darker shades of brown—not the reddish browns."

The fashionable figure still forms a triangle whose apex is the feet, the shoulders still widened and emphasized, although not so markedly as before. Instead, the accent is being brought down closer to the waistline, and achieved by concentrating fur, for instance, in wider, softer collars across the bust.

Last night the merchants who will market the designs, all manufactured in Chicago, paid enthusiastic attention, especially to the superb cut of one formal gown in chartreuse satin, flaring from a close fit about the hips, to a sweeping width at the toes. The bodice was novel in the fullness it displayed across the deep round back, more of which will be seen as the season advances. Wide shoulder straps and an artificial flower matching the gown were noted. But not until the mannequin removed the tiny jacket, tied at the back of the neck, and boasting leg o' mutton sleeves which topped the shoulders in tiny stiffened points.

Two new materials applauded by the buyers were a ribbed taffeta that resembles corduroy, seen only in black in a dinner gown, and a blistered dull crêpe satin, also shown in black for dinner wear. Both have excellent wearing qualities and will be popular, it is expected, in colors as well.

The finale and feature of the evening was the wedding party, complete with pages and flower girls, all turned out in orchid satin except the bride, whose long trained gown was of lustrous heavy satin, beaded with pearls at the wrist of the long, tight sivees, and in a V pattern on the bodice. Pleated ruffles of the material outlined the low necked gowns of the bridesmaids and formed "dust-ruffles" extending into brief trains.

Lost Her Double Chin
AND HER PROMINENT HIPS

This woman writes: "I have a hearty appetite and always stay at 156 lbs. Read her letter. She is one of the thousands of women who have Kruschen Salts to thank for the loss of a load of unhealthy fat.

"I am 49 years old, 5 ft. 5½ in. in height, and was 190 lbs. when I started taking a level teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts every morning. I went slowly down in weight—some weeks 2 lbs., others just 1 lb., until I got down to 156 lbs. I have never felt better in my life than I do now and I feel so much lighter and feel years younger. There's always somebody saying to me that I look about 35 or thereabouts. My measurements are below:

Before		After
Hips	44 ins.	Hips	39½ ins.
Waist	33 ins.	Waist	28 ins.

"Also I had a double chin before taking Kruschen but not now. I have never dieted except once during the time I was taking Kruschen and I tried eating brown bread, boiled eggs, no potatoes or fat meat for a week or two. I got myself down to 151 lbs. but I have a healthy appetite and like to eat everything that's going. I stopped dieting and always stay at 156 lbs. Even better than all this is the fact that Kruschen Salts have brought me through the difficult period of life without even so much as a headache." —(Mrs.) W. I.

Try one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—in 3 weeks get on the scales, and note how many pounds of fat have vanished. Kruschen will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

If one inexpensive jar (lasts 4 weeks) doesn't joyfully satisfy, money back from any drug store. Make sure you get Kruschen—prescribed by many physicians and recognized the world over as the SAFE way to reduce and at the same time gain in health and physical charm.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This dress is designed especially for women of larger build. It has graceful revers, and the crossover closing conceals bodice breadth, while the partial belt treatment tends further to create a tall, slender silhouette. A novelty ribbed silk crêpe in black and white, trimmed in black satin, made the original dress.

Sparing Rod Not Cause of Society's Ills

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

How often extreme statements are made about the dire results of children having too much latitude at home, of not being made to obey or be polite, etc., etc.—and often these statements are not merely made but are laid down with such positiveness that many people believe them. Some of the comments are negligible, such as: Sparing the rod and spoiling the child, the exhortations to severity and spanking, the threats of mother complexes if you show love to your child, etc.

But some people make statements not quite so negligible. They go to greater extremes and state that the failures in adult life are children who were not taught to obey—that the drunkard is the child who was allowed to eat to repletion—that the prisons are filled with men and women who never had "don't" said to them and whose parents made a fetish of allowing them perfect freedom to develop their individuality—and that the children who were not taught manners when they were little are always looked askance at when they grow up. Unfortunately, many people will swallow these farfetched conclusions.

Of course, a child's individuality isn't best developed by letting him run wild; of course he should be taught to obey and to be mannerly, and to control his temper through the wise direction of his energies. But the omission of these things by some few extreme parents is not why our prisons are filled, why some people are boorish, or why men and women fail in life.

Our prisons are filled through a variety of causes—subnormality, criminal associations, and that tragic enemy of life, poverty, which undernourishes, stunts, and throws a child into the streets for play and education in his hours of leisure.

Failures in business or professional life have many causes not traceable to home training.

And boorishness—well, most children with any sense at all, when they grow up, see the need of manners and acquire them.

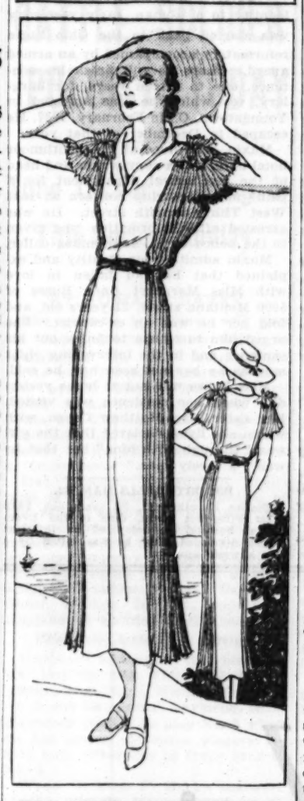
NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. William Warner Hoppin, whose great-grandfather was Albert Gallatin, secretary of the treasury, will be the hostess on Thursday afternoon at Friendship Hill, her country home at Glen Head, at a garden party for the members of the Nassau County League of Republican Women.

Plaits Rush to Sides of French Summer Frocks



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Plaits continue to fascinate the French dressmakers, particularly Augustabernard, who made such a hit with her plaited evening frocks this spring. Daytime dresses with a rush of plaits to each side are a feature of the new collection of this house.

This way of disposing of plaits gives us all a break, because plaiting fore and aft of summer skirts takes a tremendous amount of upkeep in hot weather, whereas plaits at the sides of a frock are less subject to daily depressing.

The dress in our sketch today is one of Augustabernard's fascinating sideplaited summer frocks. It's made of a creamy crêpe romaine with a wide swath of unplaited material down the front and back, while from shoulders to hem at both sides is finely knife plaited. The short sleeves are just plaited ruffles, and they have small plaited butterflies of the material set up on the shoulders for height. These give a sort of wing effect that Paris loves.

BY MARY MEADE.

One gets a feeling of power, luxury, and ease out of having a baked ham in the family larder. The cook can even lie back on her chaise longue or in a 98 cent hammock and dare the neighbors to drop in for dinner and all the World's Fair relatives to arrive en masse. For what an ingenious kitcheneer can't do with a baked ham, fore and aft, before carving and after, is a matter too meager to discuss.

For the idea these nice hot days is to pack the time spent in the kitchen with important deeds. Which means—cook sufficient food at one time for several meals. Especially ham. Serve it hot with a grand gesture and lots of cloves for the first dinner. Then slice it, dice it, mince it, or otherwise change it for the ensuing meals.

1 teaspoon mustard
½ cup vinegar, pineapple juice, or cider
½ cup brown sugar
Whole cloves

Wash and dry the ham. Arrange it in a roaster, turning the fat side up. Add enough hot water to well cover the bottom, about one quart. Cover the roaster with its lid and let the ham cook in a slow oven (300 degrees F.), allowing twenty-one minutes to the pound. When about half done remove the rind and sprinkle the fat surface with the paprika and mustard. Add the vinegar or its substitute to the liquid in the pan and continue cooking. Baste frequently. About one hour before serving sprinkle the fat surface with the brown sugar, spike with whole cloves, and continue baking without basting until browned and done.

If you have been letting your thoughts rotate around pineapple juice in the line of bastings for a baking ham or ham slice, take a broader look at the possibilities. Tempting substitutes for pineapple are grape juice, apple cider, apricot, peach, and cherry juice. Or sometime get truly adventurous and try basting your ham with a pint of gingerale. You'll thereafter dote on it!

Then comes the second day of the ham festival. Since the Browns and the Smiths always slice their next edition and serve it cold, let's chop instead. For instance, try to think of something better than:

HAM HASH WITH POACHED EGGS.

2 tablespoons ham drippings
½ green pepper, minced
½ medium sized onion, minced
2-3 cup diced celery
2 cups left-over ham, chopped
2 cups chopped cooked potatoes
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Melt the drippings in a frying pan and simmer in it the green pepper, onion, and the celery. When browned add the ham, potatoes, and the seasonings. If too dry add a little hot water. With a flat wooden spoon shape into six patties, about one inch thick. Sauté in drippings until richly browned. Serve up hot with a poached egg, dashed with salt, pepper.

Sally to Give Special Prize for Best Letter

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Remember I told you yesterday that you'd better take a few extra pains with those letters for invitations to our Jack and Jill party next week. Well, here's the reason why!

The boy and girl who write the very best letters of all those received, will be presented with an extremely nice prize in addition to winning an invitation to see the charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Olive Beaupre Miller, a well known writer of children's tories, will autograph two of her books and give them to the youngsters whose letters are judged as best of all those sent in.

It should be very simple to write a good letter about this party. The rules will be as usual. Just tell me why you think you'd enjoy seeing "Little Lord Fauntleroy" as presented by the Jack and Jill players, and include your name, address and age in your note.

All you girls who like to dress up in mother's old clothes and play at being grown-up will be very much interested in the young members of this group. It was organized to give children with a knack for acting a chance to do so under supervision.

And you boys needn't think any of the lads in the group are sissies, either. Several of them are well known radio stars, playing in children's shows. In fact, one of the most popular boys on the air came to the attention of the group director, Marie Agnes Foley, through a Sally Jay Brown party some years ago.

These children have appeared all over the city presenting various sketches for boys and girls, and were featured at Enchanted Island at the World's Fair this year.

So if you'd like to compete for an invitation and a copy of a very beautiful book, you'd better settle down and write that letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, because it must reach me by Wednesday.

U. S. ENVOY HAILS UNIFYING FORCE IN NEW WORLD

Spirit of Monroe Doctrine Praised by Culbertson.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A unifying force is operating among the American states, even under their differences and even conflicts, W. S. Culbertson, American ambassador to Chile, said today in an address at the University of Chile.

His speech was delivered on the occasion of his reception as an honorary member of the faculty of juridical and social sciences, the highest award given by the institution and one accorded to Theodore Roosevelt when he visited Chile after his "River of Doubt" expedition.

Supports Monroe Doctrine Spirit.

Mr. Culbertson did not mention the Monroe Doctrine, but cited with approval certain declarations by South American governments supporting the spirit of this famous enunciation.

"More convincing evidence, however, is found in the feeling which you and I have that there is something which, while it does not isolate, it does definitely set apart the Americas from the rest of the world."

Two Traditions Cited.

Two traditions, or policies, he said, defining the distinction between the Americas and the rest of the world, are common to all the American peoples.

"The first tradition or policy is directed against non-American political intervention in the affairs of the new world," Mr. Culbertson continued. "It asserts not only the independence of the American republics but the concern felt by each American republic for the maintenance of the political independence of the other American republics."

The ambassador expressed the conviction that the fact the American republics have declared their political independence from Europe and have "shown their determination to maintain it for themselves and for their fellow republics" has prevented, and continues to prevent, action by non-American powers.

Unity Is Emphasized.

"Europe and Asia understand, even if some individuals in the Americas do not," he said, "that there is a latent force of protection in the psychology of the American peoples—a force which is coöperative self-preservation."

The second traditional policy, he asserted, is the recognition of the equality of the American republics under international law "and the loyalty of these republics to the conception of a untiy among themselves."

INDICT RAILROAD AND 6 ON REBATE FRAUD CHARGES

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad company and six Chicago commission merchants and firms were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on charges of violating the Elkins act by unlawfully receiving, soliciting and granting rebates.

The commission merchants named in the indictments, returned before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, are Gebler & Troen, 63 South Water Market; Harry Troen; Hyman B. Frost, 63 South Water Market; N. Lapedus, 59 South Water Market; A. Arenberg, president of Arenberg, Kramer & Co., 163 South Water Market, and Arenberg, Kramer & Co.

"The return of the indictments is the result of an investigation initiated several months ago by the interstate commerce commission," said Assistant United States Attorney Benjamin F. Landis. "As soon as additional evidence of the practice of filing false claims with railroads and receiving rebates in the guise of false damage claims is disclosed, these matters will be presented for the consideration of the grand jury."

Four Rob West Side Hotel Before Eyes of 15 Guests

LAWYER ARRAIGNED TODAY FOR BOMBING OF STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Eugene S. Daniell Jr., young Boston lawyer and Harvard graduate, will be arraigned today on suspicion of malicious mischief in connection with the gas bombing of the stock exchange on Friday. He has been held in the Tombs in default of $10,000 bail.

Inspector John A. Lyons, who received a report today from Acting Lieutenant Charles E. J. Newman, in charge of the bomb squad, soon after the latter's return from Boston, where he investigated Daniell's political activities, said:

"Lieut. Newman dug up plenty of evidence in Boston. I am satisfied that if the Boston witnesses come forward an indictment and conviction will follow."

The police said that Daniell, in his uniform of a private in Battery A, 101st field artillery, Massachusetts National Guard—walked into an Iver Johnson sporting goods store in Boston some time in June and bought two tear gas bombs, saying they were for use at Camp Devens, Mass.

TELLS GIRL HIS IDENTITY; TAKEN BACK TO PRISON

Paul Maxin, 25 years old, alias J. Paul Faraday, an escaped convict who had risen to a responsible position with a paint company here and who was detected because he revealed his identity to a woman, early yesterday was started back to the Ohio State reformatory accompanied by an armed guard. There he will finish his sentence, one to fifteen years, for burglary, for which he was arrested in Youngstown, O., in February, 1927. He escaped in December of that year.

Maxin, who lived at the Southmoor hotel here, was a copy writer and head of the mechanical department for a paint manufacturing concern at 1444 West Thirty-seventh street. He was arrested after information was given to the police by an anonymons caller.

Maxin admitted his identity and explained that he had fallen in love with Miss Margaret Anne Busse of 5000 Montana street, 21 years old, and told her he was an ex-convict. She urged him to return to finish out his sentence and in the intervening eight months he has not seen her, he said.

Miss Busse was not at home yesterday when her residence was visited. Her sister, Mrs. Matthew Degen, with whom she lives, declared that the girl was "through with him," but that he was "a lovely man."

DR. M. D. REDLICH, CHICAGO CONSUL, WED IN VIRGINIA

Dr. Marcellus D. Redlich, consul in Chicago for Monaco, was married Saturday at Fredericksburg, Va., to Fredericka Adelaide Doll of Shreveport, La., according to information received in Chicago yesterday. The ceremony was read by the Rev. Joseph Brennan of St. Mary's Catholic church, Fredericksburg. The bridegroom gave his age as 40, while the bride said she was 19.

Dr. Redlich, who is Austrian by birth, gained considerable notice in November, 1929, when arrangements for his marriage to Mrs. Katharine Winterbotham Buchanan were canceled. Both the announcement of their supposed engagement and the cancellation of the wedding came from Mrs. Buchanan, Dr. Redlich making no comment except to refer questioners to her.

Mrs. Buchanan later married Kumar Jehan Seesodia-Warlixer of India. Her first marriage was to Thompson Buchanan, playwright. It ended in 1925 with a divorce. At present Mrs. Warliker and Buchanan are engaged in a legal fight over the custody of their two children.

Why should pipe tobacco be "Rough Cut"..what's the common-sense way to pack it

WHEN we started to make Granger Rough Cut, we knew that fine tobacco burnt hot because it burnt so fast. You could hardly hold your pipe in your hand, it got so hot at times.

Then we knew that folks back yonder used to "whittle" their tobacco, so we made Granger just like "whittle" tobacco—"Rough Cut."

We have yet to know of a man who started to smoke Granger who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The serpentine creek which touches upon 14 holes of the Oak Park Country club, played hob with the hopes of a goodly portion of the field yesterday in the qualifying round of the 31st annual amateur tournament of the Women's Western Golf association.

It failed, however, to make any impression on the play of Bernice Wall, the comely Oshkosh, Wis., star, who has been a consistent figure in big time tournaments, local, national, and international. The Wisconsin girl, competing from the Glen Oak Country club of the Chicago district, came nearer solving Oak Park's creek and traps than any one else in the field, shooting a 39—40—79, one over women's par, to win the qualifying medal.

Jean Armstrong Second.

Two strokes back of the medalist was Jean Armstrong of Indian Hill, Chicago district champion last year, who finished the 18 hole test with a 41—40—81. Tied at 82 was a trio of visitors, including Mrs. Leon Solomon of Memphis, Tenn; Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia., runner-up in last year's western, and Elizabeth Abbott of Los Angeles.

Virginia Van Wie of Beverly, national woman's champion, who entered the western to tune up for the defense of her title at Exmoor later this month, encountered some difficulty yesterday, but gained the match play rounds comfortably enough with a 42—41—83.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, who won her third western championship last year at Peoria, was not required to qualify, but played nevertheless, coming home with an 82. June Beebe of Olympia Fields, who had dominated the Chicago women's golf picture thus far this year by winning the western open, the western derby and the Chicago district, had to fight to advance to the match play, taking an 89.

Match Play Today.

The low 32 scorers yesterday will be paired in the first round of the championship flight at eighteen holes this morning, the first match starting at 8:30 o'clock. Eighteen hole matches will be played tomorrow, Thursday, and Friday, with the final on Saturday scheduled for 36 holes. A driving contest will follow today's first round matches, with an approaching and putting contest on tomorrow afternoon's program. A mixed foursome event will be played Thursday afternoon.

In the first round matches this morning, Mrs. Hill will begin her quest for a fourth championship by meeting Mrs. H. Austin Pardue of Minneapolis, Minnesota state champion. Miss Wall will be matched against Mrs. Melvin Jones, Lincolnshire star.

Cards of Leaders.

Par—Out	535	553	554—40
Par—In	544	345	535—38—78
Miss Wall—Out	535	553	454—39
Miss Wall—In	445	256	635—40—79
Miss Armstrong—Out	625	553	555—41
Miss Armstrong—In	545	255	545—40—81
Miss Van Wie—Out	535	664	544—42
Miss Van Wie—In	444	466	535—41—83

Miss Wall began her medal winning march by following the card perfectly for six holes. She collected a birdie at the seventh, where she sent her third shot five feet from the pin and ran down the putt for a 4. Her second shot at the eighth was trapped, but she earned her par 5 and reached the turn in 39, one under par.

Birdie on Tenth.

She was two under par after the tenth, where she sank an eight footer for her second birdie. She took her par at the eleventh, but was over at the twelfth, where her second shot turned up in a trap at the right. She deuced the 145 yard thirteenth with an eight foot putt and then was over par for the next three holes, largely through hooked tee shots. She got her pars on the last two to be home in 40 for a 79.

Miss Armstrong didn't get away too well, taking a six at the first hole, where her second shot found a bad lie. She evened that with a four foot putt for a deuce on the second green. The Indian Hill star then matched the card to the ninth, where she went over by missing a two footer.

Miss Van Wie's Round.

Miss Van Wie was even par to the fourth tee, at which she dubbed her drive. She needed three putts to get down at the next hole, but got a birdie on the eighth with a five footer, going out in 42. Another five footer gave her a second birdie at the 10th. Her ball was imbedded in the sand at the 13th, and she took a 4. The national champion drove the rough and sent her second into a trap at the 14th, and missed a short putt at the 15th. From there on she steadied, matching par for the last three holes.

Three 92 scorers—Mrs. J. M. Brambach of Euclid Hills, Miss Marian Callahan of Madison, Wis., and Miss Mary Lord of Kansas City—were forced into a play off for the last place in the championship flight, with Mrs. Bram-

Pro Golfers Open National Meet at Milwaukee Today

BY CHARLES NEVADA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—The 15th annual National Professional Golfers' association tournament will open here tomorrow over the Blue Mound country club course. One hundred and two pros, including Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, the defending champion, and five other members of the United States Ryder cup team, have indicated they will be on hand for the 36 hole qualifying round competition, a necessary prelude of the meet proper, which may or may not turn out a new title holder by Sunday.

These players, or a majority of them, will set out tomorrow morning on the first 18 hole round, with Len Mattson of St. Paul, George Pulver of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and Benno Pautke of Bedford, Mich., forming the first threesome at 8 o'clock. Another 18 holes will be played in the afternoon, with the low 32 scorers surviving for match play on Wednesday. All matches will be 36 holes.

Absence of Densmore Shute, Walter Hagen, Craig Wood, and Paul Runyan probably will be reflected in the attendance. Shute, British open champion, and Hagen are in Europe on an exhibition tour. Wood cannot leave his pro duties at Deal, N. J. Why Runyan will not be here was not announced.

Winner to Get $1,000.

There is enough first class talent to expect good scoring. Take the list of internationalists, for example. It contains the names of Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Mexico; Gene Sarazen of Miami, Fla.; Ed Dudley of Concordville, Pa.; Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill.; Billy Burke of Greenwich, Conn., and, of course, Olin Dutra. As members of the Ryder Cup squad they were exempted from qualifying in earlier sectional tests.

More than $7,000 will be paid out in prize money to the 32 who succeed in staying in after tomorrow's two rounds, with the champion due to receive $1,000 in cash and a huge cup that has been handed down to each winner since Jim Barnes first had his name engraved thereon.

On the basis of what the boys have been doing in practice here since last Thursday, Olin Dutra figures to have considerable trouble retaining his laurels. Reggie Myles of Ashland, O., carded a 66 last Saturday, a total that was 4 under par and within one stroke of the course record. Twenty-two year old Johnny Revolta of Menominee, Mich., got around yesterday in a 68, an aggregate that has been equaled by several others.

Post Scores of 67.

Olin Dutra and Joe Turnesa, the latter of New York, proceeded to burn up the course after rain had stopped. Both posted 67s, Dutra on 33—34 and Turnesa on 36—31. Joe Turnesa, playing with his brother, Mike, scored five birdies on the last nine holes. Diegel and Cruickshank each shot a 69. Harry Hampton, Francis Gallett, and a couple of others had 71s. These performances offer additional evidence the pros are out to lower the course record during the next six days.

One of the favorite threesomes tomorrow will be made up of Dutra, Cruickshank, now of Richmond, Va., and Francis Gallett, home course pro, who twice shot 65 over it. This trio

Dublinsky would have won in the third on a foul after Baxter punched low, but the Chicagoan refused to quit, continuing the scrap after a brief rest. He weighed 136½; Baxter, 133.

WESTERN STARS BATTLE SOLDIER POLOISTS TODAY

Tune Up for Opening of Title Series Sunday.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The western polo team will play its second practice game today in preparation for the intersectional series with Tommy Hitchcock's eastern squad. Elmer Boeske, Cecil Smith, Aidan Roark and Rube Williams will line up against the Fort Sheridan high goal team in a trial contest, which will begin at 4 p. m. at Onwentsia.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, chairman of the managing committee of the series, received word from the east yesterday that Hitchcock had named his squad for the series which will open Sunday at the Onwentsia field. This squad will consist of Mike Phipps, Winston Guest, Raymond Guest, William Post II., and Earle Hopping, in addition to Hitchcock.

Hitchcock Announces Lineup.

Hitchcock announced that his team will line up with Phipps at No. 1, Hitchcock at No. 2, Winston Guest at No. 3, and his brother, Raymond, back. Hitchcock prefers to play No. 2 when he has strong defensive players behind him. Otherwise he drops back to No. 3.

When Carleton F. Burke, manager of the western team, placed Smith and Williams definitely in the lineup, he was selecting two men who had played together for ten year. Hitchcock answered this strategy by placing Winston and Raymond Guest in his starting lineup, these two having played side by side for eight years. The other members of both squads have been through every few contests together, Sunday having been the first time the four westerners had played as a unit.

Easterners Praise Boeseke.

New York polo ists, who witnessed Sunday's game between the west and the army, yesterday voiced considerable praise for Boeseke's roving style of play, pointing out the ease with which this veteran of international competition changed his tactics from attack to defense as the situation demanded. Boeseke is expected to be a particularly valuable man on the western team, as he is thoroughly acquainted with the technique of Phipps and Winston Guest. He played with them during a successful invasion of Argentina.

Roark's long, accurate hitting and fearless riding aroused much favorable comment. Throughout Sunday's contest he never dubbed a stroke. He showed his versatility by functioning with equal ability at back and No. 3.

Neil McCarthy, who is in charge of the team pending the arrival of Burke, is expected to recommend a lineup consisting of Boeseke, No. 1; Smith, No. 2; Roark, No. 3, and Williams, back, today.

Williams Better at Back.

This was the battle front used in the last two chukkers of Sunday's game, Williams having been at No. 1 during the earlier stages. However, he has played back through the greater part of his career and has learned to fulfill the requirements of that position in masterful fashion. Polo experts say that no offensive player can do his best work when he is being harassed by hard riding Rube. It is thought, therefore, that Williams will be of greatest value in stopping the scoring sallies of Phipps and Hitchcock.

The western players gave their ponies a workout yesterday on the Onwentsia field, devoting particular attention to the mounts which were not used in Sunday's game. Each eastern player plans to bring eight horses.

HALAIKO GETS VERDICT; RAMEY DOWN 3 TIMES

West Springfield, Mass., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Steve Halaiko, lightweight from Buffalo, whipped Wesley Ramey of Grand Rapids, Mich., in ten rounds here tonight. This was their sixth bout. Steve now has taken two decisions, while Ramey has three. There was one draw. Ramey went to the canvas three times during the bout.

A TENNIS STAR EXPLAINS WHY HE WON'T TURN PRO

BY AN AMATEUR TENNIS PLAYER
WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, Aug. 7. — I am a high ranking amateur tennis player who shall be anonymous and I have been wondering whether I and my wife ought to turn professional, but I have decided that we should not do so because I think that doing so would be to seriously degrade the ideal of amateurism in sport and set a bad example for the young players who might be influenced by this example to place monetary gain above the ideal of true sportsmanship and become veritable tennis bums.

My wife is a very good player herself and she feels the same as I do about the proposition, as she does not wish to be placed on a level with Babe Ruth and other strictly commercial athletes, whereas we are now welcomed at the most exclusive homes and clubs and do not have to bother about commercial details such as living expenses.

Furthermore, by association with the socially exclusive millionaires in Newport, Southampton, and Seabright I figure to sell enough insurance to retain my self-respect as a sportsman playing the game for the sake of the sport alone. When the depression is over I figure to also sell enough real estate and bonds to make me independent of commercialism and become a leader of the exclusive society bon ton myself.

Tennis Brings Out Writing Ability.

I figure by my writing up newspaper reports of the tennis tournaments which I and my wife take part in that I will also make a good income on the side without exploiting my tennis fame, as I have always wanted to write and I think writing is a gift that if you have it "in" you then you will be a success at the literature "game." If I win the men's national a couple of years and also the Wimbledon then I figure to write my life story for some big magazine, and I think this experience of winning the highest titular baubles in the "realm of the racquet" will improve my writing ability, and naturally I will be able to command a higher price for my writeup of my life, also my wife's.

I think winning a major championship is a great education and it also develops a person's literary style so that they are much "sought after" by editors, whereas if you do not win any championships one is likely not to develop their "gift" for writing.

Nothing Like That International Flavor.

One year just after I was wounded by "Cupid's dart" and got wedded, the tennis people were figuring on trying to, if possible, get the Chinese and the Australians and the Italian tennis people to send over their teams for the big eastern tournaments around New York and Philadelphia as this international "flavor" would enhance much to the success of the tournaments.

The Chinese, the Australians and the Italian people replied that they would be willing to gladly comply with this sporting invitation and send over their best players if the Americans would first send over a mixed team to sound the international "flavor" in their tournaments and thus help to raise enough money to pay the expenses of sending their players to the United States.

Our people tried a number of our players but were meeting with "scant success" as so many of the Americans are commercially inclined and placed monetary gain above the ideal of pure sportsmanship by preferring to stick to their jobs. I and my wife leaped into the breach, however, and I quit my job as contract man for a sporting goods concern, as we were willing to make personal sacrifices for the good of the sportsmanship ideal.

It's So Hard to Recall Expenditures.

That fall we sailed from San Francisco in September and played tournaments all over the Orient until winter and then down to Australia for more

Double Plays Stop Attack of Chicago Team.

The Cubs, after resting yesterday, will open a two game series with the St. Louis Cardinals at Wrigley field this afternoon. Story on page 18.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7.—Rogers Hornsby's tailend Browns this afternoon made it three out of four in their series with the White Sox by taking an easy shoutout victory, 6 to 0. The Sox made seven hits, got a runner to third in the fifth and ninth innings and hit into five double plays.

Lena Stiles is the name of the pitcher who stood the Comiskeys on their heads today. It was his second win of the year and his first in a game which he pitched all the way.

Make Double Plays.

Simmons and Berry were the double play specialists. Al batted into his in the first and sixth innings and Charley did his tapping in the fifth and seventh innings. Dykes ended the game with No. 5.

Save for an unearned run with two out in the eighth the Brownies concentrated their attack in the fourth inning when J. Whitlow Wyatt bogged down after holding the enemy hitless in the first three innings. J. Whitlow's collapse was so thorough that Manager Fonseca had no successor ready and the young man was obliged to lob up a double, a walk, two singles, a double, and a single in succession before he could flee his tortuous environment. Heving went in and pitched 2-hit ball for 3 2-3 innings before giving way to a pinch batter.

The shutout today was a great shock to the Sox, who escaped a shutout in the second game yesterday only because of a pinch homer in the ninth. The lads had been struggling to win their 49th victory to tie the win record of last year's Sox. They still have 50 games in which to pass last year's victory total, however. And there isn't a man on the team who doesn't think the team can break the record.

Sox Waste Passes.

The way the game started off it seemed as if the Sox were destined to make a flock or runs in the first inning. Swanson and Haas walked. Then progress halted abruptly. Kress fanned and Simmons grounded into a double play.

The only other Sox threat prior to the Browns' fourth inning outburst was a single by Swanson with two out in the third, if you want to call one single a threat.

The Browns didn't make a hit off Wyatt in the first three innings, but in the fourth the former Detroiter lost everything except his name plate. After West had fouled to Berry, Garms doubled to right. Campbell walked. Then followed successive hits by Burns, Melillo, Shea and Levey before Manager Fonseca could get Heving warmed up. The net of the five hit barrage was five runs. After Heving went in to pitch, Stiles sacrificed Levey to second, and Storti flied to Swanson.

Sox Curl Up Again.

The Sox in the fifth again curled up after getting the first two batsmen on base. Dykes led off with the second hit off Stiles and Hayes walked. Berry then tapped into a double play and Heving popped to Levey.

Haas made Sox hit No. 3 with one down in the sixth, a single which was too warm for Levey to grasp. Kress walked, but Simmons again hit into a double play.

Appling opened the seventh with a single to center. Dykes was called out on strikes, but Hayes smashed a single off Burns' glove, Appling stopping at second. Berry again hit into a double play.

In the ninth Kress led off with a single and went to third on a single by Simmons. Appling then fanned and Dykes bounced into the Browns' fifth double play.

NEW YORK'S 9TH INNING RALLIES BRING VICTORIES

Washington Lead Is Cut to One Game.

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Two ninth inning rallies, with Ben Chapman and Joe Sewell hammering out the deciding hits, today sent the New York Yankees bounding forward within one game of a tie for the American league leadership as they twice turned back the Washington Senators in a double header before a crowd of 45,000. The scores were 6 to 5 and 5 to 4.

Chapman's all-important hit, one of the two he collected in the two games, came in the first contest. With two out and second and third bases occupied, he slashed a single through Joe Cronin, sending Earl Combs and Sam Byrd, running for Babe Ruth, across the plate with the tying and winning runs.

Sewell's Single Scores Crosetti.

The score was tied at four-all with two out in the second game, when Sewell drove his single into right field, scoring Frank Crosetti with the run that gave the world champions their seventh victory in 16 games played with the league leaders this year.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig made possible Sewell's feat with home runs. The Babe connected with his 26th of the season in the eighth to send the Yanks into a temporary one run lead, while Gehrig cracked out his 20th in the first inning.

In the first game, the Senators scored all of their runs in the second inning off Russell Van Atta but thereafter found the young southpaw's delivery a puzzle. Van Atta was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Wilcy Moore set the Senators down in order in the ninth, and was the winning pitcher.

Meanwhile, the Yankees kept pounding away at Alvin Crowder and finally drove him from the mound in the fourth. Jack Russell finished the game and was charged with the defeat.

Crowder also got into the second contest in time to be charged with the defeat although Walter Stewart pitched the first eight innings. Ruffing was the starting pitcher for the Yankees but he too was removed when he showed signs of wildness in the ninth and Herb Pennock, his relief, received credit for the triumph.

DEAN MAY PUT ON STRIKEOUT STUNT WITH CUBS TODAY

Dizzy Says He'll Whiff 20 This Time.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, whose personal uplift campaign made no headway because of the even break over the week-end with the Pirates, will attempt to make a fresh start today. All they have to do is to take two in a row from the St. Louis Cardinals, who themselves have pennant ambitions.

The chances for this fresh start being successful seem slim when you stop to think that among the Cardinals is Mr. Dizzy Dean, whose pitching makes a baseball seem the size of a pea whenever the Cubs are trying to hit it.

The Cubs are still wearing mourning bands on the insides of their hats because of what the impetuous Dean did to them the last time they paid him a visit. A week ago last Sunday nothing less than 17 strikeouts satisfied him. That was one of six straight games the Cubs dropped to the Pirates and Cards.

Dizzy Knows He's Good.

The great Dean is likely to pitch either today or tomorrow, and it is whispered about that he now has an idea that he might be able to improve on his past performance. If you'd ask him about it he'd say he certainly is good enough to touch the 20 mark. The young man is that confident in himself. Dean is supposed to have been a bit peeved because the day he fanned 17 Gabby Hartnett wasn't in action.

The garrulous Hartnett, as is well known, is one of our best striker-outs. Billy Campbell, who worked in his place that day, fanned only once, so Dean figures he was cheated out of at least two whiffs.

If Dean should oil up his strikeout ball and go to work this afternoon it would be a rather unfortunate occurrence for Charley Root. He will serve for the Cubs. If Dean should be held over until tomorrow Burleigh Grimes probably will start for the visitors.

Face Long Road Trip.

The Cubs, after tomorrow, will have to get along as best they can without the tonic that the sight of their own park instills in them. They're back here next Sunday for a single game with the Pirates and that will be their only appearance at home until Sept. 3. In the interval they'll play at Pittsburgh, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, and Cincinnati. If they can get through that journey with their ears still in place it will be time enough to take them seriously as contenders. They have the last month of the season on their home field, and that's something. They have won 25 of their last 29 games at home.

After Malone's application of whitewash to the Pirates on Sunday it appears as if the big fellow is headed for a high class finish. That will help considerably. Root and Guy Bush usually are dependable. That makes three starters. Bud Tinning has lost none of his skill. The only worry is Lon Warneke's failure to win as he did last season. Possibly the Arkansas Sniper misses the help Rogers Hornsby, when manager, gave him on every pitched ball.

SIMMONS GETS ONLY 1 HIT, BUT TAKES A. L. LEAD

Al Simmons climbed back into the batting leadership of the American league yesterday although getting only one hit in four times at bat. The White Sox outfielder's average dropped one point to .356, but Jimmie Foxx, failing to get a hit in the same number of times at the plate, lost four points. His average fell to .354. Heinie Manush, the third member of the American league's half of the sextet, got two hits but he was at bat eight times and as the result lost one point. The National league players were idle.

The standings:

Klein, Phillies	102	408	68	156	.382
Terry, Giants	76	292	46	104	.356
Simmons, White Sox	104	436	69	155	.356
Foxx, Athletics	99	376	88	133	.354
Davis, Phillies	96	345	34	121	.351
Manush, Senators	103	446	79	151	.339

DR. I. N. TROUP TAKES DENTISTS' TRAPSHOOT TITLE

Dr. I. N. Troup of Olean, N. Y., won the trapshooting championship of the American Dental association yesterday in the annual tournament held at the Lincoln Park Gun club under the auspices of A Century of Progress.

Dr. Troup won the title in a shoot off with G. H. Elliott, Nashville, Tenn., and Dr. E. J. Davis, East Chicago, Ind., after the trio had tied with 96 hits out of a possible 100 targets. Dr Troup shot a perfect 25 in the shoot-off, while Elliot with 23 hits took second place and Davis, with 22, third.

NO PLANS FOR BECOMING PRO, VINES DECLARES

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Ellsworth Vines, Wimbledon and American singles tennis champion, denied today that he planned to turn professional with Jack Crawford, Fred Perry and Henri Cochet and tour the world.

"It's a good idea, but I have had no definite offer," Vines said. According to reports, the offer depends on Vines retaining his American championship in the tournament at Forest Hills next month.

Sox Leave for Old Home Town and 2 Days' Rest

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7.—The Sox started for Chicago tonight, there to enjoy two days off before receiving the Detroit Tigers.

A shower which fell shortly before game time caused grave consternation. If today's contest had been rained out the Sox would have had to stay over tomorrow.

St. Louis papers today are busy appointing Al Simmons 1934 White Sox manager. It seems, on composite rumors, that next year's Sox will be managed by a committee composed of Lew Fonseca, Simmons, Jimmy Dykes, and Babe Ruth.

Rogers Hornsby, in a chat before the game, said he has been delighted with the way his Browns have been hustling. Like most managers, he has scouts pounding the bushes in quest of pitchers. He says he will sell Irv Burns to the Sox next off season.

Today's encounter concluded the Chicagoans' 1933 activities in St. Louis—that is, providing the Sox and Cardinals aren't world series contenders.

A Tennis Star Explains Why He's Amateur

months of missionary work spreading the gospel of unselfish sportsmanship. Everywhere we went for nothing but our expenses. It is hard to keep track of one's expenses when they are constantly on the got with a case of tip, tip, tip all the time and naturally having to buy an occasional round or refreshments for people in a foreign land who have been treating one with lavish hospitality, so I hit upon a convenient plan of just computing my expenses as a certain per cent of the gross receipts, for convenience to avoid the bothersome details of bookkeeping.

We traveled first class, of course, as to not do so would be a bad precedent as it might give the public a poor impression of the social caliber of the people who "go in for" tennis "in a big way," and we always strove to "keep our end up" wherever we were by constantly keeping a chartered limousine at our disposal to prevent people from getting an idea that tennis players are of the poorer classes socially.

After Australia we went to New Zealand for a few tournaments, and from there we gradually played our way to Italy and then up to the Riviera and Wimbledon and the big French tournaments and home, always maintaining the highest standards of amateurism. It had a "lucky break" one place where I was invited to play an exhibition and did not feel well enough.

Ideals of Amateurism Must Be Guarded.

The promoter was very disappointed as he said the crowd would not come out if I did not play, but I said I would not flaunt the ideal of sportsmanship and play when it was a drudgery as the true amateur spirit is the spirit of fun, sport and amusement. The promoter then layed down four playing cards on a table and said he would give me $500 if I could pick out an ace if I felt sufficiently improved to play. I not only picked out one ace out of the four cards but four aces as they were all aces and I was so won over by his gameness that I did positively not have the heart to disappoint all those people in a foreign land.

In France my wife was a great "hit" with the fashionable dressmakers as she is naturally "chic" and a great favorite wherever she goes, so the French dressmakers, who are certainly the biggest hearted and most generous people I have ever seen, simply showered her with gifts of dresses and even went to the length of advertising in the tournament programs that my wife was costumed by them because they were so proud of this honor.

Art Patrons Fancy Player's Sketches.

I have always been fond of drawing as well as writing and I added to my legitimate income on the tour by drawing some little sketches which I sold to various wealthy art patrons connected with clubs which were running tournaments, receiving $200 each for some of the sketches and received a great compliment from a noted world renowned art critic who wrote that they were very extraordinary indeed.

So I am convinced that in holding up the highest ideals of amateurism I and my wife are doing the right thing which posterity will approve and I will always be able to look the whole world in the eye as a sportsman setting a respectable example to the younger players not to become tennis bums and exploit sport for sordid gain.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

Blaney, Mich., Aug. 7.—A fisherman might feel safer with a little wild animal scare accident insurance when he fishes the Crow river up here. Yesterday we pulled on our trout waders about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and started to fish a few minutes later. From that time on until almost dark some species of bird or animal continued to create excitement in the outdoor arena near us while we tossed various kinds of lures to the brook trout.

The first wild creature to startle us was a woodcock. We started to fish a series of deep holes in the Crow river just below the Perkins bridge. Here a short riffle slides into deep water. Along the banks are tangles of old logs and dead cedar branches above which stand rows of green alders. We splashed through the riffles to get ready for the first cast when suddenly a bird that appeared as big as a duck as viewed from the corner of our left eye popped into the air not 12 feet from us, lofted over the green alders as light as a feather, and disappeared. It happened so quickly and unexpectedly that we couldn't realize that a woodcock actually had appeared and then disappeared.

We continued down stream casting all the likely looking holes among the snags from which we had taken brook trout in late May. Not a black fly nor a mosquito was in evidence. The big hatch of these insects which gave trout fishermen so much trouble early in the year has come and gone up here. Not once did we have to reach for the mosquito dope and spread it over exposed skin. We continued to cast both sides of the stream and slipped around a bend, approaching a shallow pond formed by a widening of the Crow. Intent on the depth of the water and the placement of our fly we failed to look to our left when we quietly emerged upon the pond.

Suddenly there was a frightened squawk and a furious flapping of wings as a startled blue heron [which had been fishing about 15 feet away on the edge of the mucky pond] tried to make a getaway.

That bird called us names as he bucked the north wind, frightened and indignant because we had appeared so suddenly. No sooner had this big bird disappeared than a black mallard lifted itself out of the vegetation on the right bank and it, too, hurried away from what just a few minutes before had been a quiet north woods trout stream.

BOOKIES TO MAKE BIG CLEANUP IF SENATORS WIN

New York, Aug. 7.—[Special.]—Broadway betting commissioners are in line to clean up nearly three millions if the Washington Senators win the American league baseball pennant, according to estimates made today.

The Yankees were 3 to 5 favorites in the betting before their dismal western trip. Betting was heavy on the Yankees throughout the country, and if they fail to win the public will pay and the bookies will celebrate.

CITY MEET MONDAY

Chicago's oldest golf tournament, the 29th annual city amateur meet, will begin next Monday at Jackson park, continuing through Saturday. The entry fee is $2.50 and may be mailed to Jack F. Kelly, chairman of the tournament committee, 1541 East 63d street, or turned over at the tee Monday. There will be five flights, with ten trophies for the winners and runners up of each.

The tournament is unique in that no qualifying round is necessary, since match play starts immediately from the first tee. The draw is seeded, the flight a player enters being determined by his handicap. The championship flight includes golfers with handicaps of from 1 to 10 strokes, the first flight from 11 to 17 strokes, and the second flight for those over 17 strokes. Losers in the first round of the championship and first flights may enter consolation flights, for which prizes also will be awarded.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A finish so close it took the eagle eyes of the judges to separate the two leaders marked the running of the Gateway purse at Hawthorne yesterday afternoon.

After the judges had trained their eyes on the charging steeds as they pounded past the winning post to a point where the lenses of their binoculars were ready to burst, Ted Clark, a son of Chatterton-Uncle Lassie, got the decision over Dusky Devil, the even money favorite.

Ted Clark was a long shot and hails from the stable of Clyde Van Dusen, the youthful Kentuckian, who has developed the two sensational fillies Mata Hari and Far Star this year. After he ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:47 1-5 he paid off in the mutuels at $20.94.

One Chance Is Forgotten.

One Chance was third, but was lost in the excitement of the finish of the two leaders. The official placing did not satisfy all the folk in the crowd. Many booed and hooted, but this was a nose and nose finish which couldn't be determined correctly by any one that wasn't on a direct line with the wire. The judges enjoy that vantage point, so they must have been right.

The start was a bit ragged. Edith A., a newcomer from Kentucky, was away badly and Pot au Brooms was caught short when the barrier lifted. There had been a plunge on Edith A., so those who bet on her added to the commotion by booing at the getaway.

Dusky Devil and Ted Clark fought it out for the honors all through the early stages with My Counsellor and Spartan Lady making a bid for honors on a couple of occasions.

Becomes Two Horse Race.

When the field reached the head of the stretch Dusky Devil was leading Ted Clark by half a length. It was evident then that the race was strictly between them.

Dusky Devil had the rail and Ted Clark was on the outside. They fought it out in ding dong style from there until the finish, with Ted Clark getting up just in time to claim the decision.

When Miss Tulsa, from Jack Howard's stable, won the fifth race, a $4,000 claiming affair, she rolled up her sixth victory in seven starts on Chicago tracks.

Her triumph came after a thrilling finish and at the end of a very fast race. Miss Tulsa made all the early running, closely attended by Miss Melody, from the stable of Stuyvesant Peabody.

Heading into the stretch Jockey Westrope called on Miss Melody for everything she had. She sprinted forward in fine stride and headed Miss Tulsa a sixteenth of a mile out. The spurt had taken something out of her and Miss Tulsa, with something left, dashed back into the lead and got the decision by a head. Mountain Elk was third, but he never was a menace to the two leaders.

Track Record Totters.

Miss Tulsa was an odds-on favorite at $3.68 in the mutuels. Miss Melody was the second choice. Miss Tulsa skimmed over the 6½ furlongs in 1:18 3-5, which was two-fifths of a second off the track record, held by Minton.

One of the hottest tips of the Chicago season went out on the Audley farm stable's Signalman, a son of High Cloud-Sister Ship, in the 2 year old race which opened the program. The big chestnut was making the first start of his career, but everybody in the stands and clubhouse seemed to know he was a real runner.

In the early part of the battle Dogmata and Scotch Pepper outran him. They still were in front midway in the stretch and, as they were racing a trifle wide, Jockey Earl Pool on Signalman found the opening and sent Signalman through it. Signalman was the winner by a length, with Dogmata second and Scotch Pepper third.

Signalman was the favorite and paid $5.28. He moved about his work like a real good colt and it is possible he might be a late season 2 year old sensation.

Indian Runner, owned by D. A. Woods of Benton, Ill., must pack the largest weight package in the $7,500 Illinois Owners' handicap, to be run at Hawthorne Saturday.

Racing Secretary Joseph McLennan announced the weights for the race yesterday. He burdened Indian Runner with 126 pounds as a result of the two stake victories the downstate horse scored at Arlington Park.

Abraham Bartelstein's Polydorus was assigned 120 pounds and Watch Him, from the stable of Mrs. John Hertz, 114 pounds. No More and Dyak get in with 110 pounds. The weights scale down to 90 pounds, assigned Dody, owned by the Chappel Brothers of Rockford.

Horse against horse wagering was on soon after the weights for the Illinois handicap were announced. Most of the Illinois owners were cooling their heels in the hall leading into Secretary McLennan's office for an hour before the weights were announced.

SIGNALMAN, away fast and steadied along while slightly outrun and racing wide on the turn, responded to strong urging after reaching stretch and, coming through on inside, won drawing out. DOGMATA had speed from the start, swerved out badly after reheading SCOTCH PEPPER in final eighth, and could not withstand winner. SCOTCH PEPPER, under mild restraint until reaching stretch, weakened after getting to front and was tiring when impeded by DOGMATA.

FIDDLER, away slowly and lucky, came through on inside in stretch and weakened after getting to front, but lasted. SAD KNIGHT lost ground throughout and failed to withstand winner after gaining the lead, but held on well and was strongest of the two leaders in final strides. GUNFIRE bore out badly when entering stretch and weakened in closing strides.

COEQUEL took command quickly, was snugged along on the turn and, maintaining her speed in improved fashion when under fire entering stretch, won easily. SOCIAL SERVICE, a strong factor from the start, weakened near end, but outstayed MISS FLIP. Latter, taken far out of it in first quarter, made up much ground with a rush on stretch turn and continued to improve her position while bearing in badly in stretch.

Winner trained by A. Pelletert. Went to post at 3:31. Off at once. Start bad from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

SISTER ZOE, away fast, but taken back and rated off the pace, bettered her position gradually after reaching final three-eighths and drawing into command, won under mild hand riding. PEACE LADY, away poorly and allowed to recover, got out in front entering stretch, lost ground when working her way up and closed determinedly. REVERBERATE, slightly forced back on far turn, came out when entering stretch and could not withstand the final leaders, but outzamed SUN TEATIME.

MISS TULSA, away fast and nicely rated, had the speedy pacer and failed to withstand MISS MELODY'S rush, but held on gamely after being headed and outgamed the latter in the closing thirty yards. MISS MELODY, steadied along the first half mile, went to the front with a rush, but weakened and was outfinished in closing stages. MOUNTAIN ELK could not keep up after reaching final five-sixteenths, but was best of others.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Ted Clark [entry], $20.94 straight, $5.48 place, $4.10 show; Dusky Devil, $3.22 place, $2.38 show; One Chance, $5.62 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:21. At post 3 minutes. Start good for all but Edith A. from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

TED CLARK, going in his best form and hustled along from the start, appeared to crowd DUSKY DEVIL before drawing clear approaching the far turn and, holding on stubbornly, got a close decision. DUSKY DEVIL, probably best and taken back when in close quarters approaching the far turn, worked his way to front under strong handling, then weakened. ONE CHANCE showed a good effort.

Winner trained by W. Sims. Went to post at 4:45½. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

BEAVER, much the best and quick to get going, drew away fast on the second turn and, continuing strongly, retained his advantage, winning easily. BLACK FOOL lost ground throughout and held on with good courage. SCANDAL SHEET began fast, but was taken back under mild restraint, rallied mildly when entering the stretch, but weakened in the late stages.

Winner trained by J. R. Gregory. Went to post at 5:11. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

ALL HAIL, fractious at the post, but away well, saved much ground during the early stages, came out on the stretch turn and, wearing down GAILLARDIA, outstayed CHOKOLOSKEE. Latter, best, but probably too heavy headed for his small rider, raced wide throughout and, closing strong, just missed getting up. GAILLARDIA had good speed, was well rated, and weakened in the final eighth.

Chief Abbedale Sweeps Circuit Pace Feature

Salem, N. H., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Chief Abbedale, black son of Abbedale, racing in the colors of J. T. Mallory of Oakland, R. I., swept to a triple victory in the 2:17 class pace, feature event of today's Grand Circuit program at Rockingham Park.

With Charlie Mabrey driving, the Chief led his half brother Hal Abbe, owned by the Hadley brothers of Danville, Ill., and handled by Dr. Hugh Parshall, to the wire in decisive fashion in 2:02, 2:04 and 2:01¼. The Rhode Island horse shattered his own record in his final start over the mile oval.

The Hanover Farms' brown colt Laurel Hanover, of Hanover, Pa., trotted to a double victory in the $1,500 event for 2 year olds with the veteran Harry Brusie holding the reins. Dr. Parshall drove Counterwin to a second place in the opener and Highland Millie, with Harry Stokes driving, was runnerup in the second heat. Summaries:

JUDGE PERMITS SUIT AGAINST INSULL CHIEFS

37 Millions Will Be Asked in Action.

Suit to recover $37,000,000 alleged to have been "fraudently and unlawfully" dissipated, will be started shortly against the former officers and directors of the defunct Corporation Securities company, Insull investment firm.

STANLEY FIELD.

Referee in Bankruptcy Garfield Charles yesterday authorized Trustee Sam Howard to proceed with the suits. Ashcraft & Ashcraft, attorneys for the trustee, who have spent several months in preparing the case, will bring the action.

The officers and directors subject to the recovery suits are:

Expect Immediate Action.

It is expected that suit will be begun immediately against the former directors now living in Chicago, which will include all except Samuel and Martin J. Insull. The latter are fugitives, and are residing in foreign countries. Samuel Insull Jr. is now assistant to the chairman of the three metropolitan district utility companies.

Cases against the former directors have been in the process of preparation for months. The work has been carried on largely by Attorney Russell F. Locke of the firm of Ashcraft & Ashcraft, now counsel for the trustees. The firm first entered the case more than a year ago as attorneys for a noteholders' protective committee and later served as counsel for the receivers.

As the firm now has practically no assets of any value the compensation of the law firm will depend on its success in prosecuting the suits against the directors, several of whom are known to be wealthy.

Charge False Values.

Referee Charles' order was made on application of the law firm. The petition recites that an extensive examination and investigation of the books of the company have revealed "that large sums of money were expended by the corporation in the purchase of stock from June 11, 1930, to April 16, 1932, all pursuant to the direction of the officers and directors, and that in the opinion of the petitioner and his counsel, such purchases were made for the fraudulent and unlawful purpose of creating and maintaining a false and fictitious market value for the capital stock of the company."

Specific cases are set forth showing the purchases of large blocks of stock of the Middle West Utilities company, another Insull holding company, and the exchange of a large number of shares of Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for the capital stock of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., now bankrupt.

Charges Bad Business Trade.

The petition declares that the Peoples' Gas stock had a substantial market value and that the stock of Insull Utility was without value when the trade was made.

"In the opinion of the petitioner and his counsel, the petition concludes, "said bankrupt suffered the loss of huge sums of money—to wit: In excess of $37,000,000 . . . and the officers and directors are liable for the said loss."

43 Outlying Banks Adopt Uniform Day

In the future the 43 banks will open at 9 a. m. and close at 3 p. m. daily, including Saturday. At present the hours of business differ among the various banks. The five large downtown banks are already within the maximum hours set by the bankers' code. Business hours of the five institutions will remain unchanged.

The new schedule for the 43 banks, which includes the smaller banks located in the loop area, has been approved by the national recovery administration, according to a telegram received yesterday from A. D. Whiteside, deputy recovery administrator.

Suburbs Not Affected.

"An exception applying to the 43 outlying Chicago banks referred to in your telegram of Aug. 4 is permissible and in keeping with the fact and spirit of the President's reemployment agreement and the bankers' code," the message said.

Frank Rathje, treasurer of the Chicago chapter of the association, said that the suburbs are not affected by the ruling. The suburban banks will set up a schedule of their own for submission to the recovery administration.

Mr. Rathje said that the new schedule will result in some instances in reducing the present hours of business, but that in no case will it reduce employment in the banks affected.

Plan 40 Hour Week.

The new schedule will enable many banks to put into effect a 40 hour week for clerks, he said, without changing the number of workers.

Some outlying banks now close Wednesday afternoon. The present Saturday hours of business range from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. and 9 p. m. The new schedule will make the Saturday hours uniform among all outlying banks.

The five large loop banks will continue on the 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. schedule for week days and the 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. schedule on Saturdays.

WALGREEN SALES FOR JULY 9.8 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

Sales by the Walgreen company are continuing the increase which set in some time ago. For July, 1933, sales totaled $4,179,827, compared with $3,807,291 in July, 1932, an increase of $372,536, or 9.8 per cent.

For the seven months ended July 31, 1933, sales totaled $25,584,212, compared with $27,287,472 in the like period of 1932, a decrease of $1,703,260, or 6.2 per cent.

Sales for the July period do not include those made in the company's shops in the grounds of the Century of Progress. The number of stores in operation as of July 31 was 466. This was the same number operated at that time last year.

HANNAH & HOGG OPEN FIRST OF 25 LOOP BARS

The first of a proposed chain of 25 loop bars to bear the historic name of Hannah & Hogg, liquor purveyors from 1873 to 1919, has been opened at the Breevort hotel.

According to Louis Roeser of the H. & H. organization, the bars will be installed as soon as satisfactory locations can be found in the downtown district. All of the new bars will be modern in design.

New Treasury Bills Sell to Yield 32-100ths of 1%

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Subscriptions to the 75 million dollars of treasury 91 day bills which were offered last Thursday totaled more than 263 million dollars, Acting Secretary Acheson announced tonight. The average price at which the bills were sold was 99.919, the discount being equivalent to an average interest rate of about 32-100ths of 1 per cent per year on a bank discount basis.

GRAIN BOARDS DRAFT CODE TO STEADY PRICES

May Limit Swings, Size of Accounts.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Grain exchanges today responded to the demand of farm administrators for a code covering reforms intended to bring stabilization of prices. They informed administrators that on Wednesday they will submit a code of exchange practices which the farm officials plan to pass on as soon as possible.

The exchanges include those at Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Duluth, Omaha, St. Louis and others on the Pacific coast.

After the mid-July collapse in grain prices administrators called exchange representatives together here and George N. Peek, the chief administrator, told them that if they did not "put their houses in order" the administration would prescribe a code.

Several Provisions Expected.

Provisions of the exchange code, which will be submitted at a conference with administrators, were not revealed, but it is assumed it will include proposals that:

Exchanges adopt as a permanent policy of daily limitations on fluctuations of five cents a day on wheat, rye and barley; four cents on corn and three cents on oats.

Definite limits on the volume of futures which any individual can hold at one time—a point taken in response to the contention of Secretary Wallace that large individual holdings make "manipulation" possible.

Mr. Peek takes the position that exchanges can stabilize prices by changing their practices, and that if the alterations are not made voluntarily the farm administrators will prescribe a code for the grain industry, and the exchanges in particular.

Master Code Planned.

The administrators intend that the code for the exchanges shall be one of a group of supplemental codes covering branches of the grain industry, all of which will be brought under a master code. Other codes are being worked out by millers, terminal elevators, and country elevators.

Representatives of terminal elevators conferred with administrators today preparatory to submitting their code. Millers have been drafting one for several weeks and are expected to be ready to submit it formally next week. Representatives of country elevators are to appear here within the next ten days.

Irrespective of what the exchanges present, the farm act directors have authority to "write in" other provisions as they see fit before approving a code. It was said authoritatively that the requirements of administrators have not been worked out in detail and that they intend to ascertain what the exchanges will present voluntarily before deciding what they may consider necessary as additions.

Elevators to Raise Pay.

Representatives of the Terminal Elevator Grain Merchants' association, after discussing their proposed code with administrators, said the 77 members of the organization control approximately 300,000,000 bushels of terminal elevator storage space, about 80 per cent of the total in the country.

Approximately 5,000 men are employed by the elevators and the association spokesmen said their code would have the effect of increasing both employment and pay rolls.

The maximum hours for clerical and other "white collar" workers would be limited to 40 a week, with wage minimums from $14 to $15 a week, graduated with the size of the city.

For mechanical workers the same weekly hour limit would be set, with

That 'Bicycle Built for Two' Is Still Popular

The old fashioned tandem bicycle, popular back in the '90's and the early part of this century, is finding favor again according to Cycle Trades of America—an organization composed of bicycle and accessory manufacturers. After discontinuance of the manufacture of the old tandem bike, except on special order, for many years, July saw a renewal of the demand, the association stated. Production of ordinary bicycles in July totaled 45,000 units, compared with 12,000 in July, 1932—an increase of 275 per cent. The total for the first seven months was 145,000 units—a gain of 29 per cent over the like period of 1932.

Here's a story anent this machine age. The officials of a large manufacturing company recently were showing a party a complicated machine which does the work which it formerly required several thousand to do working by hand. "It takes six persons to operate it and we now find that it could have been designed so that only three would be necessary."

Night watchmen at loop banks are likely prospects for Republican proselytizing. Under the code as approved by the Chicago Clearing House association all nonexecutive workers earning less than $35 per week are to be put on a 40 hour week, except the night watchmen. Once locked in the bank at night, they have to stay until the doors are opened in the morning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—Sales of new passenger cars in the United States in July were approximately 63 per cent greater than in July last year, according to R. L. Polk & Co. July sales as estimated were only 2 per cent below those in June, thus far the peak month of the year.

The gain last month was 29 per cent above the best previous July, which was in 1925, when 42,000 units were shipped.

The estimate was based upon reports of sales in 103 leading cities. In these cities 58,000 new passenger automobiles were registered in an average of the first 26 days of the month. This was an average of 2,320 cars registered daily, as compared with 2,364 daily car registrations in the same cities in June.

On this basis it was indicated that total new passenger car sales in July in the country were 170,000, which would compare with 104,188 in July, 1932, and 174,190 in June, this year.

DOLLAR GAINS SLIGHTLY IN DULL TRADING SESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—The dollar recovered further in the foreign exchange market today. Trading was quiet and dull, being affected by the holiday in London. Sterling fell 1⅝ cents, to $4.48¼, the franc cheapened 2 points to 5.31 cents, and other exchanges were correspondingly lower save for the belga, which rose 2 points to 18.92 cents.

At the close the dollar was valued at 73.78 cents in terms of French gold compared with 73.51 cents Saturday.

Canadian dollars were ⅜ cent lower at 6⅝ per cent discount. Guilders reacted 20 points to 54.70 cents, and Swiss francs were off 10 points to 26.25 cents. Marks fell 12 points to 32.38 cents, and lire lost 3 points to 7.12 cents.

The lower tendency of the pound as compared with the franc late last week does not show, in the opinion of some experts, that the pound has been divorced from the franc, but it is interpreted to mean that the British support of the pound against the franc is slowing down and the British treasury is operating more cautiously in that respect.

Bankers Wait Figures as Key to U. S. Credit

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The treasury's announcement yesterday that the eight year 3¼ per cent bonds had been oversubscribed more than six times and that the two year treasury notes had been oversubscribed more than four times was viewed in Chicago banking circles as highly encouraging. Bankers, however, preferred to await the treasury's detailed report on subscriptions before attempting to interpret the response to the issue.

The key to treasury credit, they said, was not in the amount of the total subscriptions, but in the proportion of the issues which were taken by the general public.

* *

The attitude of the banks toward government bonds is widely known. They have invested heavily in short term issues and will continue to buy new short term securities as the old issues mature. In addition, they are in the market for a limited amount of longer term bonds, although they do not bind themselves to hold all such bonds that they may buy. Other institutions, notably insurance companies, are heavy purchasers of government bonds.

If the treasury is to refund into long term issues any considerable portion of the securities maturing during the current fiscal year, however, the investing public will have to buy bonds in tremendous quantities.

That is why bankers place more importance on the amount subscribed by the general public than upon the lumped figures of total subscriptions.

* *

Although business continues to forge ahead and pay rolls and employment are both growing, bank credit throughout the nation continues to contract. The federal reserve board's report on member banks in 90 principal cities, released yesterday, showed total bank loans and investments of 16 billion 557 million dollars on Aug. 2, a drop of 105 millions for the week.

Thus, instead of inflation, the nation has actually been experiencing further deflation as far as its principal banks are concerned. This shrinkage has been going on for months.

A large part of last week's decline in bank credit was due to a further decline of 128 million dollars in deposits, all save 5 millions of it a drop in demand deposits. Demand deposits have been falling off since the passage of the banking act of 1933 prohibiting payment of interest on them.

GEN'L MOTORS VOTES DIVIDEND, RAISES WAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—The board of directors of the General Motors corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock. At the same time the corporation announced in New York that all salaried employés will be given a 10 per cent pay increase, effective Aug. 1. An increase of 15 per cent in the hourly wage rate of employés was put into effect Aug. 1.

The dividend is payable Sept. 12 to stock of record Aug. 17. Common dividends have been paid by the company at the rate of $1 a year since June, 1932, when the rate was reduced to 25 cents quarterly from 50 cents. The regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock also was voted.

Dividend Expected.

While payment of the regular dividend on the common was expected generally, there has been some expectation in Wall street that the corporation might make a small extra payment on the 43,500,000 shares of common stock outstanding.

Those predicting the extra payment pointed out that the corporation, giant of leaders in the automobile world, earned more than $1 a share on the stock in the first half of 1933, which after the payment of two 25 cent quarterly dividends, left a balance of a little more than 50 cents a share available for additional dividends.

The earnings record of the General Motors corporation since 1931 was a reflection of the depression period with sales to dealers in all parts of the world declining sharply from the peak year of 1929.

Last Year Results Poor.

At the same time 1932 saw a sharp recession in other than automobile sales with the result that a $15,000,000 deficit was shown for the last two quarters of last year. That deficit practically wiped out the profits in the first half of the year, so that the corporation was able to show only $165,000 net income for 1932.

In the first three months of this year dollar volume of sales dropped 20 per cent more and after preferred dividends only 11 cents a share was earned on the common stock. In the June quarter 90 cents a share was earned, reflecting the sudden upturn in buying power.

Autos Will Strike Down 2,800 Today!

If 1932 averages are maintained, approximately 2,800 persons will be killed or injured by automobiles today.

And, on the basis of 1932 losses, these accidents will cost automobile owners more than $1,600,000.00, not including property damage!

New York, Aug. 7.—Advances in the higher coupon treasury issues featured quiet trading in United States government bonds today, while domestic corporation bonds eased moderately in desultory transactions and foreign issues were irregular as a group.

United Kingdom 5½s were actively traded in, losing fractional grounds on the day in fluctuations within half point range, while German government 7s and 5½s advanced in heavy trading. French issues were quite strong, but activity was light.

Foreign Issues Mixed.

Argentine, Cuban, and Chilean bonds were dull and weaker in the Latin-American section. Panamanian 5s were firm and Brazilians mixed. Canadians were strong, as were Australian 5s. Swiss 5½s also gained, while Italians eased. Dutch East Indies 6s, 1962, advanced along broad lines.

Railroad bonds were lower in average price, activity centering in Chicago and North Westerns, St. Pauls, Rock Islands, Nickel Plates, Eries, and Missouri Pacifics, which declined on the day. Atchisons were active and firmer, most other railroad leaders being mixed in price.

Tractions, Utilities Soft.

In the utility section, local tractions and communications issues generally lost ground on the day. Philadelphia Electric 4½s and a few other leaders declined slightly, while Consolidated Gas of New York 5s and 4½s gained ground. Utilities Power and Light 5s were depressed.

Among the industrials declines appeared in Warner Brothers Pictures 6s, Colorado Industrial, Sinclair Consolidateds, and some less active issues, while gains were scored by Shell Oil, Shell Pipe, Dodge Brothers, Armours, and Goodyears.

Crown Cork and Seal.

Investors' Guide: Will you please let me know what you think of Crown Cork and Seal?—Y. G. E.

Answer: Crown Cork and Seal company, Inc., one of the "wet" companies, is engaged principally in the manufacture of cork products, bottle filling and capping machinery and metal stoppers [crowns]. Acquisition of Detroit Gasket and Manufacturing company in 1931 provided for some diversification into the automobile industry.

The legalization of beer created a large and what promises to be a constant demand for the company's products from breweries. It has also stimulated the demand for machinery produced by the company.

On July 1, 1933, a press dispatch reported that all plants of the company were working full time and number of workers employed almost equaled the record level of 1929.

Net profit of $579,000 during the second quarter of 1933 more than wiped out the loss incurred during the first quarter. Sales for the first six months totaled $4,6.6,000 and net income was $481,000, or 74 cents per common share. During the corresponding 1932 period sales amounted to $3,971,000 and yielded a net of $220,000, or 7 cents per common share.

Current assets of $6,019,000, including cash of almost a million dollars, compared with current liabilities of $469,000 on June 30, 1933.

Sales dropped to $6,863,000 in 1932, against $9,100,000 in 1931, $9,691,000 in 1930 and $11,735,000 in 1929. Loss in 1932 was $21,000. Net income in 1931 was $699,000, or 80 cents per common share, against $1,116,000, or $2.39 per common share, in 1930. Net income in 1929 was $925,000.

Current assets on March 31, 1933, including cash assets of more than a million dollars, totaled $5,422,000, and current liabilities were $697,000.

Funded debt totals $4,390,000. There are outstanding 145,420 shares of $6 dividend no par preferred and 384,162 shares of no par common.

Debentures.

Investors' Guide: Please explain debenture bonds. What does the word debenture on bonds mean?—B. M. W.

Answer: A debenture is an unsecured promise to pay. In England, and in a few instances in the United States, the term is applied to stocks. The term debenture stock is synonymous with preferred stock.

Debentures and notes are similar. Generally, though, the term "debenture" indicates that the maturity of the obligation extends over a longer period than that of a note.

STOCKS WAVER IN DULL SESSION; FINISH STEADY

Leaders Advance a Little; Others Drift Lower.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 7.—Stocks exhibited a steady undertone in a sleepy session today but on the surface the market was irregular and somewhat ragged. Trading was resumed after Friday's gas attack with uncertainty the keynote of price movements and active issues put on a dreary performance of backing and filling with no definite direction.

An attempt at a rally toward the close steadied the list generally but failed to pry stocks out of their narrow rut. Recessions in every group appeared to offset small advances by a handful of leaders. Movements in either direction, however, were limited to fractions for the most part.

Turnover Under Million.

Trading was the dullest since the long spring rise started, with the turnover dropping under the million share mark on a full day's trading for the first time since the middle of April.

There was an obvious inclination to let the market drift along as it has since the wreckage of the July break was cleared away. Dullness was accepted as merely reflecting the absence of dramatic news developments and the street appears fully content to take a belated summer breathing spell. Many of the better known big scale operators are away on vacation, and those who remain on the scene, whether out of convenience or necessity, are doing little more than "looking on" for the present.

It is the consensus in brokerage rooms that there is a sizable volume of potential business in sight, but that prospective commitments are being held off pending some pickup in activity. Such commitments, it is said, lean heavily toward the buying side.

Chrysler Active, Higher.

Only a handful of stocks found sellers and buyers for as much as 10,000 shares. Chrysler was one of the most active and managed a net advance of more than a point. Others in the automobile group made scant progress. General Motors held fair buying interest while the street awaited the dividend verdict.

With another favorable repeal anticipated in Arizona tomorrow the "wet" stocks once more were popular, but only in spots. National Distiller was a buyer's favorite, and managed a small appreciation on the day, while Commercial Alcohol and United States Industrial Alcohol and some of the bottling shares were heavy.

The soggy action of railroads was disappointing. In addition to good traffic reports the group had the added benefit of the important news which came out Saturday relative to the general freight rate structure, but with the principal exception of Lackawanna the carriers worked down on the day.

A. T. & T. Advances a Little.

American Telephone was a bit better on the day, but other utilities, including Consolidated Gas, were in sore need of support.

United States Steel managed to keep close to its previous close and finished with a rise of a fraction. Du Pont was another strong issue among the pivotal industrials. American Can was unchanged on an insignificant turnover.

A clear indication of the dearth of speculative interest was the failure of individual stocks to respond to favorable news on their positions. Such was the case of F. W. Woolworth. Notwithstanding a distinct improvement in the July sales figures the shares of that important merchandising company were easier.
